DEFEAT TIGER, G. O. P. CRY IN EMPIRE STATE

Anti-Tammany Campaign Will Gain Republicans Little, Is Belief.

TUTTLE EDGE SEEN IN UPPER NEW YORK

Metropolis Will Tender Roosevelt 500,000 Majority, Claim.

DRY RIVAL CONCEDED BUT MEAGER CHANCE

Republican Choice Expected to Get Votes of Many Who Backed Smith.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

New York, Oct. 27.—The New York State Republicans now should, and there is reason to believe that they do, appreciate the feelings of the Democrats when they shouted until they were blue in the face about national corruption in 1924, but without avail to themselves.

It is incomprehensible to them why the Democrats should not be kicked clean out of New York State. An aroused citizenry should, as they see it, just rear itself and smite Tammany and everybody who is dependent upon it for political sustenance. Virtually every one of the New York City newspapers, including the very Democratic New York World, seem to share the same view.

Positions of Newspapers.

The Sun has come out for Gov. Roosevelt because of his "progressive" policies on water power and other things, mainly water power, one might think. The World has said sort of feebly now and then that, of course, Roosevelt is not Tammany Hall, but it can't get over the fact that Roosevelt has not bawled Tammany out. And there may be, or there may not be, a sinister meaning in its statement that Roosevelt will be in New York City for the last days of the campaign and that then, of course, he will make it the occasion of saying what he thinks about Tammany.

The sort of veiled threat lies in the fact that Roosevelt is not likely to do anything of the sort. Several years ago Roosevelt was in a knock-down-and-drag-out fight with Tammany. Tammany was, he said, a stench in the nostrils of decent men, or words to that effect. Those were the days when he was very courageous as a citizen, but not perhaps as politically wise.

Well, Mr. Charles H. Tuttle, the Republican gubernatorial candidate, now asks, and very fairly, I think:

Judge Who Shoots Dice.

"Has Tammany changed or has Gov. Roosevelt changed?"

On the question of whether Tammany has changed every newspaper in New York cries daily and not alone in its editorial columns, but in its news columns: "No, it hasn't changed; it's gotten worse," or one might say carelessly, "even worser." The business of selling judgeships, or of judges shooting craps, one would think to be most injudicial.

The judicial investigations which they have been having around here, and they seem to have a flock of them, ran across one magistrate whose bank account ran ahead of his income, and he explained, but slightly embarrassed, that the added income came from shooting craps. Now shooting craps is something that even I do not like because to win you've got to beseech the dice, you've got to talk to them, plead with them; indeed, to impart your very life into them. It works up a nervous perspira-

Calvin Coolidge

Says: The conditions in many parts of the world ought to have a very sobering effect on the people of the United States. There are dictators in Spain, Poland and Italy. Chronic revolution has devastated China. Russia is prostrate. India is filled with unrest. Australia is in acute financial difficulties. Nearly all of South America has overturned its governments by force. Both Great Britain and Germany are feeling the pressure of heavy taxation and unemployment.

We can not escape bearing some of this burden. We must face the fact that we are an integral part of the world. But because we are affected by the weakness of other people is no reason for discarding the system that has made us so strong. The credit of the Nation and State governments never before stood so high. The national debt and taxes are being constantly reduced. We have some unemployment but the Department of Labor estimates that 41,500,000 of our people are gainfully employed. Our banks are filled with money. We have met the test of adverse world conditions and completely demonstrated that fundamentally we are sound. We have the resources for any emergency. The thing for us to do is to stand firm.

MUSSOLINI SOUNDS TOCSIN TO FASCISTS

World War of Calumny Is Being Waged Against Italy, Duce Says.

SEES CONFLICT THREAT

Rome, Oct. 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Fascism will be established as the universal form of government throughout Europe within two decades, Prime Minister Benito Mussolini predicted today in an address delivered in Venezia Palace on the eve of the eighth anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome.

The triumph of Fascism will come, Italy's dictator declared, despite the fact that most of Europe is already waging "moral" war, the forerunner of military war, on the present regime in his country.

Then, as thousands of Black Shirts cheered themselves hoarse, Il Duce, in characteristic phrases, challengingly flung down the gauntlet of Fascism to "a world on the decline."

"The longer the regime lasts," he orated, "the more the anti-Fascist coalition will resort to desperate means. The fight between the two spheres of belief admits of no compromise. The new cycle, beginning with the year 9, throws into even sharper relief the dramatic alternative: either us or them—either their ideas or ours—our state or theirs!"

The head of the Fascist state went on to urge all Italians, officials and populace alike, to gird themselves for the coming struggle with the enemies of Fascism. Turning to a group of heads of government departments and addressing himself directly to Giovanni Giuriati, newly appointed secretary of the Fascist party, he said:

"You are charged with the purification of Italian Fascism. You must be lenient only to the black shirts whose service antedates 1922, to comrades who are ready to risk their lives for Fascism, not to the heroes of the sixth day who have come to Fascism now that the time of tempest is past and who are capable of cutting the cord if such time returns."

Indicating what he meant by the "purification of Fascism," Mussolini went on to declare that in 1932, the tenth anniversary of the march on Rome, there will be held here "the greatest armed gathering Rome has seen in its 3,000 years of history"

BRITAIN, JAPAN, U. S. HAIL PACT, NOW LAW

LOOK TO FRANCE, ITALY

The London Naval Treaty, conceived by President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald, of Great Britain, as they sat on a log and chatted at Rapidan a year ago, became an international law binding three great nations yesterday when instruments of ratification were deposited in the British Foreign Office.

In an international radio broadcast, President Hoover, Prime Minister MacDonald, and Premier Hamaguchi, of Japan, hailed the ceremony as a momentous chapter in the history of human civilization.

The treaty, they said, would bring an end to the expensive and dangerous race in naval construction, and would carry the world a long way toward the goal of peace and security.

"Never again must a race in naval armaments be allowed," President Hoover said.

If the limitations in construction established by the London Treaty are maintained, the President said, future international conferences will find it easier to bring about further steps in reduction.

The President and Prime Minister MacDonald joined in expressing the hope that France and Italy would see fit to sign the treaty and thus join in the movement to end competitive building.

Premier Hamaguchi saw in the London Treaty a "prelude to still greater triumphs" for the lofty cause of international peace and friendship.

President Hoover talked into a microphone that had been set up in the Cabinet room of the White House. Before he began he had listened to the speeches of Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Hamaguchi.

Afterward, Secretary of State Stimson, who, with the President, had listened to the speeches from London and Tokyo, sent cablegrams of congratulation to Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Hamaguchi.

To Mr. MacDonald he sent this message:

"The President and I have just been listening with great interest and

Bulgarian Officials Unable to Communicate With Royal Craft in Mediterranean; News Sought at Port of Piraeus.

Sofia, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The Bulgarian royal yacht, Czar Ferdidand, bringing home King Boris and Queen Giovanna of Bulgaria after their marriage last week at Assisi, has been caught in a great storm in the Mediterranean, and officials here tonight were unable to communicate with the yacht.

The government has telegraphed for news to the port of Piraeus, Greece.

Previously messages had been received from Greece saying that a storm in the eastern Mediterranean had greatly delayed the royal yacht, which had passed through the canal of Corinth with great difficulty.

Then it was reported the yacht had taken refuge near shore. Her situation since then is unknown.

The yacht set sail from Brindisi, Italy, yesterday with its royal passengers.

Minister of Agriculture Vassileff said the royal couple had been expected to arrive at the Black Sea port of Verna on Wednesday and in Sofia on Thursday, when the Bulgarian ceremony would take place in the cathedral.

Cannon Suffering From Breakdown

Bishop in Hospital Here After Facing Accusers in Richmond.

Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, h suffered a breakdown.

He was a patient in Sibley Hospital yesterday for "rest and quiet" after his admittance there secretly on Saturday, the day after his return from Richmond, Va., where he faced his four accusers in the church who have leveled charges of a serious nature against him.

Dr. Roy Lyman Sexton, his physician, has issued instructions that the bishop can see no one and the order is being rigidly enforced. The nature of the breakdown was not made public, although his private nurse intimated that the clergyman might be out "within a few days."

100,000 WATCH DARING STUNTS AT NAVY YARD

LOS ANGELES, ZMC-1 CIRCLE OVER CAPITAL

MODEL MARINE CAMP FEATURE OF EXHIBITS

Programs Held Throughout City, Climaxed by Ball at Press Club.

Exhibiting a new bag of stunts, perfected after months of practice, aerial acrobats from Anacostia and Quantico, Va., put on the feature attraction of a comprehensive Navy Day program that drew 101,183 persons to the navy yard yesterday. From early morning until late afternoon thousands thronged the yard to inspect the cruisers Marblehead and Raleigh; to see planes catapulted from their decks and to inspect the workshops and exhibits depicting the Navy's work on land, sea and in the air.

Similar programs were carried out in every seaport of the land, while citizens of inland points heard the glories of the Navy recounted over the radio by Secretary Adams, Rear Admiral William L. Rodgers, and other high officials. Admirals, captains, and commanders appeared in key cities of the Nation to explain the functions of the Navy and its past

"Open House" Observed.

The navy yard observed "open house" from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., and while children and adults were swarming over the spick-and-span cruisers, polished and groomed for the occasion, "The Three Flying Fish" from the Anacostia Air Station caused many stiff necks by zooming through the most intricate maneuvers ever seen here. Six Marine Corps fliers from Quantico put on an equally dazzling exhibition, while the dirigible Los Angeles and the all-metal blimp ZMC-1 cruised over the city dipping gracefully above the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Several hundred marines, sailors and Boy Scouts guided visitors through the Navy Yard, the foundry, the model Marine camp and from stem to stern of the battle cruisers. By early afternoon more than 70,000 persons had entered the gates, and after the Government offices closed at 4:30 o'clock the number of visitors went slightly above 100,000, to establish an all-time record attendance.

Several thousand persons also visited the Anacostia Naval Air Station, but the program centered at the yard, just as the national observance centered on Washington. The Navy Band played throughout the day and led a parade in the morning.

Deep-Sea Diving Seen.

Among other attractions were parachute jumps, exhibitions of deep-sea diving and an exhibition guard mount.

Numerous patriotic organizations cooperated in making the observance the most outstanding in the nine years since its inception. Lieut. Comdr. Richard W. Gruelick, of the Bureau of Navigation, delivered an address at 11 a. m. before the Dames of the Loyal Legion at Dupont Circle, and exercises were held at noon at the John Paul Jones statue, near the Tidal Basin, with Commander F. C. Sherman delivering the principal address.

Wreaths were laid by Maj. Charles E. Demonet, of the Military Order of the World War; Admiral T. J. Cowie, representing the Washington Sojourners, and Commander T. V. Templeton, of the Peary Ship, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The United States Marine Band concluded the ceremony with "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The Knights of Columbus held services at the John Barry statue in

"The MAN in the GREEN HAT"

Capitol Tipplers Had Weakness For Rye, Bourbon, Says Cassiday

Several Haggled About Price Bootlegger Demanded.

By GEORGE L. CASSIDAY, "The Man in the Green Hat."

Many people would think that the dome of the Capitol would have a sobering influence on any one, no matter what his personal habits and beliefs might be. From my experience, however, the reverse is true.

The Capitol and the House and Senate Office Buildings are to senators and representatives just what a private office building is to the business or professional man. What goes on in the privacy of these offices corresponds to what goes on in the business man's office. Many representatives and senators are not permitted to take a drink at home and have to get it at the office or go without.

If there is any difference between members of Congress and other people in their personal habits and tastes, I didn't see it in ten years in and about Congress.

All the old familiar names and labels are among the brands delivered and consumed on Capitol Hill. Among them were some whiskies which take you back to the old days when you could get them over the counter and nobody had a right to ask any questions about it.

I think the best and most popular brand on the "Hill" was Old Anderson. That was the most widely liked when I started work in congressional circles. It continued to occupy a prime place with nearly all the members with whom I came in contact, and if it is possible to get it now it probably still remains the most appreciated on Capitol Hill.

Another favorite which was held in high esteem and always will be, is Green River. All the Kentucky and bourbon brands were in great favor, I found early in my career. I had an excellent opportunity to judge, too, for a good part of my business depend-

WET REFERENDUM URGED BY RASKOB

Chairman in Talk on Radio Gives 6-Point Program for Democrats.

FAVORS FIVE-DAY WEEK

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—A national referendum on prohibition was advocated tonight by Chairman Raskob, of the Democratic national committee, in a radio address outlining a six-point program for the Democrats "if they were in power."

Speaking over the National Broadcasting chain, Mr. Raskob also urged a five-day week for workingmen and asserted no country in the world "was ever in as splendid position to go forward and enjoy a period of prosperity as our country is today." He added that "business is now turning upward."

In addition, the Democratic national chairman advocated hearings by the Federal Trade Commission to determine in advance whether proposed combinations were desirable, abolishment of the capital gain and capital loss tax, taking the tariff out of politics, and caution by Congress in making sure proposed legislation "squares with good economics" in an effort to promote prosperity.

"The Republicans ask what would the Democrats do if they were in power," Mr. Raskob said. "I gladly suggest some of the things to be done."

Mr. Raskob, a director of the association against the prohibition amendment, said there was "no one in this country that can have any misgivings as to where I stand on the prohibition question." He added, "there seems to be very little serious attempt to really enforce."

"It is a sorry plight indeed," he continued, "to see sincere and well intentioned men in the ministry and good men and women in other walks of life, whose mission is to teach and develop the best in all of us, unconsciously working hand in hand with bootleggers and racketeers in an effort to deny the people of the United States an opportunity to vote on this great social experiment after a 10-year trial.

PINCHOT PLOT PLEA DISMISSED IN COURT

RAILROAD MAKES DENIAL

Philadelphia, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The petition of Gifford Pinchot, Republican candidate for governor, and his associates, who sought to prevent the Republican city committee from collecting and distributing campaign funds and to prevent the issuance of watchers' certificates to that body, was dismissed today by comman pleas court.

Judge William C. Ferguson, who with Judge Raymond MacNeille, handed down the decision, characterized the petition as "scandalous, impertinent and frivolous in the extreme."

No statement was immediately forthcoming from Mr. Pinchot, who is campaigning in the western part of the State. S. Davis Wilson, city campaign manager and counsel for Mr. Pinchot, announced, however, that an appeal would be taken at once to the State supreme court.

Forty-six of the 48 city committeemen who recently bolted Mr. Pinchot's candidacy and the three county commissioners were named as defendants in the suit, which alleged that an "unlawful conspiracy" existed between member of the Philadelphia Republican organization and public utilities and other corporations to support John M. Hemphill, Democratic-Liberal gubernatorial candidate.

In dismissing the petition, Judge

Cedar Hills Park Cemetery to Be Resting Place of Unknown Motor Crash Victim, Once Interred in Grave of Hero.

More than a month afte rhis death in an automobile accident at Bradshaw, Md., on September 14, the body of a man once buried by mistake in Arlington National Cemetery and later exhumed when the error was discovered, at last will find its last resting place in Cedar Hills Park today.

At the time of the crash, which occurred in a stolen automobile, the man's identity for a time was shrouded in mystery. A few days later, however, he was identified as Robert Marcy, a World War veteran, of Lyonhurst, Va., and under that name he was buried in Arlington.

Four days later, however, Mr. Marcy returned to his home and denied that he was dead. The body which had been buried was exhumed and brought to the District morgue, where it lay for six weeks, during which it was viewed by thousands of persons who sought in vain to identify missing relatitves or friends.

Until late last night the District Health Department was at a loss on how to overcome the fact that one death certificate for the man alread had been signed in Maryland. At 10 o'clock last night, however, it was decided to issue a new certificate of death for an unknown victim of a motor crash, and the paper was signed by Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, who turned it over to W. W. Chambers, mortician, who will supervise the burial.

A plot in the cemetery has been donated by the Cedar Hills Park Co., and Dr. Gearhort Lenski, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, will preach the funeral service at 10 o'clock this morning.

St. Louis to Consider $200,000 Relief Fund

St. Louis, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Three hundred industrial leaders have been invited by Mayor Miller to a conference on unemployment Thursday.

He will outline his plan for appropriating $200,000, to be spent during this winter in providing temporary jobs at $2 a day, for needy men who have lived here at least a year. The conference will be asked to form a committee which would handle the fund, also receive donations of food, clothing and fuel.

JURORS TO SEE COURT CLERK FIRE WEAPONS

Accused Will Go Free If Prosecution Ace Fails, Collins Says.

DEFENSE WILL ASK ACQUITTAL VERDICT

Epochal Experiment Takes Place at 20th Marines' Headquarters.

The trial of Herbert M. Campbell, accused of the murder of Mary Baker, will today resolve itself into another trial—the trial of ballistics as an exact science.

Twelve men, in the hands of whom rests the fate of Campbell, also will decide whether ballistics shall be established as infallible or whether it will be thrown into the discard so far as court evidence is concerned.

Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins will close his case today. Defense attorneys will immediately ask for a directed verdict of acquittal. Charles Henry Smith, chief defense counsel, who has been ill for two days, expects to be in court today to outline the defense of Campbell in the event their request is denied.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins is permitting an unusual procedure, in that he apparently will allow the Government to close before the cross-examination of Col. Calvin Goddard is completed. In the event that the directed verdict motion is denied, Col. Goddard will be brought to the stand when he completes his gun tests.

Col. Goddard, Government expert, calls the proposed tests "the greatest opportunity in the history of ballistics." Mr. Collins has announced that if Col. Goddard fails in his tests, he will request the court to direct a verdict of acquittal for the accused.

Five Guns to be Used.

Under an agreement between Lucien H. Vandoren of the defense counsel and Mr. Collins, five guns, including the Campbell pistol, will be used in the epochal tests which will begin in the headquarters of the Twentieth Marines at 10 o'clock today.

Each of the four new guns must be of .32-caliber and must be the product of the same manufacturers. In the presence of the jury, Court Clerk Wesley Gardner, will fire two bullets from each gun, including Campbell's, into a cotton-packed "bullet catcher," which is a small wooden chamber or a basket. Col. Goddard will be excluded during the firing. Dr. Albert H. Hamilton, defense expert, may be present if he chooses.

When the bullets have been fired they will be marked in pairs, the two fired from each gun will be similarly marked. Only the jury and Mr. Gardner will know what the identification marks on the bullets are. The slugs will then be given to Col. Goddard. He, in accordance with his challenge, will try to determine which bullets were fired from the same pistol. If he errs, Campbell will go free. If he fulfills his challenge, Campbell's fate will no doubt rest with the jury after presentation of his defense.

Test to Take Two Days.

Col. Goddard will take the test shots to the Bureau of Standards, where he will complete his examination and classification of the bullets. This process, according to Government counsel, will take at least two days.

Mr. Hamilton may watch Col. Goddard in his work if he chooses, says Mr. Collins.

Lieut. John H. Fowler, ballistics expert of the Police Department, set out yesterday afternoon to gather the four additional pistols to be used in the tests. Under the agreement all revolvers in the test must have a "right twist," that is, the barrels of the guns must be so bored as to spin the bullet toward the right when it is ejected.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Ammunition for the tests will be obtained by Dr. Hamilton. He will deliver the bullets to court in a sealed package certified by the dealer. The ammunition will be of .32-caliber U. S. black powder, which is the same as that Campbell turned over to police with his gun.

If Col. Goddard is successful, a comparison microscope, by means of which one may look at two objects through the one eyepiece, will be brought into court and he will be asked to demonstrate to the jury just how he arrived at his decision.

At Mr. Smith's home last night it was said that he had received permission from his physician to resume his work in the trial. Cross-examination of Col. Goddard was postponed as a result of Mr. Smith's illness. Mr. Collins has indicated that if Mr. Smith is agreeable, the defense may begin its case after the rest of the Government witnesses testify, and Col. Goddard could be cross-examined later.

Stipulations Are Set.

Final plans for the Goddard gun test were outlined after Mr. Vandoren and Mr. Collins had held a prolonged consultation in Justice Jesse C. Adkins' chambers, regarding stipulations.

The revised arrangements are the result of the sensational challenge hurled at the defense on Friday by Mr. Collins, which was at first accepted by Mr. Smith and later modified.

Virtually the only differences in the original challenge and the new plan are the requests by the defense that Campbell's gun be included; that the barrels of all have the same "right twist" as the Campbell gun has, and that the guns be of similar manufacture.

Earlier in the day Lieut. Fowler had secured three .32-caliber pistols, two of which are of Spanish manufacture, and one a Smith & Wesson. Lieut. Fowler said that one of these pistols is almost identical with that of Campbell's weapon, which is of Spanish manufacture.

Defense Expert Objects.

These guns, however, were ruled out by Dr. Hamilton, who said that they were all of different manufacture, that a different rifling process was used in the manufacture of each and that "any one in the courtroom would be able to distinguish which bullets were fired from them."

In connection with Dr. Hamilton's examination of these three guns, a slight dispute arose between Dr. Hamilton and Mr. Collins when the former tried to insert the nose of a bullet in the muzzle of one of the guns, to obtain an impression of the rifling.

The incident occurred in the witness room during the afternoon recess. Mr. Collins informed the judge that he had objected to the procedure.

Objection by Collins.

When Mr. Collins observed that Dr. Hamilton might alter the rifling at the muzzle, he immediately protested. Dr. Hamilton explained that he merely wanted an impression of the rifling. Mr. Collins asserted that the defense expert had no right to touch what might become Government evidence.

Dr. Wilmer Souder, another Government expert, who identified the Campbell gun as the death weapon, was placed on the stand early in the day.

"With reference to the mortal bullets in this case, what did you determine?" asked Mr. Collins after he had qualified his witness.

Mr. Vandoren objected to the question, but was overruled.

"I concluded that the death bullets passed through this gun," he said, pointing to the Campbell revolver on a table near him.

"Is there any doubt in your mind regarding it?"

"No," he answered emphatically.

Dr. Souder Outlines Test.

Mr. Collins' examination of the expert revealed that he had examined ten or twelve guns in connection with the Baker murder, and the Campbell gun was the only one in which he submitted an affirmative report.

Dr. Souder explained that he was a member of several scientific organizations. In connection with his work in ballistics, he said, he had visited many munitions plants in this country and had examined equipment for ballistics identification in many large police departments of the country.

Dr. Souder then explained the instruments used in ballistics identification. He pointed out that test bullets are fired into cotton waste. A mortal bullet and a test bullet are each placed under a microscope.

Then, through a single eye-piece, he said, the expert may view both bullets and compare them. The object is, he pointed out, to find scratches that correspond on the death and mortal bullets. There are two types of scratches, he said. "One class is caused," he said, "by markings on the interior of the barrel. The second class is caused by rust and powder in the barrel."

Finer Markings Important.

Dr. Souder is concerned with the finer marking, rather than the more definite markings, because the finer scratches lead to more definite conclusions.

"Is a comparison microscope essential to your work?" asked Mr. Collins.

"Absolutely essential," he replied.

Mr. Collins then introduced in evidence, over objection of Mr. Van Doren, five pictures, which Dr. Souder said, showed how test bullets from Campbell's gun coincided with the mortal bullets.

These pictures were arranged in a strip. On each exposure was a thin black line showing where the portion of the mortal bullet coincided with the portion on the test bullet. The pictures were a reproduction of what one would see if one looked into the eye-piece of the comparison microscope.

Pictures Are Different.

These pictures are vastly different to those submitted last week by Col. Goddard. The Chicago expert's pictures were separate exposures of the death bullet and the test bullet. In Col. Goddard's pictures a segment of one photograph was placed on another to show the similarity.

The accused manifested a keen interest in the Souder pictures. Dr. Hamilton, who viewed the photographs during recess, said that they were the best evidence introduced that would benefit the accused man.

He measured the difference in widths of the scratches on each of the bullets and said that it clearly demonstrated that Campbell's gun was not the death weapon.

Defense attorneys said they would use the pictures to demonstrate the dissimilarity of the bullets.

Objection by Vandoren.

Mr. Vandoren objected to introduction of the pictures on the grounds that "everything shown in the photograph can be depicted to the jury through a microscope, that the prints were obtained as a result of magnifying, focusing and reflecting images of the bullets in the microscope, that the process involved the human element of accuracy and therefore they were not competent evidence." His objection was overruled and an exception was noted.

Under cross-examination Dr. Souder said that the gun had been brought to him by Lieut. Fowler, who also brought several bullets.

"Who fired the test shots?" asked Mr. Vandoren.

"Lieut. Fowler."

Questions by Defense.

"These photographs best indicate to you that the evidence bullets were fired from this gun, is that it?" asked Mr. Vandoren.

"Yes," said Dr. Souder.

"Will you demonstrate to the jury where the lines on the bullets agree?"

Dr. Souder then pointed out to the jury that on one exposure there were 20 lines in agreement between the two bullets. In all the exposures he pointed out 79 agreeing lines and approximated that in all there were 150 lines in agreement between the death and mortal bullets.

"How long have you been doing this work, doctor?"

"Three years."

"Do you believe it to be an exact science?"

"I do."

"Do you measure the width of the scratches on these bullets?"

"No."

Competency Challenged.

It was evident that Mr. Vandoren was laying the basis for Dr. Hamilton's testimony. Dr. Hamilton's method is based on the theory that the only means of determining similarity between bullets is by measurement of width of scratches.

Dr. Souder explained various methods used in bullet identification. He added that the method of using the comparison microscope is the best.

Mr. Vandoren, stalking up and down before the witness, then began an assault on the competency of the witness.

"Has your opinion on ballistics ever been solicited by any foreign countries?"

"Yes."

First Time Souder Testified.

"Have you ever testified in any jurisdiction before?"

"No."

"Have you ever testified before?"

"No."

"As a matter of fact, this is the first case in which you have testified, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"That is all," said Mr. Vandoren, apparently satisfied.

Mr. Collins then took the witness and asked: "Why haven't you testified before?"

Mr. Vandoren objected and was again overruled, and an exception made and noted.

"Because the Bureau of Standards objects," said Dr. Souder, "it interferes with my work."

Compelled to Testify.

"Isn't it a fact," asked Mr. Collins, "that they objected in this case and would not permit you to testify until I insisted that you appear in court and had a summons served upon you?"

"Yes," replied Dr. Souder.

Court was then adjourned for the noon recess.

Lieut. Fowler was the first witness called in the afternoon. He testified that he had carried the gun from Sheriff Howard B. Fields, of Arlington County, who obtained it from Campbell, to the Bureau of Standards.

He also obtained six bullets with the gun. Lieut. Fowler's testimony differed from that of Sheriff Fields. The latter testified that three new and there old bullets were in the gun when Campbell gave it to him.

Other Cartridges Turned Over.

Lieut. Fowler said that all of the bullets were of old manufacture. He also testified that Campbell had turned over three other cartridges. In all, nine bullets were given authorities by Campbell. Two of these were used in tests at the Bureau of Standards, two were used by Col. Goddard, Dr. Hamilton fired one, three were in court and one is missing.

Robert L. Turnbull testified yesterday afternoon that he had seen a car parked on the night of April 11 at the point where the slain girl's automobile was found on April 12.

Throughout the day Campbell appeared in good humor. He laughed and joked with newspapermen and expressed confidence that he will be acquitted.

Prisoner Has Cold.

Mrs. Ruth Callahan Campbell, his wife, was at his side during the recess occasioned by the long conference in Justice Adkins' chambers.

Mrs. Campbell seemed solicitous for the health of her husband, who has contracted a cold since his incarceration in the District Jail.

Asked what he intends to do if acquitted, he replied: "I will open my miniature golf course in the spring. But you can bet your life that any advertising I do for it will be done in the advertising columns, not in the news columns. That's what got me in this mess."

Finds Ring After 23 Years.

Oronoco, Minn., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Twenty-three years ago Mrs. Rudolph Grossback, a farmer's wife, lost her wedding ring in a tub of water in which she was washing clothes. The water was thrown on a garden outside the house. This year she found the ring in the garden. It had been ploughed in and ploughed out of the ground for 23 years.

RIO POLICE AND REDS REVOLT; 100 INJURED

tained in the biggest of South American republics. For about two hours several districts of the capital were a battlefield for soldiers, sailors, marines and police. The casualties were estimated at more than a hundred, but the consequences were considered by leaders of the junta to be less serious.

The junta announced the movement had been effectually suppressed and charged it had been complicated by the actions of Communists, who took advantage of the confusion to start a movement of their own.

During the disorder and shooting, many armed citizens came to the aid of the troops, whose passage through the streets was hailed with cheers.

Dr. Getulio Vargas, outstanding insurgent leader, has completed plans for a journey to Sao Paulo and Rio de Janiero, where the military junta has been inviting him to become president of Brazil.

The insurgent chiefs in the north and in the south, rumored to be at odds because of past rivalry between Dr. VaVrgas and Capt. Juarez Tavora, northern military commander, are apparently greed upon the choice of Dr. Vargas for the presidency.

His supporteds allege he was fraudulently deefated in the presidential elections last spring, and consider him the constittuionally elected president. The platform of his government has been announced as that of the Liberal Alliance, whose candidate he was against Dr. Julio Prestes, now in hiding in Sao Paulo.

Rebel Captain Satisfied.

From Pernambuco today came word that Capt. Juarez Tavora, commander of the revolutionary armies in the north, was friendly to the junta now that rebel leaders were to be called to Rio. After President Luis had been ousted by the military and naval men late last week, the officer at first was critical, describing members of the junta as men who adhered to the revolution at the eleventh hour.

Capt. Juarez Tavora will go to Rio for the conference on a government, but in the meantime he has occupied Bahia and conducted a plebiscite that the people might elect a provisional government for the state. The voters chose Moniz Sodre, a former federal deputy now in Rio, who will leave here tomorrow to take over the state administration of Bahia.

A dispatch from Sao Paulo today said that Dr. Julio Prestes, who was chosen president in the elections last spring and normally would have taken office November 15, had taken refuge with the British consul general at Sao Paulo pending orders by the new government. He refused a statement and the consul's residence is strongly guarded.

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—For two hours today forces of the provisional government battled against a regiment of revolting military police and Communists who sought to fan disaffection in the resulting excitement.

When it was over, with the government in control, more than 100 casualties had been tallied.

For a time the outbreak threatened to become a menace to the military junta which on Friday ousted President Washington Luis and set up a provisional government, in the meantime awaiting the arrival of Getulio Vargas, rebel generalissimo, to take control.

Bombing From Overhead.

The military police regiment started the conflict and took over the central police station, firing indiscriminately. Firemen and city police at first were called to combat the revolters, their ranks quickly augmented by armed citizens.

Soon forces of the regular army double-timed through the streets or rushed up in motor trucks. They threw up barricades of sacked flour, beans, and sugar around the ministry of war, the central police station, and the foreign office, and also in the gardens along the bay near the Gloria Hotel.

Soldiers, sailors and marines manned the defenses, while military airplanes flew overhead, some of them acting as observers and others bombing the barracks of the revolting military police.

Reds Fire Wildly.

In the meantime the Communists, who attempted to lead riots protesting the city's food supply, obtained firearms and joined in the general melee, firing indiscriminately.

A number of the casualties were plain-clothes policemen who attempted to leave headquarters to combat the trouble.

The revolt was over in two hours, as the rioters had no chance after the strong government forces were unlimbered against them. The general population appeared to favor the provisional government, for loud cheers were heard as troops rushed through the streets to squelch the trouble.

Military Guards City.

For a few hours the city had a martial aspect, with automobile patrols covering the principal streets and sailors guarding all banks.

In the meantime the junta was attempting to preserve order while awaiting the arrival of Getulio Vargas and other leaders of the revolt which began October 3.

The junta officials asked Vargas to become provisional president after reports came from revolutionists in the field that the rebel aims must be realized, with Vargas directing the government. Vargas, who now is president of Rio Grande do Sul and chief of the revolutionary forces, was defeated for president in the elections last spring. His followers asserted the elections were fraudulent.

Junta Awaits Vargas.

While all fighting in the field has ceased, the revolutionary armies are planning to move upon Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro that the object of the revolt which began three weeks ago may be guaranteed. Officers already have gone ahead to arrange for billeting their men.

The junta issued a manifesto this afternoon saying that it was in control only until Vargas and other revolutionary leaders arrived. The members disclaimed any desire for office or personal glory.

Uncertainty in Sao Paulo.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Gen. Miguel Costa, commander of the revolutionary forces which have operated in the Sao Paulo-Parana sector for three weeks, issued a proclamation to the people of Sao Paulo today, advising them to remain calm and return to work, but the situation still is not entirely cleared. Commercial houses were virtually closed today, awaiting developments. Banks also were closed. The banks expect a decree which will declare a moratorium.

The rebel commander also has deposed all municipal authorities in the state, local representatives of the Liberal Alliance—the Vargas party—relieving them temporarily. It is expected that Dr. Morato will succeed Gen. Hastimphilo Moura, who took over the provisional presidency of the state Friday.

Arrangements were made today for the trip here by railroad of Getulio Vargas and his staff. After reaching Sao Paulo he will speed on to Rio to work out the new government.

Anxiety Felt for Briton.

London, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Considerable anxiety is felt in England over the safety of David Newman, a telegraph operator, who remained at his post last week after a mutiny by the 2,000 convicts on the lonely island of Fernando Noronha, off the Brazilian coast.

The only news received by his wife, who lives in Streatham, a London suburb, came last week when Newman indicated in a message that the convicts had been giving serious trouble. He expressed the hope that things soon would become settled.

"Since then I have heard nothing and the suspense is terrible," Mrs. Newman said today.

The convicts on Fernando Noronha have rebelled several times recently, the last revolt occurring Friday. At that time the provisional governor of the State of Rio Grande do Norte sent in an official to take charge of the island and it was said the trouble had been quelled.

JOBLESS SUFFERING, PRESIDENT IS TOLD

PATTERSON OFFERS AID

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was told yesterday that human suffering was appearing in the large industrial centers where the hands of willing workmen were idle in the unemployment crisis.

After a country-wide study of the situation, Allen Burns, executive director of the National Association of Community Chests and Councils, reported to the Chief Executive that steps were being taken to prevent any one freezing or starving during the rigorous winter months.

"Already," he told Mr. Hoover, "there is much human suffering in large industrial centers. Through the efforts of the several governments and relief organizations no one is going to freeze or starve this winter."

Situation in Ohio.

Financial programs of 220 cities having community chests have been increased about 7 per cent to care for the larger number of the needy, Burns said. About $55,000,000 is to be raised, and he explained collections indicated the campaign would be successful.

Burns made his report as the President's emergency committee for employment began its regional work of securing jobs and urging industry to assist in finding them.

Fred C. Croxton, of Columbus, Ohio, took up the study of the situation in Ohio and other Great Lake and Midwestern States where conditions were reported by Burns to be serious. The Ohioian will return to Columbus today with Dr. R. M. Gries, construction expert of the Commerce Department, to discuss with superintendents of State and city employment offices plans for finding work.

Approving a plan proposed by the New England council at Boston calling for the voluntary registration of persons wanting work, the committee forwarded the recommendation to six State manufacturers' associations in New England.

Patterson Offers Aid.

The committee was advised that the industrial section of the forthcoming sixth New England conference in Boston, beginning November 20, would devote itself exclusively to development of a program to mobilize all available work and applying it to the most needy workers.

An offer from F. B. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register Co., to lend his services and those of his company to aid in relief work was laid before President Hoover. Patterson expressed the opinion that the depression period had ended and business was now improving.

The War Department gave impetus to the relief measures by approving a plan of the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co. to deepen the lower reaches of Sauk River and Port Washington Harbor on the west shore of Lake Michigan in Wisconsin. The entire project calls for an outlay of about $25,000,000 in construction.

Inquest Ordered In Youth's Death

Weaver Davis, of Baden, Believed Victim of Hit-Run Driver.

A coroner's inquest will convene at the Marlboro, Md., courthouse Friday afternoon, to investigate the mysterious death of Weaver Davis, 19-year-old Baden, Md., youth who was found unconscious yesterday morning on the road between Brandywine and his home. He died in Casualty Hospital early yesterday of a skull fracture, internal injuries and leg fractures.

Sheriff Charles S. Early, of Prince Georges County, said last night he believed the boy had been struck by a hit-and-run driver while walking home. Mrs. Victoria Davis, the victim's mother, told the sheriff her son had left home with John Smith and Henry Brown, both of Brandywine. These youths denied seeing Davis, however.

The authorities are investigating a report that Davis was seen entering a coupe bearing District tags. The driver, a "short, stocky man," had offered to drive the boy to a point near his home, it was said.

15 CITIES' JOBLESS PROGRAMS PRAISED

Woods Holds Up Their Plans as Models for Rest of Country.

CHARITY IS NOT ENOUGH

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Programs to combat unemployment already undertaken by fifteen large cities were held up today as models for the rest of the country by Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the President's emergency committee.

He urged other cities to study the programs already worked out by New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Toledo, Salt Lake City, Flint, Mich.; St. Paul, Minn.; Seattle, Wash.; Milwaukee and Hartford, Conn., in the belief that they might find in one of them the plan that would best meet local conditions.

The outstanding feature of the programs he outlined was the principle that the unemployed man should be given a job instead of merely a loaf of bread.

Real Job Is Need.

Until the time that every man competent to work has a job there must be relief, he said, but the real problem is to find the job. He suggested that it ought to be a job that really needs to be done, not one that is artificially created.

Col. Woods is not pessimistic about the outlook. He believes conditions are better now, taking the country as a whole, than they were in 1921, when he headed President Harding's employment commission. But in spots, conditions are worse, he believes. He considers the Middle Western Lake States, New York and Pennsylvania to be the hardest hit.

He said that figures furnished him in Washington showed an estimated 3,500,000 persons out of work.

"We hope to shave that figure later," he said.

More Experts Help.

Col. Woods continued today to gather around him experts in various lines, many of whom helped him in his campaigns in 1921 and 1919. In the latter year he aided in finding jobs for returning World War veterans.

Two new appointments to his committee were announced—John B. Blandford, jr., of Cincinnati, to coordinate programs for relief undertaken by municipalities, and Edward L. Bernays to handle publicity for the committee, both men are serving without pay.

Mr. Blandford is head of the Bureau of Municipal Research of Cincinanti, whose permanent committee on employment is pointed to as a model other cities might well follow. Industrial, municipal and business programs are planned there a year ahead of time and the unemployment situation is said to be less acute than in many smaller cities.

New York at Work.

While Col. Woods was outlining his program of country-wide cooperation, the city of New York was busy putting its program into effect. Eight hundred men started to work tidying up the city's parks, drawing their pay from funds raised by a local employment committee.

As soon as funds are available 2,000 more will be added. The pay is $3 a day. Charitable organizations also speeded their efforts.

Figures obtained in the police poll of unemployed up to Saturday night were announced to day as 15,164, but Commissioner Mulrooney explained this did not represent the total unemployed in the city by many thousands.

REBELS RULE BAHIA, U. S. CONSUL CABLES

Warship Pensacola There; Rio de Janeiro Normal, Says Ambassador.

JUNTA'S FOES QUIETED

(Associated Press.)

A report that the revolutionists are in complete control at Bahia, Brazil, was received late yesterday by the State Department from Lawrence P. Briggs, American consul there.

The American cruiser Pensacola, sent to Brazilian waters to stand by in case of emergency, is at Bahia.

The communication said the former commander of the federal troops at Bahia, Coronata Liba Ossorio, was acting as provisional governor, and that Gen. Tavora, the commander of the revolutionists of northern Brazil, had arrived in Bahia and was demanding a new government.

The consul reported that in addition to the Pensacola a German cruiser, a British cruiser and two Brazilian warships, the Rio Grande do Sul and Sao Paulo, are at Bahia.

The Brazilian Embassy said last night it had received no communication concerning the situation.

Meanwhile Ambassador Morgan, at Rio de Janeiro, reported at 4 p. m. that city was normal and going about its ordinary business after the quick suppression of a demonstration by a portion of the Fifth Battalion of the military police against the junta yesterday morning. The demonstration caused some disturbance, but the ambassador reported that at its height he found no trouble in getting to the foreign office.

The report that quiet prevailed at Sao Paulo and that the cities of the interior were installing new administrations was received from the American consulate at Sao Paulo.

'Buy Now' Urged To Help Jobless

Chamber Group Will Meet at Noon Tomorrow to Press Campaign.

The Buy Now committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce will meet at noon tomorrow in the chamber's headquarters, it was announced yesterday by George A. G. Wood, chairman of the group.

Mr. Wood issued a statement, in which he pointed out that the slogan "Buy Now for Better Business" expresses a hope which can be realized. Referring to the unemployment situation, he said a man willing to work should be given the opportunity.

In this connection, he urged all able to buy to purchase now, so the wheels of industry may be accelerated and employment afforded.

Wilbur Says Hoover Must Have Party's Aid in Fight Against Depression.

RADIO BROADCASTS TALK

(Associated Press.)

Election of a Republican Congress on November 4 to cooperate with President Hoover in bringing about business recovery was urged last night in a radio address by Secretary Wilbur.

Speaking over the National Broadcasting chain, the Secretary of Interior asserted "if we were to seek the world over for that man most competent to help us in our present situation we would find him in the White House."

"Two years from now," he added, "we can shift captain and crew if it seems wise, but now we must not commit the folly of defeating ourselves by paralyzing our leader. The test I ask you to put to yourself when you vote for a senator or representative is this:

"Will he support President Hoover in every effort to carry our country through the difficult years ahead or will he block the game? Which do you want, guided progress or increasing confusion?"

Mr. Wilbur said: "The pressing question before us in this election is whether we will choose men and women who will back the captain who inevitably must navigate our ship of state for the next two years through the troubled waters before us.

"Is it wise to risk a crew who may mutiny?" he asked. "This is the time for team play, not the time to fight out petty and local problems, of which we can always find a plenty. We must not be blinded to the facts. They stand clear before us. We want a strong, harmonious team to win this hard game. We want no one who will run backward, stall the game or trip the captain when he goes forward with the ball."

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

NEW YORK.—National Republican leaders probably do not know about it, but one of the things upon which the administration will be tested next month is the question of where Mrs. Sirovich, wife of Representative Sirovich of the Fourteenth New York District, buys her meat.

Out in the Fourteenth District, strongly Jewish, Mr. Sirovich, the Democratic incumbent and a fellow of the American Surgeon's Society, or whatever it is; a man who in short, the wets said the country should listen to when he discussed the poisoning of alcohol in the last session of Congress—well, Mr. Sirovich, his Republican opponent, Mr. Spafford, and his Socialist opponent, Mr. Jacob Panken, have a habit of appearing on the platform together nightly.

* * * *

"WELL, you should ask Mr. Sirovich," says Mr. Panken, "where his wife buys her meat—ask him that."

Mr. Sirovich evades the issue. The plain implication in Mr. Panken's question is that Mrs. Sirovich does not use kosher meat. And their joint audience is not one to miss its full import. It is a matter of moment, a matter of significance, a matter, indeed, that goes right to the mettle of some men.

* * * *

Mr. Sirovich being a fellow—among the surgeons—is not so dense that he does not realize the sinisterness of Mr. Pankin's question—the political danger of it.

So he says:

"You remember my father, the man with the whiskers this long? Of course, you remember my father, who lived in this district so long?"

Mr. Pankin returns to the stage.

"His father's whiskers were no longer than my father's," says he.

* * * *

OF COURSE, the whisker business is an obvious effort on Mr. Sirovich's part to becloud the real issue, to drag a red herring across the trail, as the Republicans and Democrats say of each other.

The issue is where does Mrs. Sirovich buy her meat.

This is what will determine whether Mr. Sirovich is reelected or the Republican candidate, Mr. Stafford profiting from Mr. Pankin's campaign, is the victor. This is what will determine whether Mr. Hoover's administration will or will not be upheld.

ANTITAMMANY CRY MAY FAIL NEW YORK REPUBLICANS

tion and I always take off my shirt. Certainly it is not a game that lends itself to formal magisterial robes.

In brief, I should and so would you, vote against an amendment to the Constitution requiring judges to shoot dice.

Exposed With Glee.

But they have dug up a lot of additional stuff on Tammany that one doesn't like to print. The New York newspapers, with a seeming diabolical glee and with an unusual accord, dig up a new scandal nearly every day.

The Republicans say quite reasonably that the only thing to do is to turn the Democratic rascals out, and most certainly Mr. Tuttle is in favor of that.

But just as loudly as the Republicans are shrieking in this State now, the Democrats were shrieking all over the country in 1924 about the oil scandals. And it got them nothing.

The indications are that neither will it get the Republicans anything in this State this year.

Wet Issue Enters.

There are a lot of political cross currents to the campaign. Up-State Mr. Tuttle has made a lot of drys sore because he turned wet. But the prohibition threat in the form of a third candidate, so effective in the past, is expected to have but little play. The University of Syracuse professor whom the dry Republicans are running, it is even hard to recall his name, is expected to poll no more than half the vote polled by the dry independent candidate in 1926, or around 125,000. And unmistakably Tuttle will pick up the wets of the up-State cities who have heretofore voted for Smith against their better Republican judgment. There will, too, be a lot of drys who will not vote for either him or the college professor.

There is conflicting opinion as to whether Roosevelt will run better up-State than Smith, Smith's appeal was to the cities because of his wetness from which Tuttle should draw heavily this year because he is wet, too. On the other hand, Roosevelt is an up-Stater and on personality alone would run ahead of Smith.

The best bet now is that Tuttle will come down to New York City with a 300,000 majority.

Importance of Metropolis.

As to what New York will do, it holds the possible overturn. In fact, some observers who want Tuttle to win say hopefully that the campaign will be determined here this last week. It, of course, could be.

The Tammany issue is believed to have had little or no effect up-State. The Republicans have been hollering Tammany corruption for so many years that now when they come along with the evidence the up-Staters simply say: "Oh, go along."

Up-State, too, is a keener realization of the fact that their fellow up-Stater, Roosevelt, is not personally involved.

It is in New York City where an aroused vote would be most expected to assert itself. Some hope is entertained on the basis of a registration that is higher than the mayoralty registration a year ago, and particularly increased in better element wards, that the city's independent vote will turn out and elect Tuttle.

Tammany Promises 500,000.

Tammany laughs and says it will give Roosevelt even more than the 500,000 majority which it gave Jimmy Walker in last year's mayoralty fight. That would be a State majority for Roosevelt of 200,000. Tammany is believed to be absurd, however, in boasting a 500,000 city lead. It will be nearer 350,000, which would mean a Roosevelt victory probably by 50,000.

But the Republicans can't understand why the great independent vote here won't turn out and elect Tuttle. Certainly there has been enough to arouse it.

The answer probably lies in the fact that New York City, independent Tammany or Republican voters, is largely a city of apartment dwellers. Municipal corruption and graft do not directly affect them because they pay no property tax.

After all, our high-minded people must be touched in the pocketbook to put their high-mindedness into political effect.

Abducted Driver Turns Up, Unhurt

Glasgow, Ky., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Marion Bilbry, truck driver for Davidson Bros., wholesale grocers here, who disappeared October 8, informed his wife, Mrs. Mae Bilbry, by letter from West Liberty, Iowa, today that he was kidnaped.

He requested funds to get home. He was trussed in an automobile and driven all the way to West Liberty. He said his kidnapers had dropped him out on a highway after giving him $1.

Bilbry's truck was found near Red Boiling Springs, Tenn., Oct. 9. The floor board and seat were spattered with blood. The windshield had been shattered by bullets. Friday part of his clothing, also bloodstained, was found nearby.

The authorities had been working on the theory he was kidnaped and robbed.

500 Workers Counted Going in Danville Mills

Danville, Va., Oct. 27.—A check of the number of persons entering the Riverside and Dan River cotton mills today, the beginning of the fifth week of the textile strike, revealed 500 men and women.

The picket lines were well organized, but there was no molestation. The situation remained peaceful.

SENATE SEAT RACE COSTLESS TO MANY

MORE THAN 30 REPORT

(Associated Press.)

Campaign expenditure accounts filed yesterday by more than 30 candidates for the Senate showed almost all the nominees under the $10,000 mark with many spending nothing.

James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee in Illinois, reported expenditures so far of $13,877, of which $3,500 went to the Democratic State committee. He listed contributions of $14,050. A. J. Cermak, Democratic leader in Illinois, was the largest contributor with $3,000. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican nominee, has not yet filed her statement.

Dwight W. Morrow, Republican candidate in New Jersey, reported a campaign fund of $11,325, of which he contributed $5,000. His statement showed expenditures of $5,117. William Nelson Cromwell also gave $5,000 to the Morrow campaign. Mr. Morrow gave notice that he also has agreed to assume $8,000 of the cost of printing pamphlets for congressional candidates, inasmuch as these carry his picture.

Senator Heflin's Return.

Senator Heflin, running as an independent in Alabama, accounts for expenditures of $7,738 which has been met by contributions of $3,840. He submitted a statement of several pages, listing all individual contributors. Of the expenditures, about $1,000 went to the Public Printer for speeches and $1,250 to the Fellowship Forum, a Washington publication.

Sedwick Kistler, Democratic nominee in Pennsylvania, reported expenditures of $18,000, of which $17,500 went to the Democratic State committee. He had no contributions.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, and Senator Norris, of Nebraska, leaders of the independent faction in the Senate, listed no contributions from the Republican senatorial committee. Mr. Borah had no contributions whatever and expenditures of $333. Senator Norris had a campaign fund of $1,002, of which $500 came from Judson King, of Washington. He listed expenditures of $294.

Coloradan Makes Report.

In Colorado George H. Shaw, Republican nominee, reported contributions of $10,700, of which $10,000 came from the Republican senatorial committee, and expenditures of $11,970, of which $5,000 went to the Republican State committee.

Edward P. Costigan, Democratic candidate in Colorado, listed contributions of $2,200, of which $1,000 was from the Democratic senatorial committee, and expenditures of $1,818.

John H. Bankhead, Democratic opponent of Senator Heflin in Alabama, reported a contribution of $1,000 from the Democratic senatorial committee and expenditures of about $900.

Bay State Contributions.

In Massachusetts, William M. Butler, Republican, and Marcus A. Coolidge, Democrat, both reported no contributions. Butler gave his expenditures as $3,063, and Coolidge reported expenses of $3,000, which he gave to the Coolidge campaign committee.

Senator Couzens, Republican, of Michigan, a millionaire, reported no expenses and no contributions in his campaign.

In Tennessee four candidates for the long and short terms reported no contributions. The two Republicans, Paul E. Devine and F. Todd Meachem, also listed no expenditures. Senator Brock, Democrat, accounted for $381 in expenses. Cordell Hull, Democrat, listed $3,750 expenses, a gift to the Democratic State executive committee.

Candidates in Rhode Island reported no contributions. Peter G. Gerry, Democrat, listed expenditures at $3,972, and Senator Metcalf, Republican, gave his expenditures at $1,428.

Report by Senator Schall.

In Minnesota, Senator Schall, Republican, reported contributions of $2,000 and expenditures of $1,700; Ernest Lundeen, Farmer Labor, no contributions and expenditures of about $1,200; Einar Holdale, Democrat, contributions of $748 and expenditures of $530.

In New Mexico, Senator Bratton, Democrat, reported contributions of $1,000 from the Democratic senatorial committee and expenditures of $950; Herbert B. Holt, Republican, reported contributions of $100 and expenditures of $1,000.

Senator Hastings, Republican, Del-aware, listed contributions of $5,300, of which $5,000 came from the Republican senatorial committee, and expenditures of $6,114, of which $5,500 went to the State Republican committee.

Proprietor of Cabaret Is Found Shot to Death

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 27 (A.P.). With two bullet wounds in the head, the body of Frank Falcony, 39 years old, cabaret proprietor of this city, was found along a road between this city and Sanborn early today.

Falcony had long been a prominent figure in night life along the Niagara frontier. His cabaret in the downtown business district is a popular resort with Canadian visitors to this city. Falcony was married and had several children.

Wife of Baltimore Banker in Reno.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. Adelaide McAlpin Hambleton, wife of T. Edward Hambleton, New York and Baltimore banker, has come to Reno for a three-month stay. When found at a local hotel today she said she could not discuss her visit, or admit that she was here for divorce. Her husband is in Europe.

Bankruptcy Plea Filed Against Bob

Three Creditors Assert He Absconded With Money of One of His Firms.

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Three creditors today filed in Federal court a petition in bankruptcy against Charles V. Bob & Co., one of the enterprises of Charles V. Bob, missing financier.

They asked appointment of a receiver and alleged "on information and belief" that Bob had absconded and he and associate, Louis P. Jubian, had concealed and removed assets with intent to hinder, delay or defraud creditors. Their claims are based on sales of metals and mining company stock, for which they said they received no commission.

It was also alleged in the petition that on or about October 11, five days after he vanished, Bob withdrew large sums from his personal bank accounts, delivered a mortgage on the Westward Ho Hotel, at Phoenix, Ariz., to August Hecksher, the financier, and with Jubien turned over to the Banca Commerciale Italiana Trust Co. 1,600 shares of Metal & Mining Shares, Inc.

South Knoxville Bank Is Robbed of $8,000

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—A man without a mask walked into the Bank of South Knoxville this afternoon, forced George Cross, cashier, into a small closet along with two women clerks, Miss G[illegible] Hurst and Mrs. C. A. Johnson, and escaped with from $6,000 to $8,000 in currency, silver and gold coin.

The bandit entered the bank just before closing time. A patron who came in during the robbery was forced to sit upon a stool. The Bank of South Knoxville is near the center of the city business district, just across the Tennesse River.

Marriage or Divorce Banned for Teachers

Henderson, Ky., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Teachers in the rural schools of Henderson county will avoid both marriage and divorce if they wish to retain their jobs. Their new contracts with the county board of education carry this clause:

"It is further agreed by said teacher in case he or she marries or is divorced after date of appointment said act shall automatically place in the hands of said board his or her resignation to be acted upon at next regular meeting."

COURT DISMISSES PINCHOT'S PETITION

Ferguson said the court of equity could not interfere with the conduct of a political committee, and added:

"It is the committee's duty to collect a fund for a political campaign and they must file an accounting with the secretary of the Commonwealth and the clerk of the quarter

The board of directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., today took cognizance of charges made against it and its officers in the present political campaign in Pennsylvania, principally by Mr. Pinchot, by issuing a statement to stockholders, its employes and the public, denying the various charges made.

W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, recently resigned as a member of the Republican National Committee, giving as a reason that he could not support the entire Republican State ticket. Before and after that action, Mr. Atterbury has been attacked by Mr. Pinchot, who in one speech referred to the railroad president as "my arch enemy."

Pinchot Not Named in Statement.

The statement issued by the directors, which does not mention Mr. Pinchot but quotes some of his declarations, said that "charges against the Pennsylvania Railroad and its officers have been recklessly and repeatedly made and are receiving wide publicity. The integrity and good faith of the management have been impunged and the effort has been made to place the company in a false and unjust light before the general public, the owners of the securities, and its employes.

"It has been accused of delinquency in its obligations to the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, of neglect and discrimination against the city of Philadelphia, of permitting the funds of the city to be used for the improvement of the company's property, and of dictating to its employes how to vote."

"In order that the truth may be known," the statement says, "these false charges against the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., and its management, together with actual facts in relation thereto, are summarized."

The statement then denies a declaration that the company does not pay taxes in Philadelphia and adds that the amount of such taxes paid was $1,564,232, for this year; denies the railroad is spending $50,000,000 for Jersey City port facilities; and states it has been instrumental in bringing steamship lines to Philadelphia.

Denial is also made that company employes are coerced with respect to their votes.

abolished the eighteenth amendment? Or is there any wet so bigoted that he would refuse to abide by the decision if a referendum showed the country was dry?

"Let us be American citizens first, last and all the time and recognize this as a Government of the people, by the people and for the people, as Abraham Lincoln so ably said in his famous Gettysburg address. We must never deny the people a chance to register their convictions, otherwise ourf form of government must perish from the earth."

Discussing industrial conditions, Mr. Raskob said, "Everything has been thoroughly deflated and business is now turning upward."

"The momentum is necessarily slow at first," he added, "but within three months, with the impetus the automobile industry is sure to provide starting with the January shows, we will quickly leave depression behind and all be singing 'Happy Days Are Here Again.'"

Mr. Raskob said if the United States was wealthy enough twenty years ago to adopt a half-holiday on Saturday, "it is infinitely more able to adopt a full Saturday holiday now."

Adoption of a five-day week, he said, would "increase consumption enormously" and this would result "in sufficient savings to enable industry to pay the same wages for five days as are now paid for five and one-half days' work." He also advocated celebrating all legal holidays, except perhaps Christmas, on Monday to permit three days of recreation at one time.

"The only way to increase production and provide work is to increase consumption," Mr. Raskob asserted, adding that with more leisure time workingmen and their families would make more purchases and thus increase the output of industries.

Mr. Raskob said the Democratic party "through national and State legislatures can do much toward bringing about the five-day week by adopting it for Government work and in Government positions as well as through declaring every Saturday a holiday, thus enabling all our banking institutions to close Saturdays if they so choose."

The Democratic chairman also denied he had made any attempt to "smear Hoover" through the party's Washington publicity bureau.

"Could anything," he said, "more clearly indicate the irresponsibility of panic minds than the childish attempt of the Republican speakers and press to brand the intelligent dissemination of information respecting the accomplishments and failures of the Republican party in power in Washington during the last two years with the label 'Raskob smears Hoover'?

"No one ever heard me utter one unkind word about Mr. Hoover or the President of the United States. This does not mea nthat I or the Democratic party hesitate one second in offering constructive criticism of the actions of Mr. Hoover and his administration.

"To criticize intelligently the action s of any man or group of men whether he or they be president, bishop, legislators or mere laymen is constructive. The American people know this and our Republican friends are making no headway in their endeavor to confuse the public through laying down smoke screens of this kind."

Wyoming G. O. P. Faces Quiz by Civil Service

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—In a letter to T. K. Cassidy, chairman of the Wyoming Democratic State committee, John T. Doyle, secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Commission, today promised an investigation of charges brought by Mr. Cassidy against the Wyoming Republican organization.

Mr. Cassidy alleges that the Republican State committee has violated the Civil Service law by assessing Civil Service employes in this State for support of Republican State and national election campaign.

Pine Offers Reward Against Voting Fraud

Okmulgee, Okla., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Rewards totaling $10,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of election frauds designed to deprive him of votes in the general election of November 4, were offered today by United States Senator W. B. Pine, Republican.

Seantor Pine said his offer "is no reflection upon any honest election official in Oklahoma and I believe most of them are honest."

Both Parties Back Mrs. Wingo's Race

Widow Is Carrying Out Wish to Succeed Him in House.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Democratic and Republican organizations in separate meetings today threw aside political differences and lifted all barriers in their power to assure the dying wish of the late Otis T. Wingo that his widow succeed him as representative of the Fourth Arkansas Congressional District.

Mrs. Effie Jeane Wingo was unanimously chosen by the Democratic central committee as the party's nominee both for Mr. Wingo's term expiring March 4, 1931, and for the succeeding two-year term for which he had been nominated without opposition. Her name will appear on the ballot November 4 for both terms.

The Republican committee met a few minutes after the action of the Democrats had been announced and indorsed Mrs. Wingo. A pledge was made that the committee would not nominate in opposition to her and several speakers eulogized her husband, whom the committe also had indorsed for reelection on November 4.

Rum Raid Photos Will Be Evidence

Taken to Show Such Places Not Used Legitimately, Says Commissioner.

Boston, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Patrons were photographed by police during liquor raids here last night because they refused to leave the premises and asked to be photographed, Commissioner Hultman said today. He was as much surprised as any one when he learned pictures of customers had been made, Commissioner Hultman asserted.

He declared the object was to show in equity proceedings against suspected speakeasies where raids resulted in no liquor seizures, that the premises were not used in legitimate business. Pictures showing barred doors and the general layout of the raided places will be submitted as evidence in nuisance proceedings, he said, after explaining that most speakeasies were so strongly guarded that liquor usually could be dumped before police forced an entrance.

It was with this policy in mind that police, accompanied by an official photographer, made these raids, the commissioner added.

NAVAL TREATY PUT IN LONDON ARCHIVES

U. S., Japan and Britain Join in Simple Ceremony as Arms Cut Pledge.

IRISH APPROVAL DELAYED

London, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The naval treaty born of the five-power conference held early this year rested complete tonight in the archives of Downing street.

A simple ten-minute ceremony of depositing the instruments of ratification by the signatory powers—the United States, Great Britain, and Japan—was carried out at noon in the Locarno room of the foreign office, with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain presiding. Ambassador Charles G. Dawes and Ray Atherton, counselor of the American Embassy, represented the United States, while Ambassador Matsudaira was present for Japan.

Mr. MacDonald characterized the occasion as the culmination of the world's second successful effort in naval disarmament, the first having been the Washington conference, a decade ago.

Nine instruments of ratification, by the three main signatories and the British dominions, were formally handed in.

U. S. Document in Leather.

The United States' approval of the pact was in the form of a flat leather cover, stamped in black with the coat of arms of the United States, inclosing the text of the treaty.

For Japan, Ambassador Matsudaira handed over a purple velvet folder bound with red and white ribbons, which are the Japanese national colors. This was the instrument which American airmen sped across the continent from Vaucouver to New York in order to catch a boat in time for today's ceremony.

The British Empire ratification was in the form of a book bound in blue and gold leather, inclosing the treaty text on vellum. The ratification of each dominion as well as that of the United Kingdom was signed by King George and stamped with the great seal. It carries the king's assurance that he "engages and promises his royal word" to give effect to the treaty.

The Irish Free State ratification was not handed in because of technical delay in the Dail Eireann, but Mr. MacDonald said this would come in a few weeks and at the end of that time the treaty would come into force as among the powers which have ratified it.

Declaration Is Signed.

After all the ratifications were declared to be in order each nations' representative signed a declaration that all had met to deposit the ratifications. This declaration also included the American Senate reservations providing that the pact carries with it no secret agreements.

The gathering in the Locarno room was like a momentary throwback to the Naval Conference, except that many new faces were around the conference table. France and Italy, two principal actors in the naval drama that ran three months last spring were very much in the background today.

The Ambassadors of France and Italy attended the ceremony, but did not sit at the table where Mr. MacDonald presided over the representatives of ratifying nations. The prime minister welcomed the French and Italian envoys, however, expressing the hope that before long they would be associated with the treaty.

NAVY PACT BECOMES INTERNATIONAL LAW

pleasure to your speech in connection with the broadcasting at the time of the deposit of the ratifications of the London treaty. The Japanese Prime Minister was heard in this country as clearly as you were, thus marking a new step in the cultural relations of the three countries, as it marks the beginning of a new era in naval affairs. I likewise wish to congratulate you on the vigor, clarity, and high purpose of your message, which will, I feel, have profound effect on the thinking people of the world."

Greeting to Hamaguchi.

To Premier Hamaguchi, Secretary Stimson sent this cable:

"My sincere congratulations on the success of the radio hook-up this morning, marking the significance of the deposit of ratifications of the U. S. for the first time in America, London naval treaty, and affording the opportunity to hear an important broadcast from Japan. The President joins me in congratulations on the success of the experiment, as well as on the high purpose and significance of your message, which we feel will have a profound effect."

Cites France, Italy.

President Hoover, whose speech was the shortest of the three, said that the London Treaty doing away with naval rivalry between the world's three greatest naval powers was one "founded on common sense," and he added that it was the fervent prayer of right-thinking men and women that this and other peace agreements may live and be extended.

With respect to the two powers that refused to join in signing what was designed to be a five-power pact, he said:

"France and Italy are not as yet full partners in the London Treaty. They have been making active efforts within the last few months to arrive at a complete understanding. The people of Great Britain, Japan and the United States, and indeed the peoples of the whole world, have watched those efforts and confidently hope that patience and good will may yet lead to a solution."

MacDonald Is Hopeful.

Prime Minister MacDonald declared that some way of bringing France and Italy to sign the pact must be found.

"Ultimate failure," he said, "is to me unthinkable, for world hopes for the progress of disarmament are focussed on these efforts and the good wishes of all must go out to those who are responsible for these difficult negotiations.

"What a happy day for the world will be the day of that agreement! What a vast addition ta national security will then be made! How high will the value of our peace efforts then rise! What great issues for good or ill are at this moment in the keeping of those two friends of ours!"

Premier Hamaguchi, speaking in Japanese, said that nothing is nearer the heart of every thinking Japanese than to enjoy security and to live in peace with the rest of the world. Today, he said, the world has escaped from the "pioneer stage," when every nation's hand was actually or potentially against every other nation, and has entered the friendly "settlement" stage, in which every one is united to suppress intrusions by any one on another's sphere.

Text of Hoover, MacDonald, Hamaguchi Addresses on Naval Limitations Pact

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's address in yesterday's international radio broadcast, celebrating the depositing of instruments of ratification of the London naval treaty, follows:

Today the governments of Great Britain, Japan and the United States have deposited the instruments of ratification to the London naval treaty. Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Hamaguchi are joining with me in speaking to you to mark the significance of this realization of further advancement in the world's hopes of a practical limitation of naval armament.

Task Comes to Close.

The task begun 18 months ago for the limitation of all types of naval vessels thus draws to a close. The naval powers have bridged obstacles and achieved an understanding to relieve their peoples of excessive naval burdens. Three of these powers commanding the great part of the world's naval forces have turned away from rivalry in armaments, and disproportionate growth of their navies is now prevented by an arrangement founded in common sense.

This relinquishment of competitive building among the three great naval powers, with its consequent contribution to the security of the world, is the greatest significance of this treaty. If the limitations now established can be maintained, we may look forward with assurance to the fact that future conferences will find it easier to bring about further steps in reduction. It is the fervent prayer of right-thinking men and women of this generation that the international confidence which has been so patiently and single-mindedly achieved may endure so that the agreements which have been reached may live and be extended. Never again must a race in naval armaments be allowed to develop.

Not Yet Full Partners.

France and Italy are not as yet full partners in the London treaty. They have been making active efforts within the last few months to arrive at a complete understanding. The people of Great Britain, Japan and the United States, and indeed the peoples of the whole world, have watched those efforts and confidently hope that patience and good will may yet lead to a solution.

The sessions of the five powers at London have served to strengthen mutual trust and confidence among them and they give me assurance that the hopes of the world will not be disappointed. It is a pleasure to felicitate the peoples of Great Britain and Japan and the people of this country upon the conclusion of a sound and reasonable agreement between them, fair to all and dangerous to none, which has been accepted by each nation as affording adequate protection and which substitutes for suspicion and competition mutual trust, good will and confidence. Let this day fill us with thanks and inspire us to go forward with the courage of hope.

London, Oct. 27.—Emphasizing the world's hopes for disarmament, Prime Minister MacDonald asserted today that the solution of the American-British-Japanese naval problem under the London naval treaty should be a great source ot encouragement to future endeavors in such agreements.

The text of the prime minister's statement follows in part:

This morning I attended a dignified little ceremony of the deposit of ratifications of the London naval treaty. The ratifications deposited were those of his majesty, the king, in respect of the members of the British commonwealth of nations, of the United States of America and his majesty, the Emperor of Japan. Owing to a purely technical difficulty, the king's ratification in respect of the Irish Free State could not be deposited today, but the delay is not expected to be more than a few weeks at the outside and at the end of that time the treaty will come into force as between the powers which have ratified it.

Although the ceremony was short and simple, it represented the culmination of the second successful effort in naval disarmament.

The first was taken at Washington in 1922, when the five principal naval powers agreed to the limitation and regulation of their capital ship and aircraft carrier construction. Now, for the first time in history, the three principal naval powers will put into operation a system of limitation and reduction which will apply to all parts of their respective fleets up to 1936. Thus for the period named, and we hope for all time, the evils of naval rivalry have been eliminated between them.

The treaty was also signed by France and Italy, but these two powers are not yet parties to that section of the treaty which limits naval strength. It is my most earnest hope that the negotiations which have recently been proceeding between France and Italy to enable them to come into this part of the treaty may before long reach a successful issue. * * *

Failure Held Unthinkable.

Ultimate failure is to me unthinkable, for world hopes for the progress of disarmament are focused on these efforts and the good wishes of all of us must go out to those who are responsible for these difficult negotiations. What a happy day for the world will be the day of that agreement! What a vast addition to national security will then be made! How high will the value of our peace efforts then rise!

Those who read that part of the London naval treaty, which settles the ratios between the United States, Japan and ourselves up to 1936, may think this a fairly simple matter, but in reality the success of today was preceded by years of abortive negotiation and by the emergence of problems which at one time looked well-nigh insoluble. The way of the peacemaker, and not only of the transgresser, is verily hard.

During all these years there were natural feelings of irritation and suspicion in the countries concerned and behind all lurked the dark specter of the race in armaments which has so often in the past proved to be the current running down to war. Unless we—and by that I mean every naval power in the world—manage to stop this now, history will inevitably repeat itself.

Perhaps there is no better way of estimating the gravity of the dangers and difficulties which we have escaped than by recognizing the enormous benefit to the relations between the three powers which has become apparent since the signature of the treaty. I make bold to state that at no time in their history have the relations between the governments of the United States and Japan and with the governments of the British commonwealth of nations been closer or more cordial than they have been since the signature of the treaty, and what is true of the governments is true of the people and will become increasingly so as time goes on and the essential fairness and value of the treaty is understood by an ever-increasing circle. . . .

Opponents Canceled Each Other.

Of course, the treaty has been attacked in this country as in the United States and Japan, but an interesting comparison has been made of the arguments used by the protagonists of this campaign in each of the three countries and they have been found to cancel themselves out almost completely. In other words, each group of critics has considered the treaty unfair to its own country for reasons which, when tabulated, have been found to be almost identical.

The friendly relationship and collaborations between our countries which is directly attributable to this treaty should surely be a great source of encouragement to those who are now endeavoring to reach agreement among themselves and afterward with us. However painful may be the process of negotiation, success has the effect of smoothing away dreaded international difficulties in an almost magical way, and surely some slight sacrifice of claims hitherto considered important is worth while with such a glorious goal in view.

Tokyo, Oct. 27.—The London naval treaty was described today by Premier Hamaguchi, of Japan, as a covenant which is "bound to exercise an immense moral influence on the consciousness of mankind."

His address follows in full text:

The memorable conference which was held in 1921 and 1922 at Washington failed to give a complete measure of relief to a war-weary world. A totally unexpected competition set in among naval architects in the production of numerous and very formidable cruisers. These vessels were so heavily armed, so swift and so well protected as to constitute a factor of extreme importance in any comparison of fleets. It was some time before the existence of the problem and its dangers and difficulties became apparent. Various efforts were made toward its solution, but they seemed to lead to no result, and the leading naval powers were rapidly drifting toward an impasse, with the prospect before them of a renewal of the wasteful competition and crushing expenditure which had been temporarily arrested at Washington.

This dangerous possibility was averted at London. The assiduous labors exerted in 1927 at Geneva were not without fruit, but paved the way for a welcome measure of disarmament. An understanding was reached between Japan, the British commonwealth of nations and the United States to put an end to competitive building in all categories of auxiliary combatant vessels. Nor is that tripartite agreement relating to auxiliary craft the only outstanding feature of the work of the London conference. A treaty embodying further provisions, designed to reinforce the limitation of naval armament laid down in the Washington treaty, and to regulate the activity of submarines in conformity with the dictates of humanity, was elaborated and signed by the five principal naval powers committed to one and the same noble end.

I feel it a great privilege to have contributed, so far as in me lay, to this happy result. The new treaty is bound to exercise an immense moral influence on the growing consciousness of mankind. It is a striking demonstration of mutual confidence and good will among the nations, and I congratulate the people of all the participating countries on such a signal achievement. I know that nothing is nearer the heart of every thinking Japanese than to enjoy security and to live in peace with the rest of the world.

Sees Extensions Ahead.

One can not but feel that the moment is favorable for a wide extension of the policy of disarmament embodied in the treaty. Now that the pact of Paris initiated by Mr. Briand and Mr. Kellogg has definitely outlawed war, it is clear that any branch of that solemn engagement must rally the whole world against the aggressor. Whether other powers come forward to offer active help or not, it is hardly conceivable that they would allow the pledge-breaker to interfere with their trade and to enjoy the other privileges of a lawful belligerent.

But, apart from calculations of mutual aid in time of war, may we not believe that a more generous and neighborly spirit is fast replacing the jealousies and suspicions of the past? Shall we not confidently hope that the deliberations of the preparatory committee on disarmament of the League of Nations, which is to meet this coming month, will be conducted in the same genial atmosphere that alone made the success of the London conference possible? I trust that these expectations for the future will not be betrayed.

The Treaty of London has opened a new chapter in the history of human civilization. We have once for all escaped from what I may call the "pioneer" stage, in which every nation's hand is actually or potentially against every other. We have entered on the sane and friendly "settlement" stage, in which every one is united to suppress intrusions by any one on another's sphere. A momentous step forward on the road of international peace and friendship has now been taken. Let it prove a prelude to still greater triumphs for that lofty cause.

CHINESE REVOLUTION BELIEVED CRUSHED

DRIVE ON REDS LOOMS

Nanking, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The seven-month rebellion of Northern war lords appeared crushed tonight. Nationalist armies, the government announced, drove rebel troops of Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang out of Honan Province, pursuing them into mountains of Shansi and Shensi. Worn by continual battering in Honan and Shantung Provinces and weakened by heavy casualties, the insurgents who threatened overthrow of the government, began to give way when Gov. Chang Hjusueh-Liang of Manchuria intervened for the government.

Pouring down from Mukden, the Manchurian armies late in September ousted Yen Hsi-Shan from Peiping, where he had set up a rebel government and thrust out his troops.

One million men fought in the civil war, the government estimated. Of these, 600,000 were Nationalists, and 400,000 insurgents.

The government estimated 200,000 died in battle or afterward because of poor facilities for wounded. The Nationalist loss was placed at 150,000, being greater due to offensive operation on a long line.

An active campaign has been promised by the government against bandits and Communists with 200,000 Nationalist troops released from fighting rebels.

Red and Communist armies who for months ravaged Kiangsi, Hupeh, Hunan, Honan, and other provinces, recently have intensified their depredations:

Some 2,000 natives were slain at Kian, when the city was taken by Communists October 5, and missionaries fled from missions destroyed by Reds in a campaign against foreign and native Christians.

MUSSOLINI VISIONS FASCIST ADVANCE

Fifty battalions of Fascists, with 50,000 young Fascists, 90,000 standard bearers of 9,000 combat groups will gather in the Eternal City for the anniversary, he declared, while Milan, Perugia and Naples will witness equally impressive displays of Fascist strength.

Italy is arming, her Prime Minister admitted, but insisted that she was being forced to do so to defend herself.

Armed for Defense Only.

"Let it be clear, at any rate," he told his hearers, "that we are arming ourselves materially and spiritually to defend ourselves—not to attack. Fascist Italy never will take the initiative of war.

"Our very policy of revision of treaties, which does not date from yesterday, but was propounded from June, 1928, is directed toward avoiding war. The possibility of such revision under the very pact of the league of nations is not absurd or unattainable. The only thing absurd about it is the pretext of immobility of treaties."

Clearly referring to the efforts of Italian diplomacy to establish an Italian hegemony in the Balkins through military and trade alliances, Mussolini said:

"By 1950 Europe will be on its last pegs—will be decrepit. The only country of young men will be Italy. It is only toward the East that we can direct our peaceful expansion. You therefore understand our friendships and alliances."

Mussolini declared that a "war of calumnies and infamies" is in progress against Fascism throughout the world. This "indirect war," he asserted, "is preparation for military war."

In this connection he referred to his own saber-rattling speeches in Tuscany last summer, saying that their object was to "unmask this hypocritical Europe which talks about peace at Geneva and prepares for war nevertheless."

"We are fighting against a world on the decline," he continued, "but a world still powerful because it represents an enormous crystallization of interests. Everywhere fights are on—for or against Fascism. We must reconquer our victory day by day.

Cannon Finer Than Words.

"As long as there are cannon they will be finer than all the fine but often vain words. When the word alone will suffice to regulate relations among peoples, then I will say that the word is divine.

"The Fascist party must harden its policies and accentuate its psychology of combat, because combat continues and will not have truce. We can foresee a Fascist Europe that solves in the Fascist sense the problem of the modern state, the twentieth-century state.

"We laugh when the funeral directors number our days. Today, even as yesterday, the prestige of nations is determined absolutely by their military glories and armed power."

Rites Tomorrow For H. P. Whitney

Services in Park Avenue Church and Burial to Be Private.

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Funeral services for Harry Payne Whitney, millionaire sportsman, who died last night, will be held Wednesday morning at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church in Park avenue. Only members of the family will attend. Interment, at Woodland Cemetery will be private also.

Mr. Whitney died of pneumonia, which developed rapidly from a cold he contracted last Tuesday. On Saturday his condition took a rapid turn for the worse and grew more grave until his death.

There were few sports in which Mr. Whitney was not an active and interested participant. He was the heaviest individual investor in race horses in America. He was a polo ist of the first rank, he was a yachtsman, a dog fancier and a big game hunter.

LANHAM FUNERAL TODAY.

Services For Government Tree Expert Set For 1:30 O'clock.

Funeral services for James Edgar Lanham, who died Sunday at his home, 2608 Thirty-second street southeast, after an illness of a year, will be held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the East Washington Heights Baptist Church. Interment will be in Congressional Cemetery. Mr. Lanham was 49 years old.

A native of Prince Georges County, Md., Mr. Lanham was noted as a tree expert in the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks of this city. An employee of that branch of the Government for more than 30 years, he did much to beautify the parks and tree areas of Washington. Under the supervision of Mr. Lanham, the Japanese cherry trees around the Tidal Basin and all the trees along the Speedway were planted and cared for.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Mary E. Lanham; a daughter, Mrs. Luberta Wise, and a son, James D. Lanham, all of this city.

MASONIC TEMPLE'S CORNER STONE LAID

Third Degree Is Exemplified After Montgomery County Ceremony.

POLLING PLACES LISTED

Sprinkled with corn, wine and oil, the corner stone of the Masonic Temple at Rockville was laid yesterday by members of the Montgomery Lodge, 194, F. A. A. M. Worshipful Master Stedman Prescott, of the Rockville lodge, presided at the exercises and cemented the stone.

Garbed in the regalia of the order, the Masons marched from the temple to the lawn around the stone. Here they gathered in a semicircle while the ritual was exemplified. A bronze box was placed in the corner stone containing copies of newspapers and the names of the various Masonic officials, as well as the names of those present at the ceremonies.

The corner stone was tamped into place by Worshipful Master Prescott. The various officers of the lodge then sprinkled oil, corn and wine over the stone.

Following a buffet supper, the third degree of Masonry was administered to a class of candidates.

The temple was recently moved from a site at the southeast corner of Montgomery avenue and Washington street to another site across the street next the parsonage of the Rockville Church on South Washington street. The former site of the temple was purchased by the county to make way for the new Montgomery County Courthouse and the widening of Montgomery avenue.

The temple building has been remodeled and a new type of entrance erected. The new site and building are valued at approximately $35,000.

The quarterly meeting of the Montgomery County League of Republican Women will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, 5415 Edgemoor lane, Bethesda.

Delegates to the State convention at Baltimore Thursday will be selected, Mrs. William Woolf Smith will talk on organization and precinct work. Several Republican county candidates also are expected to address the meeting.

Miss Lavinia Engle, Democratic candidate for House of Delegates of Maryland, will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the Women's Democratic Club of Montgomery County this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the State Theater at Bethesda. Mrs. C. E. Roach, president of the club, will preside and introduce the speakers.

Marvin Farrington, of Chevy Chase, also a Democratic candidate for the House of Delegates, will talk on the county school system. Mrs. Richard Cleveland, of Baltimore, also will speak. George P. Hoover, of Chevy Chase, a member of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, will explain the provisions of the Cramton bill.

Montgomery County schools showed a record enrollment of 10,700 pupils, of whom 2,000 are colored, in September, according to an announcement yesterday by Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools. This is an increase of 622 more than the corresponding month in the prior year.

A decrease of 62 pupils attending one-teacher schools and 188 in two-teacher schools is explained by Superintendent Broome as being the natural outgrowth of better roads and transportation which enable children who formerly had to attend these schools to go the larger graded schools.

The county-wide average of school attendance in September was 96 per cent for the elementary schools and 97.6 per cent for the high schools. The schools which were awarded banners for being first in their respective classes were: Boyds, one teacher, 99.6 per cent; White Oak, two-teacher, 98.8 per cent; Kensington Graded School, 98.8 per cent; Dickerson Senior High School, 98.9 per cent; Takoma-Silver Spring Junior High, seventh, eighth and ninth grades, 98.9 per cent.

Seneca colored elementary school, 99.7 per cent and Rockville Colored High School, 96.5 per cent.

Polling places for the general election next Tuesday as announced by John Jones, clerk to the county supervisors of election, are as follows. Several new polling places have been added. The polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m.

They are:

Laytonsville District—Both polling places in Modern Woodmen Hall, Laytonsville.

Woman Is Killed In Auto Accident

Car Swerves From Road Near Madison; Girl Severely Hurt.

Culpeper, Va., Oct. 27.—Two accidents, one fatal, occurred in this vicinity within the last 24 hours. Sunday, Mrs. Frank Rosson, of Novum, was fatally injured when the car in which she was riding left the road near Madison.

Sheriff John Hall, of Madison County, hurried her to a hospital in his car but she died on the way. When hurt, she was in a car driven by C. L. Utz and was accompanied by Mrs. Utz. The others escaped with minor injuries.

Today Miss Virginia Kilby, of Culpeper, was struck by a car while walking along the highway. She was brought here for treatment but the doctors sent her to the University of Virginia Hospital, there it was said, she might lose a leg as a result of the accident.

No arrests have been made.

NAVY DAY DRAWS CROWD OF 100,000

Franklin Square at 10 a. m., Maj. Daniel A. Edwards delivering the principal address in honor of the "father of the American Navy." Father Francis X. Cavanagh, State chaplain of the Knights of Columbus, delivered the invocation. A wreath was laid by Charles W. Barr, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

Brief programs were held at 8 o'clock last night by the Fleet Naval Reserve Association, the National Patriotic Council and the Georgetown Foreign Service School. The latter gathering was addressed by Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy. Secretary Adams and Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, went on the air over Station WRC and the National Broadcasting Co. system between 11 and 11:30 p. m.

The program was climaxed by a Navy Day ball in the National Press Club auditorium, given under the auspices of the Twentieth Marines.

Building Built to Burn Blazes Anew After Run

Scores of persons attending the Navy Day exercises at the Navy Yard were treated to an extra thrill early last night, when a small wooden shack at one end of the yard, which had been purposely burned earlier in the day to demonstrate the ability of the Navy Yard Fire Department, burst into flames again.

A sentry who discovered the fire about 5:30 p. m. turned in an alarm to the yard department. Officials, thinking a large fire had broken out, ordered District fire apparatus to be summoned. Police reserves and four fire companies responded to the call and the blaze was quickly extinguished. Although the building burned to the ground, officials stated it was of no value, as it had been erected for that purpose.

Dress Parade at Naval Academy Marks Navy Day

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 27.—A dress parade by the regiment of midshipmen at the Naval Academy this afternoon marked the official ceremony in celebration of Navy Day here. The Reina Mercedes, station ship at the local reservation, was in full dress, also in recognition of the day. The national flag was displayed from the spire of the Statehouse.

Rear Admiral Samuel Robison, superintendent of the academy, tonight delivered a Navy Day address before the school of foreign service at Georgetown University. Aside from the regimental dress parade there were no formal ceremonies either at the academy or in the city.

IZAAK WALTON BODY WILL HOLD MEETING

First Annual Session for Virginia Is Called by Head of League.

800 NOW ARE MEMBERS

Special to The Washington Post.

Gofdonsville, Va., Oct. 27.—The first annual meeting of the Association of Isaak Walton League Chapters in Virginia will be held in Richmond November 1, Max Fleischer, president of the association, announced here today. Notice of this meeting has been sent to more than 800 persons in the State. Virginia chapters of the league now are going into their second year of organized activity.

A discussion of chapter accomplishments during the association's first year and plans for the forthcoming year will be held at the meeting. Officers and directors will be elected and committees appointed. The meeting will be open to the public.

Topics to be considered at the gathering will include rehabilitation and protection of forests, protection and propagation of wild life, general preservation of scenic beauty and problems of stream pollution.

Pollution Report to Be Heard.

A report in regard to the called meeting of the Virginia Cooperative Pollution Committee, to be held November 28 in Richmond, to be given by the Waltonian member of the committee, also will be on the program for the meeting, Maj. A. Willis Robertson, chairman of the Inland Game and Fisheries Commission, is chairman of this committee. The Waltonian sent as a delegate in response to an invitation to be present at the meeting of the temporary State commission to study forestry conditions in Virginia, November 30, in Richmond, also will give a report.

A survey of results derived from the several thousand letters sent out by the league last spring to encourage the plan for the acquisition and management of State demonstration forests, and from the 800 letters mailed to civic organizations throughout the State, asking support of plans to postpone the hunting season also will take place at the meeting.

800 Members Numbered.

Though its first year has just been completed, the State Association now numbers its membership at nearly 800. Waltonism is not yet well understood, the president reports, and funds with which to function have been limited.

Among the accomplishments of the association for the last year, its president names the following: The indorsement and promotion of a plan to rehabilitate forests, a plan that received nation-wide attention; the introduction of a plan before the House committee on rivers and harbors at Washington, D. C., relative to the restoration of the Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal lock; strong support of constructive conservation; the sending out of more than 700 letters to aid the drought situation by an appeal to sportsmen to consider the postponement of the hunting season until the drought is broken, and a general warning to people to prevent forest fire.

Three-Year Term Given Woman for Firing Home

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 27.—A sentence of three years in the Moundsville Penitentiary was imposed today in the Taylor County Circuit Court at Grafton upon Mrs. Mary Miller, of Rosemont, for setting fire to her home in an attempt to collect $1,300 insurance.

A 90-day stay was allowed for an appeal to the supreme court.

Cumberland Hears Speech by Ritchie

Mining Operator Announces Strike Parley Following Talk With Governor.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 27.—Governor Albert C. Ritchie and other Democratic State candidates made a swing through the county today and tonight addressed a meeting at the Maryland theater here. It had been planned to spend two days in the county but the recent death of Attorney General Thomas H. Robinson, who was a candidate for reelection, caused a change in plans. About twenty party leaders accompanied the candidates today.

A. K. Althouse, of Philadelphia, president of Big Vein Coal Co., met Governor Ritchie and following their conference here it was announced hat Mr. Althouse would meet a committee of his miners who have been on strike several months.

Governor Ritchie told Mr. Althouse he had no intention for the present of inquiring into the merits of the controversy, but was interested primarily in bringing about a hearing of the men, which, they claimed, Althouse had denied them after several requests.

New Pastor Assigned To Danville Church

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 27.—Troubles which have gripped the members of Moseley Memorial Methodist Church were at an end here today with the announcement that Bishop W. B. Beauchamp has transferred the pastor, the Rev. J. Arthur Winn, to the Hopewell Methodist Church. His place is to be taken by the Rev. H. W. Landrum, of Norfolk.

A majority of the congregation asked that the church be given a new minister just before the Virginia Conference convened. The Rev. Mr. Winn was reappointed, however, for his fourth year. The congregation members opposed to his return then telegraphed to the bishop their intention to withdraw unless a change was made. Following a new vote on the question, the bishop acted.

Libel Action Is Filed In Schooner's Sinking

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Robert B. Wathen, managing owner of the little bay schooner Coropeake, today filed libel proceedings in the United States District Court here against the Arundel Corporation of Maryland claiming $20,000 damages for the sinking of the schooner in Hampton Roads on October 12.

The libelant sets forth that the Coropeake, bound from Baltimore to Norfolk with a cargo of fertilizer, was making her way through the channel on the morning of October 12 when scow 102, owned by the Arundel corporation, blocked her passage in such a way that a collision could not be avoided. The vessel sank in a few minutes after the crash.

Prince George Farmer Expires.

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 27 (Special). Edward Thurston Wilkinson, 83, one of Prince George's oldest citizens, died last night at his home on the Norfolk highway, about 8 miles from this city. Mr. Wilkinson for many years farmed extensively in that county. He was a native and lifelong resident of Prince George. He is survived by one son, T. Wilkinson, of Prince George.

Call Is Extended To Dr. N. C. Powell

Rector of Charlottesville Considering Offer From Baltimore.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 27.—The Rev. Noble C. Powell, D. D., rector of St. Paul's Memorial Church at the University of Virginia for the last eleven years, has under consideration a call extended by the vestry of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Baltimore, of which the Right Rev. Alfred M. Randolph, first bishop of southern Virginia, was for a number of years rector.

During Dr. Powell's rectorship a handsome new church and rectory has been built. He has been actively interested in the mission work of his church in the Blue Ridge and Ragged Mountains of Virginia through a number of missions which he, together with students from the university, minister to. The work of St. Paul's Memorial Church lies chiefly with the students of the university.

Dr. Powell is a Royal Arch Mason. He is a member of the Raven Society of the University of Virginia and of the national society of Phi Beta Kappa. He is a member of the Colonnade Club and the Varsity Club at the university. For some years he has been connected with the College of Preachers at the national cathedral, in Washington, and since its creation a member of the council of advice of that institution.

Man Gets Prison Term On Narcotics Charge

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 27.—Harold William Bradshaw, 40, alias W. E. Kemp, of Augusta County, Va., was brought into Federal District Court here today from the Atlanta Penitentiary and given a two-year-and-six-month sentence, in addition to the three-year term he is now serving. Bradshaw pleaded guilty to impersonating a Federal narcotic agent and received money and drugs from druggists. He was sentenced to three years at Atlanta on a similar count.

Bradshaw demanded that he be brought here for trial at this time and the United States Attorney General upheld his claim.

Three Are Exonerated Of Dynamite Charge

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 27.—George P. and John McDonald, Little Orleans, of this county, brothers, and Bruce Peck, of Hancock, Md., charged with throwing dynamite in an open car in a Western Maryland merchandise train bound for Hagerstown, near Indigo Tunnel, in this county, April 12, last, went free here today.

The State confessed a plea of not guilty as to the McDonalds following their alibi, while a jury acquitted Peck. The car was heavily damaged by the explosion, but was not derailed. The accused denied they were in the vicinity that day, but declared they were away at work. They were defended by Charles G. Watson.

Paralysis Kills Railroad Man.

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 27 (Special). Edward B. Wiseman, 61, for 41 years employed by the N. & W. Railroad, was stricken with paralysis while on his regular run between Hagerstown and Roanoke, Va., yesterday and died today at the Buena Vista, Va., Hospital, according to word received here.

TENLEYTOWN CIRCLE SLATED FOR DEBATE

SURVEY REPORT WAITED

Development of the so-called Tenleytown Circle at Wisconsin and Nebraska avenues is slated for discussion at a meeting of the District coordination committe in the conference room of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission today.

Beautification of the Capital portal at Wisconsin and Western avenues was scheduled to be taken up at the session, but probably will not be reached pending the return of Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the United States Bureau of Public Roads, who is now completing a tour of highways throughout the country.

The Montgomery County Commissioners are agreeable to construction of either a circle or an oval at the Western avenue point, and Irving C. Root, secretary of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, has prepared plans illustrating both types of improvement.

District engineers, however, have ods of treatment, and are more in not approved of either of these methclined to favor a distinctive informal development in which the triangles betwen the various intersecting streets should be acquired and built into small parks, leaving the center focal point clear.

Recently the Bureau of Public Roads Roads was requested to make a study of rotary traffic at the various circles in the District, the information thus obtained to be one of the dominant factors in influencing final selection as to the type of treatment to be used at the Wisconsin-Western avenue point.

Mr. MacDonald is expected to return to Washington late this week, and it is hoped by the coordinating committee that his survey will have been completed and a report in the hands of the committee in time for consideration early in November.

Hopewell Clergyman Takes New Pastorate

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 27.—The Rev. Lloyd C. Moore, for two years pastor of the Methodist Church at Hopewell, has accepted a pastorate in King George County, which he will assume this week. He preached his farewell sermon last night to a large congregation.

The Rev. H. W. Landrum will succeed Mr. Moore, preaching his first sermon there next Sunday night. The congregation here plans to erect a new church.

TALK OF PEACE—AND WAR.

On the day when the spokesmen of the United States, Great Britain and Japan felicitate the world upon ratification of the Treaty of London and express the hope that France and Italy will reach a naval agreement, Premier Mussolini declares that warlike preparations have been made against Italy and that he intends to keep his country armed and ready for war. Obviously, in referring to "batteries posted, forts constructed, and armaments predisposed and consigned," he refers to France.

This outburst by the Italian premier might be dismissed as a gesture intended to maintain enthusiasm of Fascists if it were not accompanied by other extremely significant statements. He openly declares that Italy's opportunity for expansion lies to the eastward. "You therefore understand," he added, "our friendships and alliances." At the same time he advocates revision of the Treaty of Versailles as a means of avoiding war.

The nations demanding a revision of the treaty fixing national boundaries in Europe are Germany, Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria and Italy. The nations opposing revision are France, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Roumania and Jugoslavia. Premier Mussolini plainly hints that he is intent upon alliances with the revisionist countries. It is assumed that alliances have already been formed between Italy and Hungary, and between Italy and Bulgaria. Is an Italo-German alliance in existence? That question worries France. Unless the danger of such an alliance disappears it is idle to suppose that France will consent to a naval agreement with Italy. So long as Mussolini urges revision of the Treaty of Versailles France will take pains to thwart him and make sure that no combination he can form will achieve its purpose.

"Who is violating the pact of the League of Nations?" asks Mussolini. "Those who, at Geneva, have created and wish perpetually to maintain two categories of states—the armed and the unarmed. What moral parity can exist between one nation that is armed and another that is not?"

Mussolini speaks the truth. The powers that control the League of Nations are not moving toward disarmament, but rather toward increase of arms. In the meantime they enforce against Germany and other defeated nations the treaty prohibition of armaments. Because of this policy the pretense of endeavoring to prepare for a general disarmament conference is seen to be a hollow mockery. It is well for the sake of the world public that at least one great power in Europe should blurt out the truth, as Mussolini has done. "Fascist Italy is arming, relatively speaking," he says, "because all are arming."

But notwithstanding Mussolini's exposure of the disarmament humbug, the plan he proposes for maintenance of peace is almost as bad as war. He would open up the question of European national boundaries, which is equivalent to inviting Germany, Poland, Roumania, Czechoslovakia, Austria and Bulgaria, to go to war, with France and Italy taking sides also.

The powers controlling the League of Nations will not permit the Treaty of Versailles to be revised. Mussolini is aware of this fact. His insistence upon revision, his allusion to eastern friendships and alliances, and his declaration that fascism will sweep through Europe are all clearly aimed at France and are correspondingly encouraging to the Fascist elements of Germany.

Gratifying as it may be to see the three great naval powers moving toward permanent elimination of rivalry, it can not be truthfully said that world peace is assured so long as France and Italy and their satellites are pursuing policies and forming combinations that have war in view.

MANY VETERANS WANT CASH.

During the summer it became evident that a movement would be initiated early in the forthcoming session of Congress looking toward the immediate cash redemption of soldiers' bonus certificates. Ever since the adjusted service compensation law was enacted there have been rumblings of discontent with its provisions. Compensation was figured on a basis of $1 a day for each day of domestic service and $1.25 a day for foreign service, but payment was made in the form of certificates that come to maturity many years hence. Provision was made, however, permitting borrowing upon the certificates, and many holders have taken advantage of this provision. But there has been constant agitation for the immediate redemption of the certificates.

The unemployment emergency plays directly into the hands of those favoring immediate redemption. A cash settlement at this time would place in circulation some $2,400,000,000. The sponsors of the movement insist that this outlay would put business on the upgrade, restore buying power in all sections of the country, and substitute a feeling of optimism for the existing pessimism. It is also suggested that immediate redemption of the certificates would be a real economy for the Government. Since the law was enacted about $112,000,000 a year has been put into a sinking fund to meet the obligations at maturity, until at present there is some $750,000,000 impounded for redemption purposes. The Government would have to borrow the balance required for redemption, but recently it has been able to borrow for as little as 2 per cent. The certificates carry 4 per cent interest.

Adjusted service compensation was made in the form of insurance certificates, not to save the Government money, but because this plan was deemed to be in the best interest of the veterans themselves. Most of the compensation certificates reach maturity in 1945. Their holders will receive a sum far in excess of the present value of their certificates. At that time most of the beneficiaries will have reached a period of life when they will have urgent need of the comparatively large sum of money they will receive. The American Legion in its recent convention voted down, 967 to 244, a proposal that Congress be requested to provide for the immediate cash settlement of these service claims.

AFTER REPEAL, WHAT?

The antiprohibition forces that are campaigning for repeal of the eighteenth amendment seldom stop to think of what the consequences would be. The stone wall against which every wet campaigner beats in vain is a simple question: What shall be set up to replace prohibition?

Viscount Astor's radio address on this subject from London was provocative of thought. He has the advantage of viewing the problem from a distance, and of speaking his mind without any prejudices toward either the wets or the drys. Refusing to concern himself with the question of repeal, Viscount Astor contends that, if control of liquor is returned to the States, the real question will be how to provide liquor to those States that decide to be wet.

The eighteenth amendment was adopted in the hope that it would further the cause of temperance and eliminate the corrupting influence of the liquor interests in politics. Hardly any of the wets who are clamoring for repeal of the amendment and the Volstead act would welcome the return of the saloon. How can the evils, the corruption and the failure of the present system be overcome without a return to the saloon with all its unsavory adjuncts? How can liquor be made available to those who desire it without exposing the public to exploitation by the liquor interests?

When the liquor trade is left to private individuals, Viscount Astor points out, the cause of temperance doesn't have a chance. Dealers in intoxicants are not content to supply the existing demand, but they spend vast sums in creating an artificial demand to stimulate their business. What means can be adopted to satisfy the public thirst without encouraging inebriety? This question has not been answered, and has been given far too little attention.

Viscount Astor suggests that the manufacture and distribution of liquor be placed in the hands of a public body. In some cases that plan has met with a degree of success, but it opens the door to political corruption and does not eliminate the bootlegger. In some way this question of what shall follow the eighteenth amendment must be answered before the wets will get a serious hearing.

IN THE HALL OF FAME.

Four Americans have been added to the roster of the Hall of Fame at New York University. Ranging over the entire field of human achievement, as represented in the lives of the numerous candidates for this honor, the electors chose a painter, a poet, a meteorologist and a statesman.

James Monroe is known to every American. His memory is kept fresh by the vitality of the doctrine he promulgated. "Walt" Whitman's verse and his kindly philosophy of comradeship are appreciated in Europe as well as in America to a far greater extent than when the poet was alive. James A. McNeill Whistler holds a high place in the esteem of art lovers, but his work has not touched the lives of the common people or the life of the Nation as did that of the poet and the statesman. Matthew Fontaine Maury was one of the country's leaders in science, but it is rather surprising to see his name placed above others of world-wide renown.

Every time new names are written in the Hall of Fame the public is left with a strange feeling. What constitutes fame? Why are some comparatively obscure individuals honored above others whom the public considers great? Why should many receive a two-thirds majority vote when men like Francis Scott Key and Paul Revere, who are known by every schoolboy, fail to win ten votes out of 100? Certainly the Hall of Fame would honor the memory of quite a different set of men, if they were chosen by the public.

Real merit, perhaps, is more generally recognized by a distinguished group of electors than by the public. But even this group has no standard by which fame may be measured. It has been truly said that there is no royal road to success, but there is not even a trail leading to the Hall of Fame.

MUSK OX HERD FOR ALASKA.

The Department of Agriculture landed in New York a herd of 34 musk oxen on September 15, which it had assembled during the summer in Greenland. The animals were transferred to the quarantine station at Athenia, N. J., and last week, at the conclusion of a 30-day quarantine period during which the herd showed excellent health, the beasts were loaded on express cars and started for their new home in Alaska. The musk oxen will be established at the reindeer experiment station of the Biological Survey, and it is hoped that the herd will be the forerunner of a musk-ox industry in America's northernmost territory.

Ovibos moschatus, as science describes the musk ox, is a native of the arctic and subarctic. He is covered with long brown hair, thick, matted and curly at the shoulders, but elsewhere straight and hanging down, concealing the tail. He also has a thick, wooly underfur which he sheds in summer in blanketlike masses. These animals travel in herds and feed chiefly on grass. No one knows to what uses the heavy, fine underwool of the musk ox may be adapted, but the Government proposes to find out by actual experiment. Moreover, the musk ox is an excellent meat animal. If he can be domesticated in Alaska, the inhabitants of that rigorous country will be secure in their meat supply and should be able to build up a hide and fur industry of considerable value.

NAVAL READINESS

By Commander HOLLOWAY H. FROST, U. S. N.

In an article yesterday we demonstrated by means of historical examples why a navy must be maintained in readiness for war. Today we will first show the application of this general principle to our present situation. Then we will show what constitutes naval readiness.

The United States Navy today operates under a peculiar disadvantage. It must be ready on two fronts. Our fleet is necessarily divided into detachments in the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. It requires about twenty days to concentrate the United States Fleet at New York or San Francisco. To assemble it at Hawaii, the key of the Pacific, would take about 30 days. To bring the United States fleet to the assistance of our Asiatic fleet in Philippine waters would require about 60 days. In these waters we have basing facilities sufficient to maintain about one tenth of our fleet in peace time. There is no dock capable of holding a capital ship.

On the other hand the Japanese fleet is always concentrated. The British naval forces in European waters could be concentrated in home waters in seven days. The entire British naval forces could be assembled in the well equipped base at Singapore in about 30 days. These facts require that our fleet be kept in an exceptionally high state of readiness.

It may be asked if this state of preparedness is necessary today when there is no immediate prospect of war with any great power. Such is the most favorable time to increase, rather than decrease, our naval readiness. Such preparations today are directed against no particular country and thus have no adverse political effect. If we neglect them now and wait until a critical diplomatic situation develops we will find ourselves on the horns of a dilemma. If political considerations prevent the necessary naval preparations and war ensues, we enter it with greatly reduced chances of success. If we start making the preparations, we are liable to aggravate the political situation and bring upon ourselves the charge of aggression. Furthermore, the enemy may commence the war before our preparations are complete—as did the Japanese against the Russians in 1904.

A navy's readiness may be measured with substantial accuracy by the tonnage of first-line combatant ships in commission.

It is obvious that a ship in commission is a much greater war asset than one tied up in a navy yard without a crew. This is true from the viewpoints of both material and personnel.

In the case of a ship in commission its captain, officers and crew know that their reputations depend upon the material condition of their ship and its ability to operate effectively. Superior officers inspect it quarterly with minute attention to detail. Frequent engineering, gunnery and communication exercises bring inevitably to the attention of superiors every material defect. Its spare parts, equipment and supplies are actually on board and must be in good condition.

When a ship is laid up in a yard without officers or crew there are none of these incentives to material readiness. The commandant has little interest in a ship which may be used sometime in the distant future—after he has passed to other duty. To preserve machinery it is necessary to treat it in such a way that much careful and skillful work is required to make it again operative. It is extremely difficult to preserve the storage batteries of submarines; and to manufacture them in an emergency would take many months. For reasons of economy it is impracticable to keep on hand all the necessary stores and equipment. Furthermore, the improvements made to vessels in commission are not made to those out of commission. This results in their rapidly becoming obsolete.

From the personnel viewpoint, the situation is even more emphasized. The ship in commission has an efficient complement of officers and men. Daily training and close association weld them into one of the most efficient organizations known in the world. There is mutual confidence between officers and men. There is that most vital element of success: Ship spirit. And finally, the ship is an effective part in an immense organization: The fleet.

A ship out of commission has no captain, officers or men. When mobilization is ordered they must be hurriedly assembled from various sources. To provide a nucleus of personnel trained in the latest developments of ship and fleet operation, a party of regular officers and men must be furnished by a ship in commission—thus reducing the efficiency of that ship at a most critical time. Next arrives a group of naval reservists who have served in the regular Navy. While these men individually have been of the highest quality, many of them will be past the prime of life, all will be somewhat behind the times, and none—except by chance—will ever have seen each other before. The remainder of the crew is supplied by a reserve organization similar to the National Guard. While these units contain many officers and men of great potential value, it can not be proposed that one short drill a week and a two-week's training cruise annually make them as valuable as regular personnel. Nevertheless, this comparatively inferior complement must perform one of the most difficult tasks in the naval profession: The commissioning of a ship in the inevitable confusion of a mobilization.

It is probable that at least two months must elapse before a vessel out of commission can even commence a cruise toward the theater of operations. At that time its war value certainly would not be more than one-third that of a regular ship in commission—and it has reached this level only by taking regular personnel from that ship. In six months the newly commissioned ship might be about two-thirds as effective as the regularly commissioned vessel. Possibly in a year it might equal it in efficiency.

The Battle of Coronel offers a striking proof of these conclusions. The newly commissioned British cruisers were helpless against the regularly commissioned crack-shooting German vessels. It was simply slaughter. They never had a fighting chance.

Thus we may safely conclude that in comparing the readiness of navies it is only the ships in commission which really count. Those laid up in navy yards contribute very little to a navy's fighting strength. They pad its tonnage figures and produce a feeling of security which does not exist in fact.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

UNCHANGEABLE.

Oh, times may change and customs new arise when we are gone,
But in ten thousand years from now some things will still go on.
So long as money pays the bills,
There will be law suits over wills
And relatives who see a chance to get a little more;
So long as gold and silver pave
A smoother pathway to the grave
There will be men to steal and cheat the way they've done before.

Electric wires and ships in air and speech that conquers space
May alter man's environment, but not the human race.
In years long after we are dead
Man still will stop and turn his head
And stare at every pretty girl whom he may chance to meet,
And some will love and some will hate,
Some foolishly will dissipate,
And some will still attempt to gain advantage of deceit.

Ten thousand years from now or more ill-tempered men will swear,
The cowardly will shirk the fight, while brave men do and dare.
As men have done in ages past
They'll rock the boat or drive too fast,
Or find some other foolish way in tragedy to die,
Whatever changes time may bring
In happy hours they'll laugh and sing,
And weep in sorrow, groan in pain—the same as you and I.

Nature Prompts Necessary Acts, But Honor Prompts Decent Ones.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

YOUNG people, reading tributes to a mother's love, wonder why a father's love is so little praised. Is it because fathers love less, or merely because their love makes less appeal to poets and artists?

In short, is old dad denied a square deal merely because praise of mother finds a better market?

The truth is, father love is something new. It is as new as civilization.

Among the wild creatures it is the mother that attends and protects the young. Nature gave her duties the male can not share. Her capacity for love is greater than the male's because she needs more. The male is love-free and care-free because he isn't needed. The mother deserves no special credit. Nature equips her with love because nothing else would impel her to remember her responsibilities.

Primitive man doubtless deserted his progeny much as other male animals do. Some men do it yet. It was man's indifference to his children that prompted early civilization to invent marriage laws. There were too many half-orphans cared for by mothers alone while fathers went their merry way free of burdens.

With marriage laws and laws to make the male parent responsible for his offspring came the first true home.

Father love developed slowly, however, as all things develop. It kept pace with the development of civilization. As man approached the ideal of compassion and justice and unselfishness, his ability to love his children increased in proportion to his decency.

Mother love is not instinctive. It, also, must be learned. Chinese mothers still drown new children by the thousand. In more civilized lands many mothers resent the coming of a child, and love for it develops slowly.

In the development of love a mother has advantages. We love the thing we defend. The act of giving alms to a beggar increases our interest in him. Ministering to a child, as a male parent can not, awakens a mother's love. And she has, moreover, a capacity for love inherited from her sex and bequeathed to her by nature.

Even so, some mothers desert or ignore their children—and the explanation is obvious.

A father's love, being an evidence of his acquired capacity for justice, unselfishness and compassion, is a measure of his civilization.

A mother's love, prompted by nature and necessity and inherited from her sex, affords less proof of civilization and merits less praise.

If she loves much, nature deserves most of the credit; if she loves little, she is less civilized than man.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Blames Republicans for Heflin.

Baltimore Sun.

Should Senator Heflin return to the Senate, the Democratic party of Alabama will be in position to say that it is not responsible for the calamity. The G. O. P. will reelect the senator if he is successful in his contest.

The Republicans have not nominated a candidate against Heflin, and it is anticipated that the party's vote will be largely thrown to him, a course which has led to speculation as to the cause of its interest in Heflin. A Washington dispatch to the Birmingham (Ala.) News throws light on the subject. It says that Senator George H. Moses, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, admits that Heflin saw him on the matter last winter and was referred to Oliver D. Street as the dictator of Republican strategy in the State. No nomination was made. The News recalls that when the Republican Old Guard needed but one vote to defeat the Borah resolution last winter to restrict tariff legislation to agricultural schedules only, Heflin furnished it.

The News asks if the quid pro quo was Republican support for Heflin in his reelection contest.

Same Old Hokum.

Indianapolis Star.

The political campaign has reached the point where the spellbinders are trying to make the same old thing sound slightly different.

Speak Easy!

Philadelphia Inquirer.

When the Antisaloon League claimed that 74 senators "are dry," it might have kept to the spirit of truth by adding, "in a manner of speaking."

Hazing Morrow.

Atlanta Constitution.

Maybe if Morrow realized what Bill Borah has in pickle for him in the Senate he would prefer to go back to Mexico.

Pat Hurley, Fighting Man.

New York Times.

The Washington Administration was a little slow in sending a representative to take part in the New York campaign, but when it did send one it picked a man of war. Secretary Hurley brought both his guns along with him to this city on Saturday. He said a few words in favor of Mr. Tuttle, and a few more in behalf of Mrs. Pratt, but reserved his main fire in defense of President Hoover. Speaking loyally of his chief as an intelligent and hard-working Executive doing his best to lead the country out of the "backwash of a world-wide economic crisis," he opened up all his batteries against the despicable opponents of the President who are endeavoring not only to impair his leadership but to destroy his character. In a fine belligerent burst he called them "kept muckrakers and paid liars."

Doesn't Believe Stebbins.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

W. M. Stebbins, State treasurer of Nebraska, and unsuccessful candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination, comes forward to say it is he who financed the abortive candidacy of Grocer W. Norris. That $500 bond so frequently mentioned during the Senate's investigation of the incident, as well as an additional contribution of $350, came from Stebbins' pocket. So he says. There is logic in the admission, for it was Stebbins who would have benefited if the plot had been successful. But his confession is not wholly convincing, in that it is apparently designed to absolve Victor Seymour and other grand strategists of the G. O. P. from responsibility.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Trap the Starlings and Deport Them Back to England, Suggests Alfred Sandboy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The starlings are once again swarming into the sycamore trees along Pennsylvania avenue. The men who are repairing the roof of the District Building have constructed a scaffold which with a bit of ingenuity might easily be turned into a trap for the starling. Wire netting might be placed over the scaffold and a sliding door placed on the front that faces the Avenue. Then some kind of starling delicacy might be placed within the inclosure for the purpose of luring the birds in, after which the sliding door can be closed.

As it is against the law to slaughter starlings the trapped birds can be placed in huge cages and shipped back to England, their native land, where they can delight in pestering their countrymen. If something is not done in a hurry to get rid of these pests they will again thwart all the efforts of humankind and be abounding by tens of thousands. Spoil their roosting places before they become too familiar with them and the birds can be driven away for good if it proves too expensive to ship them back to merry old England.

ALFRED SANDBOY.

Origin of the "Campbellite" Church, Founded by Col. Campbell.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have been very much interested in the reports I have read in The Post of the transactions of the Conference of the Church of the Disciples of Christ. Mention was made of Gen. Garfield.

In the first half of the "70's" of the last century, I was in the drug business in Ohio. The Christian Church was strong in that part of the State. No better people could be found than those of that denomination. My last three years of the "70's" were spent in "reading medicine" with the oldest and leading physician in the town, a former surgeon in an Ohio regiment in the Civil War. He and Gen. Garfield were intimate friends. The general spent one day each summer with my preceptor (most of the time was spent in playing croquet). Gen. Garfield was representative in Congress from that district and much beloved by all.

I have read several addresses, reported, mentioning the earlier history of the church in America, but they do not go back far enough. Members of the church were very often called "The Campbellites." The originator—the father—was Col. Alexander Campbell, born in Ireland of Scotch parentage. He was educated at Glasgow University, in the theological department and came to America to serve as pastor of a Presbyterian church in western Pennsylvania. Not being satisfied with the "rules and regulations" of that denomination, he went over to the Baptists. Still not satisfied, he organized a church, founded on the simplest teachings of the scriptures. He also built a university called "Bethany." In the old days travelers on the Ohio River could plainly see, on a high hillside on the Virginia side (now West Virginia) a large plain-looking building. That was the university. Everything connected with Col. Campbell was such that Christ Himself would accept. Col. Campbell had a large following in four States in that part of the United States.

H. T. DUNBAR.

High Cost of Small Necessaries Brings Out a Kick.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish to protest vigorously against the cost of getting a shoe shine, a sandwich, a glass of milk, a piece of pie, a package of cigarettes—anything that, before the World War, was 5 cents, but is now priced at 10.

If it is true that commodity prices, based on the cost of production, are practically on a prewar level, then I for one am against having to pay 10 cents for a shoe shine (plus the nickel tip which the shiner expects). The price should be, say, 6 or 7 cents, 8 at the most, and this argument should be approved by the shoe-parlor barons. Furthermore, all the other now-10-cent commodities that were formerly a nickel should be reduced at least a penny or two.

Remember the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves.

CLIMBING FISH.

Not a few naturalists have held that fish can not climb more than 50 feet by means of a natural fishway. The subject is a favorite for campfire debate, says the New York Sun. On the beautiful Mersey, which, rising in Lake Rossignol in Nova Scotia, flows into the sea at Liverpool Harbor, 75 miles southwest of Halifax, industrial works are under construction. The flow of the stream is interrupted, and the Canadian Department of Fisheries constructed a fishway 59 feet high, without elevators. The official report is that "fish are making the climb up river without difficulty." Observations made by the fisheries officers establish the ability of fish to climb more than 50 feet, and suggest that they could climb higher if it were necessary.

From the other side of the Dominion the Fisheries Department brings good news. This year 9,061 sockeye salmon bound up the river to the spawning grounds went up the fishway at Stamp River Falls, British Columbia, between June 11 and July 20. Last year the counters set at 3,512 the number of salmon using the fishway. This year "a very large number of sockeye" were able to make their way over the falls. The fishway offers an easier route to salmon that might not be able to follow the natural route. Stamp River Falls fishway is 40 feet high and eliminates a crashing, turbulent fall. Salmon are worth money in the market; game wardens care for them.

KING WILL CONVENE PARLIAMENT TODAY

Will Be Monarch's First Appearance in Rites Since His Illness.

BIG ISSUES ARE FACED

London, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The seventh parliament of the reign of King George V will reassemble at Westminster tomorrow to face heavy legislative duties, home and imperial political and economic issues, a probable unemployment crisis and the likelihood of a national election early next year.

With all the pomp and circumstance of London's most regal public display, King George, accompanied by Queen Mary, will drive in state from Buckingham Palace to the houses of Parliament to perform at midday the historic ceremony of reading the speech from the throne.

Special significance attaches to tomorrow's royal progress to Westminster. King George will be acclaimed in the streets, for the occasion will mark resumption of his attendance at Westminster after his long and critical illness of two winters ago. Since then Parliament has been opened and prorogued by royal commissioners.

Opened Naval Conference.

Last January the king braved a blinding, chilling fog to open the five-power naval conference in London, but this is his first reappearance on the actual parliamentary scene.

Highly important legislation is on the program of the new parliamentary session. There will be big debates on India, and possible laws to enact as a result of the Indian round table conference. Laws also may be needed to make effective the work of the imperial conference now drawing to a close.

With continued increase of unemployment, now over the 2,000,000 mark, a crisis on the issue may arise from the need of the government for further borrowing powers under the unemployment insurance act. Amendment of the trades union act also will fan the fires of party strife.

Another bill up for action is the highly important London transport measure, which will coordinate all the traffic facilities of the British capital. A town-planning act will follow the slum-clearing act of last session, while the Labor government will introduce its important agricutural measure to make land and government financial support available to small farmers.

To Raise School-Leaving Age.

During the approaching session also the Labor government intends to raise the school-leaving age, with provision for maintenance, and to set up a consumers' council which will protect the housewife against profiteering.

Informed opinion says a general election is not expected until early in 1931, but rarely has the British political line-up been more uncertain. The parties may take the field almost at any moment should a sudden crisis develop in the House of Commons.

The parliamentary session beginning tomorrow is adjourned for about three weeks at Christmas and then its natural life would continue until July, but an election is considered probable before that date unless last-minute reports prove true—that the king's speech will include an announcement the government intends to put an electoral reform bill through the coming season.

Such a bill would afford a degree of proportional representation. David Lloyd George and the Liberals have been pressing for this reform, and if it is introduced it will tend to bring the Liberal and Labor forces into even closer relations than recently. This might delay another British election for two years.

Philadelphia Firm Gets Receivership

Brokerage House in Which R. Norris Williams 2d Is Partner, Fails.

Philadelphia, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The stock brokerage firm of C. Clothier Jones & Co., with offices in Philadelphia, New York and several smaller cities in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, went into the hands of receivers here today after being suspended from the New York and Philadelphia stock exchanges for insolvency.

Robert Dechert, of counsel for the firm, said that assets of the brokers totaled about $7,423,000. No accounting had yet been made of liabilities, but he estimated that they would exceed the assets.

The brokerage firm was a limited copartnership, consisting of five general partners and one special partner, Nelson H. Gildersleeve. The general members were C. Clothier Jones, Raymond R. Bailey, John Bell Hugh, Paul Tarpan, and R. Norris Williams 2d, who is a former national tennis champion, at present in Europe on his honeymoon.

Horse Stables, Stallion Burned at Winchester

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 27.—Fire today destroyed a row of horse stables and large live stock exhibition pens on the Winchester Fair Grounds and burned up a registered stallion valued at $1,000 by the owner, George Carver. The animal had won prizes at York, Pa., and other large fairs. Carver also lost all his racing harness, sulkies, bikes and other equipment.

The combined loss was placed at about $4,000, with the fair society partly insured and Carver carrying none. The fire was the second there in 90 days, a large row of stables having been burned early in August.

M'DONALD DEFIES PARLIAMENT FOES

Minister on Eve of Session Denies He Will Seek Early Election.

PREDICTS FIGHT TO END

London, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Prime Minister MacDonald tonight disposed of persistent rumors that the Labor party would seek an early general election to clear up the confused parliamentary situation. He declared, at a reception arranged by the National Labor Club, that the government might be turned out by one of the other parties, but its intention was to continue with its work.

"I see there are all sorts of speculations about a general election," he said. "A general election will come when the government is turned out, and either of the other parties can do it when it likes.

"But so far as the government is concerned, its intention is to continue with its work."

The Prime Minister predicted the parliamentary session opening tomorrow would be particularly heavy and strenuous.

"You can be perfectly well assured that we are out for work. I am sorry to say that we may have to work the House of Commons even more strenuously than we worked it in the last session.

"We are living in strenuous days and laborious nights. It is very hard to draw the line between night and day so far as work is concerned, but we are ready to go on."

Commenting on the political activities of his adversaries, the Prime Minister said:

"I suppose tomorrow Mr. Baldwin will announce another new program. "Almost every day for the past two or three weeks he has been testing programs upon the credulity of the public, and several times before he has known what he has been committing himself to, he has committed himself to it with most extraordinary valor.

"So far as the government is concerned, we are going ahead steadily, quietly and imperturbably. The chief business of this session will be to begin reconstructing from an agriculture basis.

"It must be done in a careful, scientific way, because if this country is going to enjoy good health and prosperity it must have more roots in the land than unfortunately it has at present."

New World Mark Set By Schoenhair Flight

Akron, Ohio, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—A new world record for a 1,000-kilometer airplane flight over a closed course was claimed here today by Lee Schoenhair, noted distance flier, after he covered the distance in 3 hours and 47 minutes.

This is an average of about 165 miles per hour for the 625 miles. The world record, held by Fernand Lasne, of France, is 154.29 miles per hour.

17 New York Reds Held For Attempt to Picket

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Seventeen of a group of 50 Communists were arrested today when they attempted to picket a restaurant which is protected from picketing by a Supreme Court injunction.

Several of the prisoners were women. They submitted to arrest without disorder.

BUSINESS LEADERS GATHER IN DETROIT

REPRESSION'S END SEEN

Detroit, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Business conditions in Detroit and throughout the Nation today were subjected to the scrutiny of nearly 100 representatives of railroads, public utility corporations, chambers of commerce and real estate boards gathered for the annual fall meeting of the industrial prosperity division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Virgil Jordan, economist for the McGraw-Hill Corporation, of New York, said he had noted a change in conditions during the past few weeks which he believed presaged a general business revival. He cited an improvement in the textile industry and in residence building.

C. E. Ward, industrial commissioner for the Erie Railroad Co., New York, advocated the installment plan of payment for industrial sites as a means of aiding manufacturers. He said that the financial institutions of the future will do for great industries what they have done for small consumers by making available the plants they need on easy terms.

Walter S. Darden, a Detroit realtor, told the meeting that one of the basic reasons for Detroit's development "was its original and continuing opposition to labor unions," which he said "has done more to make the city great than the automobile business."

Jordan in his address said that "old-fashioned banking policies, ill-conceived tariff attitudes and lack of management," coupled with the "American state of mind," were responsible for the present business depression.

He said restriction of production would not bring relief in any quarter because that theory is based on "the myth of overproduction." Jordan predicted future prosperity through a continuation of the higher living standards which created prosperity in the past decade. He said the next industrial expansion will be based on improvements in the building industry, developments of power sources and new chemical industries.

HIGH COURT UPSETS CUNNINGHAM RULING

Actions of Lower Tribunals in Vare Contributor's Case to Be Vacated.

FUTURE COURSE IN DARK

(Associated Press.)

Habeas corpus proceedings brought by Thomas W. Cunningham, of Philadelphia, to obtain his release from arrest for trial in the District of Columbia on charges of contempt of the Senate were wiped out yesterday by the Supreme Court.

Cunningham appeared several times before a Senate commmittee investigating the election of William S. Vare as senator from Pennsylvania. He testified that he had contributed $50,000 to the Republican campaign, but refused to tell the committee where he got the money.

At that time he was sheriff of Philadelphia. He was indicted here and arrested in Philadelphia. He fought removal for trial, bringing habeas corpus proceedings against W. Frank Mathues, then United States marshal, who held him under arrest.

The Federal district court of Philadelphia dismissed the proceedings and Cunningham appealed to the circuit court of appeals which held that questions relating to the source from which he obtained the funds were not material to the committee's investigation and ordered his release.

The Government asked the Supreme Court to review the case and later pointed out that proceedings in the lower Federal courts appeared to be defective because while the case was pending in the Circuit Court of Appeals, Mathues had ceased to be marshal and his successor, Walter C. Fetters, had not been substituted. It suggested that proceedings in the lower courts should be abated because of this defect.

The Supreme Court yesterday consented to review the case and after assuming jurisdiction at once issued orders directing the Circuit Court of Appeals and the District Court to vacate their judgments and directed the District Court to dismiss proceedings as abated.

This action will have the effect of setting aside the decisions of both of the lower courts. What action Cunningham or the Government will now take in view of this ruling was not disclosed.

Hunters Search Vainly But Auto Kills Deer

Durham, N. H., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Hundreds of hunters were in the woods in northern New England today striving to find a deer to shoot.

John C. Fletcher, a student at the University of New Hampshire, chalked up his kill, but not with a gun. A six-point buck ran in front of Fletcher's automobile and was killed.

Shaw Rolls on Floor, Portraying Film Fight

Elstree, England, Oct. 27 (A.P.). When George Bernard Shaw calls for a fight in the script of one of his plays, he wants action.

He demonstrated this personally today during the filming of his play, "How He Lied to Her Husband." The 74-year-old Irish dramatist literally rolled about on the floor with the leading man of the film in an effort to show him how a Shavian fight should be constructed.

Mr. Shaw is taking an active interest in the production of his play as a movie, which is in progress at this town, the Hollywood of England. Some of the rehearsals have been held in his London home.

Patience Is Asked For British Parley

Spokesman Declares There Is No Pessimism at Empire Conference.

London, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Spokesmen of the Imperial Conference today asked the British public and press to have patience regarding the progress of conference proceedings, which in some quarters last week were reported to have reached a crisis.

J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, speaking at a luncheon to delegates, said there should be no pessimism. He said there was no dissatisfaction with the program and no conflict within the conference.

The address was interpreted as a reply to Premier Forbes of New Zealand, who had said, "We seem to be drifting and not to be getting anywhere."

The official spokesman pointed out there was a great mass of work before the empire premiers, far more than in 1926, when the conference lasted seven weeks, dealing only with constitutional problems. This conference is handling political and economic matters.

Disabled Schooner's Crew Reported Safe

Boston, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The Coast Guard cutter Wainwright reported by wireless to Coast Guard headquarters here this afternoon that all were safe aboard the disabled schooner Eskimo and that she was proceeding to Gloucester with the crippled vessel in tow.

The Wainwright, which found the Eskimo struggling, with only jib and part of her foresail set, less than three miles off shore north of Nauset Light on Cape Cod, said the ship was leaking badly when the Coast Guardsmen swung alongside. The Eskimo, with a crew of eight men, including the captain, left Liverpool, Nova Scotia, for Annapolis Royal, N. S., on October 23, with a cargo of lumber.

11 REVIEWS DENIED BY SUPREME COURT

(Associated Press.)

The first two weeks of its session having cleared away the bulk of the contests that crowded its calendar, the Supreme Court held a short session yesterday in which few cases stood out above routine dispensations.

It advanced the hearing of three cases, ordered the action of the lower Federal courts in habeas corpus proceedings brought by Thomas W. Cunningham, of Philadelphia, wiped out, directing the dismissal of the proceedings; consented to review two cases, and refused to review eleven.

A case brought by the Educational Films Corporation and others to test a franchise tax imposed by New York claimed unlawfully to include income received from copyrights was advanced for hearing on December 1.

The court refused to pass on the validity of the Ohio statute regulating small loans, challenged by Edward T. Dunn, of East Cleveland. It declined to pass on the conviction of G. C. Stephens and four others in California on the charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with the affairs of Stephens Co., which have offices in San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and Pasadena, and refused to decide in a case brought by the United Profit-Sharing Corporation of New York City whether jewelry furnished by it in redemption of coupons was taxable under the revenue acts of 1918 and 1921.

A case brought by the Mascot Oil Co., Inc., of Los Angeles, Calif., seeking a refund of $28,846 of Federal taxes, was granted a review. The company contends the tax was imposed after the time allowed by law.

Youthful Flier Seeks To Break Buck Record

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Stanley Boynton, 18-year-old Maine flier, who reached here this afternoon on his transcontinental flight, said tonight that he expects to take off for Chicago at 8 a. m. tmorrow.

He left Rockland, Me., this morning in an attempt to better the coast-to-coast junior record of 27 hours 40 minutes, held by Robert Buck, of New Jersey. His flying time this far was announced as 6 hours 10 minutes.

FOR THE SAFETY OF YOUR HOME

SIXTY percent of all fires occur in the home. More than 7,000 lives are lost by fire in American homes each year.

To safeguard the families and communities of this country the Stock Fire Insurance companies have provided various measures of prevention and protection, through the National Board of Fire Underwriters and other organizations.

Such measures include the use of proper building materials, better building practices, the testing of home utilities, lighting and heating devices, fire extinguishing apparatus, and other services.

Department of Building Construction

The National Board Committee on Construction of Buildings assembles and distributes the best available information on reliable materials and construction methods. Few indeed are the municipal building codes that have not used in whole or in part the information and assistance of this department.

Fire Prevention

Through the Committee on Fire Prevention and Engineering Standards, the officials of more than 400 cities have received detailed analyses of municipal fire defenses, with recommendations for their improvement. In the smaller cities this work is done by the engineers of other organizations maintained by

ALEXANDRIA OBTAINS NEW WATER SUPPLY

Utility to Make Connection With Well Belonging to Ice Company.

JUDGE SENTENCES THIEF

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 823.

The Alexandria Water Co. will supplement its supply of water today when a connection will be made with the artesian well of the Mutual Ice Co. at the latter company's plant at the north end of Payne street. The well will furnish a supply of 750,000 gallons a day. The water company will lay 1,500 feet of 6-inch pipe from the ice company's plant down Payne street to Madison to connect with the 16-inch main at Payne and Madison streets.

Urban S. Lambert, president of the water company, stated yesterday that with the supply of water in the reservoir, added to that to be furnished by the ice company, it is believed that his company will be able to supply the demand. The reservoir now contains a supply sufficient for nearly 30 days, and the precaution of obtaining an additional supply from the ice company's well is taken to conserve the present supply. The supply on hand is said to be the smallest reserve in the history of the local water company.

The water compnay has now a 4-inch main from the Mutual Ice Co.'s plant down Payne street to the Madison street connection, but this was not regarded as of sufficient capacity and the larger main will be laid today and be in use by tonight, it was stated yesterday.

Reports have been made to the police of three houses entered by burglars over the week-end, only a small amount of loot being obtained by the robbers in one case.

A. C. Howard, of 1904 King street, reported that his house was entered Sunday morning and his daughter aroused by the light from a flashlight carried by the intruder. The burglar, who gained entrance through a back pantry window which had been left unlocked, carried off a black pocketbook and a small purse containing $10 in cash and a check for $12, together with a silver pencil and a registration card for an automobile. Policemen Embrey and Stewart made an investigation, but were unable to find a trace of the burglar.

Frank E. Hopkins reported that his house on Lloyd's lane, Braddock, was entered early Sunday morning, the burglar smashing the glass in a door leading from the side porch of the house and going through a room occupied by Mr. Hopkins' daughter carrying a flashlight. Miss Hopkins made an outcry which frightened the man away before he secured any loot. Sergt. Everly and Policeman Posey investigated, but were unable to locate the burglar.

Edward Magruder, 51 Dick street, Rosemont Park, reported his house was entered Saturday night in the absence of the family, glass in a front window being broken. Nothing was missing. Sergt. Padgett and Policemen Jones and Posey investigated and obtained fingerprints.

In the police court yesterday, B. B. Williams, 21 years old, of F street southwest near Seventh street, Washington, was fined $100 and $3 costs and sentenced to a month in jail on a charge of petit larceny and disorderly conduct in connection with the alleged theft of a package of candy Sunday night from the store of Albert Hurshman, King and Royal streets. D. J. Neville, the companion of Williams, of East Lloyd avenue, was charged with disorderly conduct and carrying concealed weapons, and was sentenced to one year in jail.

Mrs. Albert Hurshman testified that the two men entered the store late Sunday night and, after buying a soft drink, one of the men took away a box of candy. She pursued them to a car parked nearby and found a third man in charge of the car. She took the switch key of the machine and reported to the police. Williams was later arrested by Policemen Embrey and Stewart and Neville by Policemen Baker and Welker. Williams testified that he was drunk, as an excuse for his actions. Neville was found to be carrying a pistol which, however, was not loaded.

The third man, who was found in the car by Mrs. Hurshman, was acquitted.

The home of F. C. Johnson, 116 South Royal street, was damaged by fire yesterday afternoon which started in a closet on the first floor that was filled with boxes and clothing, and the flames spread to the second floor before the fire could be gotten under control. A canary bird in a cage on the second floor was suffocated and a pocketbook belonging to Mrs. Johnson and containing $12 was burned.

The funeral of Miss Margaret E. Young, who died on Saturday in the Alexandria Hospital, took place yesterday afternoon from the home, 10 Rosemont avenue, conducted by the Rev. Dr. D. L. Snyder, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Burial was in Ivy Hill Cemetery. Pallbearers were Arthur Herbert, Taylor Burke, George E. Warfield, Ashton Jones, J. E. W. Timberman, and Frank Brawner.

The funeral of Mrs. Ida Cunningham Crilly, wife of J. H. Crilly, who died on Friday at her home, 607 Cameron street, took place yesterday morning from St. Mary's Catholic Church, conducted by the Rev. T. A. Rankin. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery. Pallbearers were Judge William P. Woolls, John Crilly, Leo Cunningham, Urban S. Lambert, T. J. Fannon, and Clement Ransburg.

Mrs. Mary E. Wertz, aged 46 years, wife of William Wertz, died on Sunday night at her home, 516 Cameron street, and the funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from Demaine's chapel, conducted by the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Burial will be in Union Cemetery.

Confederate Veteran Dies Near Disputanta

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 27.—John David Grammer, 85, died at his home near Disputanta last night. Mr. Grammer, who was a member of A. P. Hill Camp of Confederate Veterans of Petersburg, joined the Confederate army in the fall of 1863 at Sussex Courthouse. He joined a company of the Thirteenth Virginia Cavalry of the Chambliss Brigade, Lee's division of northern Virginia.

He is survived by the following sons and daughters: L. G. Grammer, of Disputanta; Ieland Grammer, of Disputanta; Theron Grammer and Miss Inice Grammer, of Sussex County, and Mrs. Otto Wachsmann, of Sussex Courthouse. He is also survived by nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

High School Youth Dies in Accident

Special to The Washington Post.

Indian Head, Md., Oct. 27.—One high school youth was killed and another critically injured about 3:30 o'clock this afternoon when the motorcycle on which they were riding crashed into a telephone pole as the driver attempted to pass a school bus.

Maynard Wheeler, of Marbury, a sophomore at Lackey High School, died shortly after reaching the Naval Dispensary Hospital here, while Maurice Bowie, of Pisgah, was said to be in a critical condition.

Bowie, the driver, tried to dodge an approaching automobile in attempting to pass the bus. They were taken to the hospital by a passing motorist.

Former Governor Says Full Dinner Pail Is Dead as Political Issue.

TALK ON TARIFF TONIGHT

Providence, R. I., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Speaking before 12,000 persons here tonight and over a Nation-wide radio hookup, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York advocated a five-day work week for American labor, urged uniform State child labor laws and arraigned the Republican administration for its alleged failure to recognize or attempt to alleviate unemployment and business depression.

Tonight's was the first of two addresses in the 1930 campaign scheduled for the former governor. The second will be in Boston tomorrow night when, he said, he will discuss the tariff in detail with a view to showing that it is in great measure responsible for unemployment.

His advocacy of the five-day week came in the form of a reference to a radio speech tonight by John J. Raskob, Democratic natoinal chairman.

Right to Protest Upheld.

"The Democratic party does not want to make political capital out of unemployment," said Mr. Smith, "but as the minority party, we insist on our right to protest. I do not believe, and I don't believe that any Democratic leader in this country believes that the Republican party is responsible for depression. We have too many brains. But we do blame the Republican party for promising a continuance of prosperity when they knew they couldn't do it."

Henceforth, he said, no political party will have "the brazen effrontery" to make an issue of prosperity. The "full dinner pail is dead as an issue," he added.

Mr. Smith indicted the Republican party on three counts. First, he said, it pledged a continuance of prosperity which it could not deliver; second, it refused to face the facts of business depression promptly, and third, it "failed to do that which the Government could have done to relieve the situation."

Public Building Program Cited.

He charged that, despite Republican claims of speeding public works as a means of alleviating business depression, the appropriation bill carrying funds for public works during the current year was $26,000,000 under the total of the bill for the last fiscal year, and that the total cost of operation of the Federal Government this year was the "highest in the history of the United States."

A loud "boo" greeted the only reference which the former Presidential nominee made to President Hoover by name, early in his speech. Mr. Smith halted the demonstration by remarking that his audience should not take up the time of the radio broadcast. He said that election of a Republican House of Representatives next week would be construed, "and perhaps improperly so," as an indorsement of the administration, while election of a Democratic House would be construed as a rebuke.

One Killed, Three Hurt As Trestle Collapses

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 27.—One member of a Chesapeake & Ohio bridge force was killed and three others injured when the leg of a trestle on the Virginia Air Line Railway, at Strathmore, Fluvanna County, collapsed this morning. Dan Pendleton, of Dillwyn, Buckingham County, was caught in the crash and instantly killed.

The injured are Jess Doty, Whitmore Bryand and L. B. Taggart, all of Scottsville, Albemarle County. They were sent to the Chesapeake & Ohio Hospital, Richmond. Pendleton, who was unmarried, is survived by his mother, an invalid, and a brother.

The George Washington University has been placed on the approved list of the Association of American Universities. Word was received by President Cloyd Heck Marvin at the university yesterday following an announcement made at the meeting of the association now in progress at the University of California, Berkeley, Calif.

The Association of American Universities is the national accrediting body for liberal arts colleges, established to certify the work of those institutions of higher education in this country which are deemed to maintain the highest of academic standards.

The recognition of George Washington by thhe Association is the last step in the full accrediting of the university. Its law school has long been listed as a Class A institution by the Association of American Law Schools, and its medical school enjoys similar recognition before the Association of American Medical Colleges.

POLITICAL MEETING ENDS IN CONFUSION

Charge That U. S. Employes Are Liable to Dismissal Hurled at Mt. Rainier.

RITES OF FIRE CHIEF SET

The nonpartisan political rally held last night in the Blue Bird Hall in Mount Rainier was thrown into an uproar when Floyd B. Mathias announced that Government employes indirectly sponsoring the meeting were liable to dismissal for political activity.

George C. Wales, of the Civil Service Commission, told him, Mr. Mathias said, that if the Municipal Officers Association were sponsoring the meeting, members of that organization were transgressing civil service rules.

Handbills giving notice of the meeting said that it was held by three organizations, the Municipal Officers Association, the Law Enforcement League and the Taxpayers Association of Prince Georges County. These three organizations had sent delegates to a joint meeting which chose a coalition ticket to be supported at the November election.

Mr. Mathias quoted Mr. Wales as saying that the sending of delegates was also a transgression of civil service rules, but that it would be overlooked if the municipal officers would take no more active part, as a body, in the campaign.

The meeting was opened by Peter Hagan, secretary of the Taxpayers Association. Mr. Mathias immediately arose and challenged the right to say that the meeting was sponsored by the municipal officers. Mr. Hagan replied that he understood the three delegates had power to bind the association. Mr. Mathias left the hall after this, and J. Frank Lillard, president of the Taxpayers Association, said Mr. Wales' message might better have been sent by someone who is himself not active politically.

The coalition ticket is composed of ten Republicans and six Democrats. At this joint meeting of the three groups when the committees' reports were accepted, Mr. Mathias objected to the form of the ticket.

The crash which killed B. Wesley Cranford Saturday was called an "unavoidable accident" by a coroner's jury which met yesterday in the courthouse at Upper Marlboro. Mr. Cranford was killed when the Marlboro fire truck skidded and overturned on the Ritchie road near Ritchie Station.

Mr. Cranford will be buried today at 2 o'clock in Trinity churchyard, after services in Trinity Church at Marlboro. All day yesterday the flag on the courthouse was at half-mast in honor of the dead man, who was captain of the volunteer company.

The condition of Wesley Kerr, assistant chief of the company, who was also injured in the crash, was reported as very much improved yesterday at Casualty Hospital. Others less seriously injured in the crash were able to be present and give testimony at the inquest yesterday. Among them was Earl Wyville, who appeared with a bandaged head, and W. W. McCormick, driver of the truck.

Testimony showed that the truck had been called to a fire near the Seat Pleasant garage and had turned out for another car when the front wheels skidded and the machine overturned, pinning Mr. Cranford and Mr. Kerr under it. Dr. W. S. Ritchie testified that Mr. Cranford died of a fractured skull, pulmonary hemorrhage and other internal injuries. The driver of the other car, O. C. Boshong, of Millersville, Md., said that he did not hear the siren until the truck was abreast of him.

Honorary pallbearers will be Judge T. Van Clagett, William T. Davis, Jacob Fischer, John H. Traband, Fred W. Wilson and William S. Hill. Active pallbearers will be State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, Charles Entwisle, Elmer Mayberry, Huntt Burroughs and Joseph A. Wyvill, Jr.

Another coroner's jury met yesterday and viewed the body of Weaver Davis, 18 years old, who died at Casualty Hospital early yesterday morning after being found unconscious on the Baden-Brandywine road. This jury postponed the inquest until Friday to give County Policeman Frank Prince an opportunity to complete his investigations of the case.

Davis left his home near T. B. with two young men in an automobile Sunday night. The two men, John Smith and Henry Brown told Sheriff Charles S. Early that Davis got out of their car and went off with a man in another machine and that they had not seen him after that.

About an hour later the body of the youth was found lying in the road by passing automobilists who brought him to the hospital. Doctors at the hospital said that his injuries might very possibly have been received if he had been struck by another car.

Pleading guilty in Circuit Court yesterday to stealing about 500 pounds of tobacco, Draymond and James Swan were sentenced to serve three years each in the penitentiary. The sentence was suspended, however, on condition that they post bond to report to the court each term for three years. The suspension was due to the fact that they showed a tendency to reform, and that they had planted a crop of tobacco which could not be gathered if they were sent to prison. They posted a bond of $250 for their appearance at each term of court.

Henry Bennett pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery, and a charge of assault with intent to kill was nolle prossed. Bennett was accused of an attack on Goldie Dyson. Sentence has not been pronounced on the man.

Charges of larceny and receiving stolen goods against Lewis Holmes and Clarence Ford were nolle prossed by State's Attorney J. Frank Parran.

Charles Rawlings and Raymond Chaney were tried together on one indictment charging larceny and receiving stolen goods, and were acquitted. This trial was before the two judges on the bench, Judge Joseph C. Mattingly and Judge William M. Lokar. Charles Rawlings was also tried alone on another count of the same sort, before the two judges, and convicted. He was sentenced to serve one year in the Maryland House of Correction.

Sentence for George Shanks, who pleaded guilty to housebreaking and larceny, was postponed, and will not be pronounced until later, probably about the end of the week. Frederick Dorsey changed a plea of not guilty to guilty on a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods. Thomas Wood and Charles Bassen, who had been indicted with him, had the cases against them nolle prossed.

Louis L. Dyer was convicted by a jury of nonsupport on two counts, one of failing to contribute to the support of his wife and one of failing in regard to his child. The man asked the court for clemency, saying that he had spent the last six months in the "local Bastille" and that it was very "tedious" there. He refused to agree to contribute a fixed sum to the support of his dependents and was sent to the House of Correction for one year.

Means for alleviating unemployment in Hyattsville, and improvement of the quality of gas sold in that town were discussed last night at a meeting of the Hyattsville Chamber of Commerce. A campaign to induce small industries to settle in the section was decided upon as the best method of relieving the jobless.

A committee was formed to consult with the gas company in regard to improvements, with Arthur P. Owens, of Decatur Heights, as chairman. Other members of the committee are: Burt H. Wise, of Cheverly; B. M. Bromley, Colmar Manor; W. A. Holbrook, College Park; W. J. Schoch, University Park; W. R. Deattie, Decatur Heights; W. F. Milligan, Berwyn; Andrew McCord, East Riverdale; James E. Sampson, Brentwood; John H. Beall, Mount Rainier; W. W. Lewis, Edmonston; H. T. Willis, Hyattsville; Max Vollberg, Riverdale, N. O. Brigham, Bladensburg; Victor A. Simmel, Cottage City, and three members from the chamber of commerce. The chamber of commerce delegates are Nicholas Orem, M. T. May and Caesar L. Aiello.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

REPUBLICANS SCORE LEE IN SILVER SPRING

"WILD," SAYS ZIHLMAN

Charges of jury tampering, unfair assessment of taxes, and subsidation of police were hurled against the Lee administration in Montgomery County by speakers at a Republican rally last night held under the auspices of the Bethesda District Republican committee at the National Guard Armory in Silver Spring, Md.

Characterizing Maj. E. Brooke Lee, speaker of the State House of Delegates and Democratic leader in the county, as a tyrant, F. Barnard Welsh lauded John Culver, progessive Democratic candidate for county treasurer, as a courageous man for having defied Lee.

"When Culver told Lee he wanted to run for the office, Lee turned him down," said Mr. Welsh, "and when Lee announced he would run anyway, Lee fired him out of his job as clerk of police court. BBut Culver ran anyway."

Lays Control to Lee.

Quoting Maj. Lee as asserting that Thomas M. Anderson, Republican candidate for the State Senate, and who is 29 years old, was too young for the job, Mr. Welsh said:

"I don't know how old Brooke Lee is, but he is not old enough to be the entire State Senate, the entire county delegation to the House, and the entire Board of County Commissioners." He declared that Lee controls all executive offices in the county.

Mr. Welsh also charged Lee with violating the State constitution, which designates the sheriff as the superior police official of the county, by setting up the office of chief of police and "appointing his own chief who can settle cases before they ever get to the State's attorney."

Grand Jury Charge.

Bringing up the matter of assessments, Mr. Welsh charged Maj. Lee with having manipulated so that lots in Sligo Park Hills, a Lee development, are assessed at $60 each. Turning to Capt. Frank L. Hewitt, candidate for the House, who presided at the meeting, Mr. Welsh inquired as to the market price of the lots. Capt. Hewitt replied that he had never heard of one being sold for less than $2,500.

Mr. Welsh and other speakers accused Maj. Lee of having controlled the grand jury which recently investigated county conditions. He reiterated the charge that witnesses whose names had been given to the jury by E. Barrett Prettyman never had been given a chance to testify, while Maj. Lee had dominated the body for two and a half years.

Sipimay Defenses Tariff.

Representative Fred N. Zihlman accused "princelings of the Lee dynasty" with "swank and insolence," and charged that the regular Democratic organization has built up "a powerful and arrogant State machine run wild with power." He called upon the voters to recognize that they have a double duty to break down the dominance of the machine, both in the county and the State, and urged them to vote accordingly.

Representative Zihlman, referring to the tariff, pointed out that prices of practically all necessities have dropped since passage of the tariff bill by the last session of Congress. He blamed chain stores and the machine age, which, he charged, has given men's jobs to machines, for the business depression.

Bedford County Native Dies.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 27 (Special).—Josiah B. Eubank, 82, died late Saturday at his home, 608 Breckenridge street. He was a native of Bedford County and is survived by his widow and three children. A sister, Mrs. Sallie Boley, lives in Roanoke.

Lighten the Winter load on your motor with a lighter oil!

It won't be long now! One of these mornings you'll wake up to find the cold breezes whistling down from the North -- and the thermometer away down with full intentions of staying there!

Don't wait until the morning when a motor made sluggish by too heavy an oil means an extra load in starting and in running through the day.

Lighten the winter load on your motor by having your oil and grease changed right away! Drive to any station where Amoco Motor Oils and Greases are sold--and the attendant will fix you up with just the grade the maker of your car recommends for winter driving.

Change today. If you've been using Amoco Motor Oil during the summer -- have the lighter grade which meets winter requirements put into your crank case.

If you haven't been using Amoco Motor Oil -- when you change for winter -- it's a good chance to change to Amoco Motor Oil -- "as good as the gas."

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Capital Girls Branching Out In Trade Mart

Several "Post-debs" Have Plans for Entering Business.

"BUSINESS before pleasure," is the slogan of Washington girls these days. Heretofore, several members of the younger residential set, tired of bridge and tea, have given up those leisurely pastimes to enter the field of business. However, many of them have been "semiserious" about their work, considering it an escape from boredom, rather than a stepping stone to a career.

Now it appears that the majority of girls, "post-debs," as well as members of the younger married set, are, with all seriousness, entering the world of business, with big ideas about the future.

Miss Anne Carter Greene, attractive daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis S. Greene, and Mrs. William W. Mackall, jr., formerly Miss Mary Earle Hoxton, are the sole agents in Washington for a smart Richmond shop.

Miss Adair Childress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Childress, has been in New York for several weeks, learning the business in a beauty shop, which has a branch in Washington. Upon her return she will assume the role of manager of the business, acting as hostess and general supervisor. She will serve in the same capacity a s Mrs. Richard Porter Davidson (Betty Hanna), who is in a rival establishment.

Then, there is Miss Mary Bradley, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Bradley, who is still carrying on famously at the Junior League office, where she has acquired an enviable reputation as combination secretary and general informant.

So it seems that Capital girls are following a precedence set some years ago by their "sisters" in New York and other large cities in the North, where "every one" is busy.

Miss Barbara Wright, who attended the Yale-Army football game at New Haven, is now visiting her uncle, Maj. Stanley Washburn at Inverfirs, Lakewood, N. J.

Maj. Gen. Reilly Host to Summeralls.

Gen. and Mrs. Charles P. Summerall were the guests of Maj. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, who entertained at luncheon Sunday at the Mayflower. His other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Laurence V. Benet, of Paris; Mrs. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Frank West and Col. Campbell Hodges, U. S. A.

Mrs. Keyes, wife of Senator Henry Wilder Keyes, arrived in Washington this morning.

Representative Allen T. Treadway, of Massachusetts, and Mrs. Treadway entertained at dinner on Sunday at the Elms, Stockbridge, Mass., in celebration of the thirty-seventh anniversary of their wedding.

Mrs. Harry Kimmell, widow of Capt. Harry Kimmell, U. S. N., will leave on Friday to spend the winter with her son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. Winfield W. Scott, U. S. A., and Mrs. Scott, at Fort Sill, Okla. Mrs. Kimmell was the guest for a short time of Lieut. Jeffrey C. Metzel, U. S. N., and Mrs. Metzel at their home in Chevy Chase. Lieut. and Mrs. Metzel attended the Navy-Princeton game Saturday at Princeton. Mrs. Metzel was before her marriage Miss Elizabeth Cone, daughter of Admiral H. I. Cone.

Mr. Walter Ewing Hope, assistant secretary of the Treasury, entertained at luncheon at his home yesterday in honor of President John Grier Hibben of Princeton University. His guests were the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon; the Attorney General, Mr. William D. Mitchell; the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams; the Secretary of the Interior, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur; the Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Robert P. Lamont; the Solicitor General, Mr. Thomas D. Thacher, the Under-secretary of State, Mr. Joseph P. Cotton, the Undersecretary of the Treasury, Mr. Ogden L. Mills; Senator David A. Reed, Mr. George W. Wickersham and Mr. Henry P. Fletcher.

Mrs. Sydney A. Cloman has as her guest her niece, Mrs. Wilson Pritchett, and her little son, from Philadelphia. They will remain in Washington until after Christmas and Mr. Prichett will remain in Philadelphia and make frequent trips to Washington during the course of their stay.

English Artist Here

Clinedinst.

MRS. REX C. ANDERSON, commissioned by Lady Reckitt, of London, to paint a portrait of her mother, Mrs. Charles H. Conner, of Washington. Lady Reckitt is the former Miss Julia Conner and has a country house, The Little Green Lodge, in Hampshire.

Mrs. Distler Is Hostess to Paris Visitor

Mrs. Xenophon Price Will Later Sojourn in Philadelphia.

In honor of Mrs. Xenophon Price, who is here with Maj. Price, U. S. A., from their home in Paris, Mrs. Walter G. Distler entertanied at luncheon and bridge yesterday at her home on Connecticut avenue. Maj. and Mrs. Price, who crossed recently, will be in Washington until the middle of November and during that time will be honored with several parties being planned.

Maj. Price, who is attached to the American Battle Monuments Commission with headquarters in Paris, was stationed in Washington for several years and it was here that he met his wife, the former Miss Alice Milburn, who was a belle here and whom he married not long after she made her debut.

Maj. and Mrs. Price have with them their small daughter, who was born in Paris last spring, and who is making the acquaintance of her grandparents in this country. Mrs. Price will visit her mother, Mrs. James Watts Mecur, at her home in Philadelphia, until she sails on December 10 with Maj. Price for France.

Mrs. Ben Hellen has taken an apartment at the Connecticut for the winter.

Mrs. Kennedy and Daughter Sojourn in Paris.

Mrs. Robert Morris Kennedy, wife of Rear Admiral Kennedy, U. S. N., and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Kennedy, are in Paris where they will be for four or five weeks before returning to Washington.

Miss Victoria Titus is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Williams at their home in Boston for a short time.

Miss Mary Perdue Ruden will entertain at luncheon today at Rauscher's in honor of Miss Frances Wall, whose marriage to Mr. Frank T. Hines will take place tomorrow. There will be eight guests, all members of the wedding party.

Mrs. Craig, widow of Col. Daniel F. Craig, U. S. A., is at the Martinique having recently returned from Shelter Harbor, R. I., where she passed the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeve Hoover are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter Sunday morning. This is their second child, the elder being a boy, William Reeve, named after his father and grandfather, Mr. William D. Hoover.

Bows of Buds Deferred Till Future Dates

List Curtailed as Girls Change Plans for Presentation.

The list of Washington debutantes, published annually in the early fall, always assumes lengthy proportions, but before the season has gotten very far under way, a number of girls whose names appear simply because they are of debutante age, announce their retirement.

This year the list still seems very long and important, yet there have been many named dropped. In the group are several girls who had originally decided to make their bows to society, but have given up the idea for a year more of school or travel.

Miss Betty McNally, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. McNally, will continue her studies at Holton Arms, although she expects to take part in the debutante festivities during the holidays. Miss Jocelyn Hibbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dillworth Hibbard, expects to travel with her parents.

Miss Gertrude Faust, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Faust, has returned to school. Miss Barbara Wright, daughter of Mrs. Hamilton Wright, has also canceled her debut plans. Miss Eleanor Daniel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Daniel, is taking a business course.

The plans of several prominent debs are still "hanging fire," no dates having been set for their parties. They are Miss Dorothy Fell, daughter of Mrs. Ogden L. Mills; Miss Phyllis Pratt, daughter of Representative Ruth Baker Pratt, and Miss Mary Parker Corning, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Parker Corning.

Mrs. Gordon Luke, who has been passing the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles LeFevre, has rejoined Mrs. Luke in Tyrone, Pa. Mrs. Luke was formerly Miss Hester Anne LeFevre.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Matthews Dick, who are in New York after passing the summer in Newport, will come to Washington next week, and will go into their new home at 2234 Massachusetts avenue, which they purchased recently from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wardman. Mr. and Mrs. Dick sold their former home on Woodland drive to Senator and Mrs. James Couzens.

Among the young men on the floor committee for the ball to be given by Mrs. William Laird Dunlop tomorrow at the Mayflower for girls being presented this season are Mr. Clark Brant, Mr. Edmund Burke, Mr. William Brawner, Mr. Gallo Plaza, Mr. Ned Cpok, Mr. Noel Leggett, Mr. Charles McGuire, Mr. Oliver Walker, Mr. Waverly Taylor, Mr. Robert Peter, Mr. William Laird Dunlop 3d. Lieut. James White, U. S. A.; Mr. Dudley Knox, Mr. Phillips Clarke, Mr. Ingraham Mack, Mr. William Jeffries Chewning, jr., and Mr. Edward Burr Powell.

Assistants Chosen For Halloween Ball.

Mr. William D. Cheatham and Mr. Lawn Thompson, chairman and vice chairman of the men's floor committee for the Hatlloween ball at the Mayflower on Friday evening, have appointed the following group of men to assist:

Mr. T. Q. Ashburn, jr., Mr. Snowden Ashford, Mr. Courtland Baker, Mr. Sheridan Biays, Mr. John Brosnan, Mr. Clark Brant, Mr. Sam Bryant, Mr. L. Filbert Cranford, Mr. Jack Eakin, Mr. William G. Ford, Mr. Henry B. Gwynn, Mr. John R. Hill, Mr. William Hoge, Mr. Page Hufty, Mr. Anthony Hyde, Lieut. Don E. Lowry, U. S. A.; Mr. Paul Lutes, Mr. Ingham Mack, Mr. Duff Merrick, Lieut. Bream Patrick, U. S. A.; Mr. Herndon Phillips, Mr. Douglass Phillips, Mr. George Rose, Mr. George Smith, Mr. Latimer Snowdon, Mr. Albert E. Stephan, Mr. Homer Tatum, Mr. W. Waverly Taylor, Mr. James Twohey, Mr. Roy Von Lewinski, Lieut. Hugh B. Waddell, U. S. A.; Mr. Walter Watson, Mr. Kenneth Watson and Lieut. James White, U. S. A.

Mrs. Cornelia L. Munn and Mrs. P. J. Williams will assist Mrs. John Jay Dimon as hostesses for the benefit card party which the Rectors Aid of St. Andrews' Church will give at the Roosevelt Hotel tomorrow afternoon. An interesting exhibit of costume jewelry will be displayed during the afternoon under direction of Miss Laura Tileston.

Mrs. John D. Sherman, presidential commissioner of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, will be the honor guest of the Women's National Press Club at the weekly luncheon today in the Cabinet room of the Willard Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Williams, of New Orleans, La., are at the Dodge Hotel.

New Yorkers Lease House Of Newbolds

John C. Breckinridges to Spent Winter in Capital.

The ranks of society this season will be happily augmented by Mr. and Mrs. John C. Breckinridge, of New York, who will come to Washington some time next month to spend the winter. They have leased the house of Mr. and Mrs. Fleming Newbold at 1720 Massachusetts avenue, who now are at the Mayflower until the first of the year, when they will leave for a trip.

Miss Mary Marvin Breckinridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Breckinridge, already is in Washington and is living at the Anchorage. Miss Breckinridge is secretary to Mr. Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

A young woman of varied interests and accomplishments, Miss Breckinridge has for a number of years made an intensive study of photography and recently has alone directed and photographed a film for the Frontier Nursing Service, which will be shown in all the large cities in the East after the first of January. The film has for its motif the lives and customs of the Kentucky mountaineers. Miss Breckinbridge spent some time in the mountains observing conditions and people there and photographing settings for the picture.

Mr. Breckinridge is a cousin of Col. Henry Breckinridge, Assistant Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Wilson from 1913 to 1916. Col. Breckinridge and Mrs. Breckinridge, the former Mrs. Oren Root, made their home here during his term of office, and since then have been frequent visitors in town.

Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. H. W. Graf were guests of the Martinique over the week-end. Commander Graf is on duty aboard the S. S. Raleigh now at Hampton Roads.

Dr. Otto H. F. Vollbehr has gone to Florida and will pass some time at the Everglades Hotel in Miami.

Mrs. Loose Arrives In Capital Today.

Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose will arrive in Washington today, on her way to New York where she will spend two weeks before returning for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellery B. Gordon and Mrs. R. B. Phillips, of New York, are at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hatfield, of San Francisco, and Capt. William E. Bergin, executive officer of the Sixteenth Brigade, stationed in Washington, were married at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at the Sacred Heart Church by the Rev. Thomas A. Cunningham. The wedding was quiet, owing to the recent death of the mother of Capt. Bergin. Mrs. Thomas Stark, wife of Lieut. Stark, U. S. N., was the bride's attendant, and Maj. Walter Gullion was best man for the bridegroom. Capt. and Mrs. Bergin will be at home after November 10 at Harvard Hall.

Dr. W. Duncan McKim and Mrs. McKim will entertain at a small tea on Saturday afternoon at their home on Eighteenth street.

Dr. William Gerry Morgan Returns to Capital.

Dr. William Gerry Morgan has returned to Washington from a trip to Nova Scotia, where he addressed the Cape Breton Medical Society on the subject of "State Medicine."

Cuba's Envoy Opera Guest At Premiere

Mrs. Townsend Among Those From Capital in New York.

The aura of brilliance surrounding the opening night of the Metropolitan Opera in New York last night was reflected in Washington through the honor extended to the Ambassador of Cuba and Mme. Ferrara and Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, who were guests of the director of the opera, Mr. Gatti Cassaza, and Mrs. Cassaza, in their box. The Cuban Ambassador and Mme. Ferrara reached New York on Saturday night from an extended visit abroad. The Ambassador came to Washington to spend Sunday, joining Mme. Ferrara for the opera premiere.

Mrs. Townsend, who for years has attended the opening night as guest of Mr. Otto Kahn, director of the Metropolitan board of directors, and Mrs. Kahn, was to have been their guest last night, but Mr. and Mrs. Kahn's arrival from Europe, where they have been this fall, was delayed until Tuesday, when they disembark at New York. An impresario of international renown, Mrs. Townsend is eagerly sought as an honor guest on opening nights, her last interesting box party having been in London at the premiere of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in Albert Hall last spring, when she was a guest in one of the royal boxes.

On Saturday night Mrs. Townsend dined with Rosa Ponselle and arranged with the prima donna the program which she will present this winter at one of Mrs. Townsend's musical mornings. Afterward they attended the concert at Carnegie Hall, where Mary Garden sang.

Mrs. Leisenring, wife of Col. F. S. Leisenring, U. S. A., retired, has returned to the Capital after visiting friends at Fort Benning, Ga., for two weeks.

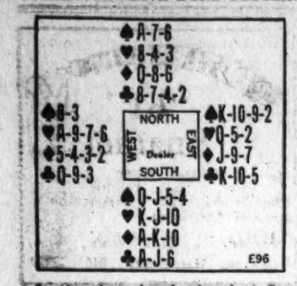
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?



In the above hand, played at Contract Bridge, South with a count of 20 and four suits stopped, bid two No Trumps (with a count of only one more he would have bid three); but North with a count of 6 (4 for the Ace and 2 for the Queen) jumped to three.

At Auction South would have obtained the contract with a bid of one No Tramp.

In the play West opened by leading the Six of Hearts—the fourth best of the stronger of his two four-card suits; dummy played the Trey, East the Queen and closed hand (South) won with the King. Declarer, with two seven-card suits to establish (Spades and Clubs), selected the former as it was the stronger. He led the Spade Queen and finessed; East won and led back his partner's Heart suit. South was permitted to win the trick, and then he continued Spades but failed in his effort to establish a thirteener; so he won only two Spades, two Hearts, three Diamonds and one Club, missing game by one trick.

Should he have secured that trick?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Many players, in order to establish their long suit, attempt a finesse in cases in which, as in today's hand, the proper play would be to grant their opponents one trick. Holding Queen-Jack and two small Spades in one hand, and Ace and two small in the other, he should not have led the Queen.

South should have led the Four of Spades, and dummy should have won with the Ace, returning the Seven. East, if clever, would false-card with the Ten; but South should not make the mistake of leading another Spade from his own hand after winning with the Queen; that would have lost the game. Instead he should put dummy in with the Queen of Diamonds and lead the Spades from that hand, thus saving a trick if the King-Nine are both in the East hand. Played in that way Declarer would win the three Spade tricks needed for game.

Dare Interprets the Mode

New York, Oct. 27.

"IT just looks like nothing at all!" is what you say of the smart Paris hat you went to such infinite pains to select, made so many trips for fitting for, and spent a good half of a hundred dollars to own.

And that is just exactly what it should look like, off the head. That's what gives it its chic, what makes it a hat, my deah, and not just a hat. Soft as a glove or a kid shoe, or a perfectly fitted dress, are the new hats. Would you dream of lining a dress with crinolin or draping it over a wire bustle? No more than you would dream of stiffening a hat with buckram! The brim, yes, sometimes, and very softly, especially if it is a large hat; or if some fantasy flap or tab has to stand out in such and such a way. But the crown is always glove fitting, and the silken or georgette lining doesn't make any difference, either.

* * * *

But don't make the mistake of thinking that your half a hundred dollars Paris hat can be folded or rolled up and packed any old way, just because it is supple. It can, if nothing else presses against it and on it, or, in other words, if you can stuff a certain amount of tissue paper into it, and then into the box or trunk drawer that holds it, to keep it from contact with other hats or garments. For any weight on a hat will make creases in it that it takes an expert to remove. And who wants to risk that, when just a little forethought will assure you of a hat as smart when you wear it as it was at its last fitting!

* * * *

Antelope is smart in hats, and soft and suede-like—and the unwary order black antelope hats. I did, even. And then the fun begins. For black antelope, at least the hat variety, can't be kept in its place. White collars, light-colored dresses, light fur collars on coats, all come in for their share of blackened contact with the hat—and it is hard to get off, this dye, even though seemingly easy to get off—of the hat. Any one can have my $40 black antelope hat for a song, now—are you a good singer? It hangs its head on the closet shelf, and that's what I had to pay in order to be able to warn you, dahr-lings!

* * * *

Had that model been velvet, now! I'm going to have it copied in velvet, too, because it's a mos' becoming hat.

Whatzat? Mamzelle says she has already copied it for me in velvet! Leave it to that little Pwog, now, isn't she sweet? And what's more, she put the directions for making it into a leaflet for you! Now, that and the directions for making the new velvet berets in several different ways should interest our deah publik, I think. So if you are int'rested, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet of new velvet hats, and make 'em yourself!

* * * *

Voyons, the villyuness hissed, as she clicked her "nacre" fingernails—a Marynowitsky model that I can sketch in black and white and have look like something! Pale blue georgette, heavenly! Pink, orange and brown trimming! The pink and orange made the volants of the pajamas, and the little ruffles of the blouse, too, but brown gave them the color note. So whatever could the luve-lee laydee wear but brown suede mules with a pink chiffon band as trimming?

* * * *

Several of the Haute Couture are showing silver kid slippers for evening, worn with dark beige or brown stockings. It's chic, no doubt of it, and most unusual, especially when worn with black, or very pale pastel colored gowns. Sometimes a little silver belt—but I have already told you about that!

* * * *

And have I already told you about our weekly fashion letter? It's in The Sunday Washington Post every week.

Au Revoir!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

WHERE YELLOW JACK STARTS.

IT seems to have been established that yellow fever was brought to the Western Hemisphere from the West Coast of Africa, south of Sahara. The disease found there is in just the region from which came the slaves who, distributed widely in North, South, and Central America, carried with them the seeds of destruction.

The native Negroes there have plenty of it and the mosquitoes which spread it abound. As is the case in America, the varieties of mosquitoes which spread yellow fever breed in or near houses and hang around human habitations. As a rule, they do not get very far from the place where they breed.

Flights of about three hundred yards are ordinarily the limit, though occasionally they go as far as half a mile. This is quite like the behavior of yellow fever mosquitoes on the Western Continent. The effort just now is to find some species of animal, possibly a wild animal of the forest, which serves as the reservoir for yellow fever.

There seems some likelihood that some animal keeps the disease alive and feeds it to the natives through the mosquito as an intermediary. Infected men, caught and sold as slaves, spread the disease over America.

Another disease, which it is thought might have been brought to America by slaves, is malaria. It is certain that the Indians had little malaria, if any, before the white man came among them, even though there was an abundance of mosquitoes which spread it.

In Africa, in the West Coast region from which the slaves came, there is plenty of malaria, and plenty of the kind of mosquitoes which spread it. Whether or not the animals and birds, or any of them, have malaria in Africa has not been determined. However, we know that in parts of America there is a considerable bird malaria. In Panama, Clark has found that the wild monkeys are infected with malaria to a moderate degree. In a recent hunt for infected monkeys, he secured specimens of four varieties and, in two of these, the animals were malarial.

Since the same mosquitoes which bite men also feed on monkeys, and since this mosquito prefers the woods to houses, it is possible that infected monkeys are a factor in infecting man. It is also possible that now, having monkeys to experiment on, discovery of malaria cures and preventives may go forward more rapidly.

LOW BLOOD PRESSURE.

P. L. K. writes:

1. What is the difference between an anemic person and one with low blood pressure?

2. Is either of these ailments dangerous?

REPLY.

1. What is the similarity? An anemic person lacks coloring matter in his blood. Low blood pressure has to do with the blood vessel wall and the heart muscle, but not with the quality of the blood.

2. Pernicious anemia is very dangerous. Other forms of anemia are not. Low blood pressure is not dangerous.

FIND THE CAUSE FIRST.

Mrs. C. S. writes: What is the cause and cure for highly colored urine?

REPLY.

The coloring matter of the urine is derived from the blood by way of the bile. Occasionally food or drugs color the bile. Among the causes of highly colored urine are: Jaundice, rheumatism, certain other fevers, drinking too little water, profuse perspiration, and taking certain foods or drugs.

The remedy is suggested by the cause.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF October 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to noon, from 3:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8 a. m., and from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m.

Astrological influences on this date are adverse for all transactions requiring legal advice, and are unfavorable for literary projects. False pride may lead to mistakes, and poor judgment may lead to heavy losses. Curious, and, perhaps, romantic experiences after sunset.

Children born on this October 28 will have matter-of-fact natures, and they will expect to be "babied" by the world. They will dream of glory, but will not work for it, although they will have no mean ability. They will be fond of the pronoun "I," and will never suffer from an inferiority complex.

You jog through life in a leisurely fashion, and you refuse to be hurried or worried. You are not asleep, however, and you have time to enjoy the sights and experiences which come within your reach. You are a courteous, kind, sympathetic, and happy traveler, and you usually receive what you give. Your "what-does-it-matter" attitude toward life may not spell enterprise, but it does spell a maximum amount of contentment for you. Your personality and will carry you far enough for your own satisfaction, without the expenditure of much brawn. You are not a beggar, but you have no false pride about accepting help from others when it is offered. You will always listen to advice.

You have an inquisitive nature, although you do not nose into things which are not of general interest. You love to talk for the sake of sociability, and you gather up interesting tid-bits of knowledge wherever you go and from those with whom you talk. You are clever at games and sports, and you enjoy them immensely. You have a vivid imagination, and are idealistic. You always try to make people and situations live up to what you wish them to be, and you, of course, meet with many disillusionments. You are always trying to fool yourself, and it does not always work, although it makes you happy as long as the pretense lasts. Happiness is shown within the home.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

The Lonely Future.

IS the so-called independent bachelor girl of today destined to be a grave problem tomorrow? She is, let us say, now 28 or 29, earns about $40 a week, spends $35, pays her share of the bill when out with the boy friend, and has no intention of giving up her job or her freedom to marry some struggling clerk who presses his own suit. She has had one trip to Europe, and is now planning a six month's leave, ye-- after next to take a trip around the world. She is enjoying life thoroughly! She is eating her cake and finds it to her liking. Great. But what about tomorrow? What about the years between 40 and 60? Fifty-year-old secretaries are not in great demand, and 60-year-old women do not enjoy rushing out to business and returning to a lonely room at night with not even the prospect of sharing a dinner check. Even clerks who press their own suits have a way of marrying and settling down so that at 50 there is not even a shabby failure of a man around to insure attention from the waiter. What then? June, who is "no beauty and no fright," sounds the warning. "I want love and a home," says June. "I want to meet a serious man and marry, and share things." Marry and share things. Does the "independent" girl bent upon bachelorhood, ever think about the joy that lies in sharing things? What is the answer to the bachelor girl?

Dear Miss McDonald—What can a girl do who is instinctively domestic, who dreads above everything on earth the prospect of a lonely future stretching out to the dreary end, and who yet is so successful that interesting and interested men side-step any close companionship? Neither a beauty nor yet a fright, I am popular with men. But there it ends. They usually make about the same salary I do, some of them less. But they make life very interesting and worth while. I enjoy the simple enjoyments that we share, and long to meet one with the courage to venture with me into real living. I want something more than escorts for my youth, I want love and companionship for those long years ahead. I want love and a home with a dearest of all pal. I want to be the center of the universe to some one other scul. I want to marry and share things with some one to whom I will seem worth all the things that he will have to give up in order to have me, and who will seem to me more than worth all the things I may have to give up in order to have him. Is there no such one for me? If I thought so I would never have the courage to face those terrible years that lie ahead.

Most of the girls that I know never give a thought to the future, but I think of little else. All the other girls seem bent upon remaining free and independent. They seem to feel a contempt of a sort for the boys who take them out and have to consider cost in planning entertainment. I am always willing to share a dinner check near pay day. They drop a man who is likely to be "short" or worse yet who is "thrifty." But some of the happiest hours I have ever spent have cost the least, when the boy was happy and I was happy, too. On the contrary, I have known long, lonely evenings when I knew the "man" was purposely staying away to forestall growing attachment. Is it fair? Is the successful girl doomed by her success to a lonely, hollow future?

Please write something on this subject and see if a discussion can bring about a fair chance for the girl who puts companionship and the joys of love and home above the dollars and cents enjoyments that are bought for a few years and then pass into memory. I dread the future with all my heart. My brothers and sisters are now in their own homes. They tell me how lucky I am to have $40 a week and no worries. I pretend to agree. But when I leave their little homes so full of activity and plans for tomorrow, and walk into my own empty two-room apartment, I ask myself what I will do when that tomorrow has at last closed down. I do not want money. I do not want ease. I want the normal cares and the normal life that love brings. And I am 30 and love is nowhere near. I am lonely. I hate freedom. Please print this and perhaps some few men may realize that all girls are not alike, pleasure-bent. Some deserve a chance.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

The Perfect Diet.

The mother of today who takes her duties seriously knows, among other things, exactly what her child should eat.

Her efforts to make him eat exactly what he should, however, often fail lamentably with far-reaching consequences not only on the child's nutrition, but also upon the mother-child relationship.

Failure to make him eat as he should gives the young mother a feeling of frustration which is apt to carry over into other disciplinary situations. The mother's confidence in herself is shaken and the child is seldom slow to take advantage of the fact.

There is danger in taking too literally the diet list given by the physician. Mothers would do well to learn not only what constitutes an ideal diet, but also what substitute foods may be given when the child already has fixed dislikes for certain foods.

Spinach is not the only wholesome green vegetable, and it is possible to see that a child is well nourished even if there is no way of getting him to take his milk.

Although we should avoid catering to food whims, it is undoubedly wise to avoid daily battles in the case of specific dislikes.

Often it is necessary to be content with a less than perfect diet. When we consider that the generations which came before Dr. Holt somehow survived we should be able to regard our own imperfect achievements without too much anxiety.

It is well to keep in mind that a reasonably good diet eaten under circumstances that are free from emotional tension is probably much better for the child as a whole than an ideal diet crammed daily into a resisting mouth.

IT WAS LOCKED

By JOHN HAWK.

READ THIS FIRST.

The Earl of Winston's body is found in the room of Robin Smith, young poet, at a house party at Alston Manor. Robin has attended as he may sex Lady Gwendolen Winston, with whom he is desperately in love. In a fit of anger the poet locks his door and jumps out of the window, returning to his attic room. The next day he is arrested and the various members of the party testify at the coroner's inquest. Bruce Armstrong, big game hunter, is on the stand and believes the poet innocent. Robin Smith is called to the stand. He denies that he had anything to do with the murder. After the inquest Lady Dorothy Alston prevails upon Gwendolen to stay at Alston Manor while Scotland Yard detectives work on the murder case. Inspector Linscott begins his clews.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER 23.

Inspector Linscott absently watched his colleague until he was out of sight; then threw away the burned-out stump of a cigar he had been chewing and took a fresh one from his pocket. He held the flickering match to its end and in his reverie neglected to draw. In fact, a new idea struck him. He had subconsciously thought of it before, but now it was tangibly present. He'd seen a knife similar to the one which caused Lord Winston's death; he remembered perfectly now. It had belonged to one of the Canadian soldiers he knew during the war. It was deucedly like. If there was one other, might there not be a dozen similar ones? That was the question which occurred to him. It might not; in fact, it quite possibly might not be the knife Lady Gwendolen thought it was. After all, it was years since she had seen it, and if the resemblance was strong it would be easy to make a mistake. He remembered now the fellow in the Army had been a fur trader. He wished he knew more about Lord Winston's life before he came to England. * * * He wished he knew more about all the guests, but above all he wished he could lay his hands on the stranger who was in Alston village on the afternoon and evening of the murder. He had a feeling that that stranger could clear up a lot.

He went slowly over the notes he had made at the inquest and before. There was a question mark after the name of Lady Opie. For an instant he couldn't recall why he had put it there, then suddenly remembered that he had made the note during her testimony. He, too, had noticed her relief when the coroner motioned her to resume her seat; the color had suddenly flooded her face and she had looked furtively at her husband. It had been a very little thing, hardly worth noticing; but Inspector Linscott had found that in his profession the very little things often led to the biggest coups. So he never slipped over anything, however insignificant.

He came to the notes about the fatal evening. Apparently Lady Gwendolen, Lady Opie and the hostess had been the only ones in the music room when Robin entered. The others all returned later and their movements were more or less satisfactorily accounted for. He wished some one had observed the order in which they returned and any signs of disturbance, but that was too much to hope for. No one had noticed anything. Yet Inspector Linscott realized that if the murder had been committed by one of the guests it must have been done prior to their assembly in the music room. Unless . . . but that seemed scarcely feasible. Sir George Opie went openly to hunt for the missing men . . . he had had time . . . scarcely time . . . for the doctor put the moment of death as earlier rather than later than the approximate moment he specified in his evidence. Well, then, before . . . it might have been any of them . . . not much hope that way.

He had earlier examined the Manor inside and out, and he had ascertained that only Prince Pozolevsky and Lord Winston had been assigned rooms opening on to the gardens. If those valuable objects had been thrown from above, it must have been from one of those rooms, or Lady Gwendolen's. And he felt that she was out of the question because of the deep affection that existed between her and her brothr; besides, no woman would have the strength to drive that knife so deep as it was found. No, it must have been a man, and presumably a large, powerful man . . . the stranger had been so described. He found his mind returning to the stranger. He hoped every moment to hear that he had been found. He felt certain that the murder had occurred on the half-landing just outside the small room and that the guilty person had dragged the body into the nearest place where it could be temporarily concealed, thinking probably that such a tiny room was unoccupied and that his deed might go undiscovered perhaps for days.

There were but two ways of reaching that landing: one, from the main first-floor passage and down the five stairs, where the blood was found; the other, from the billiards room and up seven or eight steps. The inspector had carefully examined the billiards room, but could find nothing of consequence there. He had discovered, however, that on the opposite side from the steps the billiards room opened into a short passage, which in turn gave egress into the grounds. It was a sort of tradesmen's entrance, another door from the passage leading to a flight of stairs which descended to the kitchen. The butler, Gaspard, had assured him that no one could have entered by that passage without his knowledge, for he and two of the maids had been sitting in the room directly below. But Linscott didn't feel so sure of that.

That outer passage and the stranger persisted in linking themselves up in his mind.

He'd hardly ever seen a case with fewer clews, if one rejected all those pointing to the poet. And the more the inspector thought about it the more certain he became that Robin Smith was only a poor victim of circumstances, and of his own folly. But he was a long way from being able to convince a jury of that. No one knew it better than he.

He ran over his notes about each guest. They were, for the most part, succinct and to the point.

"Lady Dorothy Alston," he said, "disturbed and reticent, but anxious to help, and believing in Mr. Smith's innocence. Lady Opie, French, subtle, but probably honest. Lady Gwendolen, grief-stricken. Certain fatal knife is her brother's. Unable to give any helpful information. Honest and sincere. These three have alibis.

"Sir George Opie, reticent. Keeping something back? Donald Flint, fiance of Lady Gwendolen, positive he saw Lord Winston in garden during thunderstorm. Saw no one with him. A man of the world, but apparently well-meaning. Had never met dead man until that evening. Prince Pozolevsky, suave, polite, but elusive. Persistently refuses to admit anything unpleasant existed between himself and murdered man. Bruce Armstrong, enigmatic, resourceful, bellicose, but honest. Believes strongly in poet's innocence. Miss Haddon, agitated, had been weeping. Reminder: Look up her relation to dead man. These had alibis, but not so perfect as they might be; had all been alone for some time between dinner and discovery of murder. No chance of suspecting any one of them as yet.

"Robin Smith, young poet, who ought not to be allowed out without a guardian. Probably innocent, but most certainly a liar. Suspicious circumstances. Damaging facts. Stupidity which he claims not believable a man of his reputation. Try to get honest story from him."

The inspector stopped on the concluding sentence, as if it fascinated him. But, after all, he had tried and tried again, faithfully following the old adage, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try, again." And he had been hopeful of ultimate success. But such it had not been the fortune of Inspector Linscott to achieve. Robin Smith clung stubbornly to his first version, reiterating: "It is the truth. I can't tell you anything else, for it's the whole truth." And he had expected a police inspector of many years' experience to believe him. That showed more definitely than anything else that he was incapable of committing the murder. And yet—there was truth in what the coroner had said when he insisted in his summing up to the jury that, if Robin Smith were guilty, they must not be troubled by the childish manner in which he had scattered damning clues. There was no more childishness in that than in the story to which they had just listened.

That's what the boy was. Childish. That one word summed it up. And Inspector Linscott couldn't get away from his belief that this crime had been committed by a shrewd and daring man, even a desperate man. Yet at that moment he had as little confidence in finding that desperate man as he had when he tackled his first case many years before.

HOW TO PLAN ATTRACTIVE MEALS

(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

To have attractive, pleasing meals, you must also plan how different textures and flavors and sometimes even colors of foods combine. It is not only epicures who think about such things. We want to give our bodies the food they need to keep them well and strong, and we are more likely to eat the right foods if they please eye and nose and tongue as well. Have you ever thought why you like a crisp, juicy apple after your lunch of sandwiches and other soft foods, or why crackers seemed even better than bread with cheese? In your meals plan to have foods of different texture; that is, some hard, some soft, some crisp, some juicy.

Everybody, of course, has favorite combinations of foods so far as flavor is concerned, and is constantly discovering new ones. In general, foods of delicate but distinctive flavor, like that of fresh green peas, or young chicken, should be so used that they can be appreciated. Pronounced flavors, such as those of cabbage and ham, can be toned down with foods of milk flavor like potatoes, or they can be brought out by combining them.

Without working out any elaborate or artificial color schemes, make the most of the attractive color of foods. There are all sorts of simple ways of touching up dishes with bright-colored foods and of making attractive combinations. A slice of red tomato on a cottage cheese salad adds something besides different texture and flavor, and every New Englander, unless color blind, is aware of the attractive appearance of his Fourth of July fresh salmon and green peas.

Prices realized on Swift & Co. sales of carcass beef in Washington, D. C., for week ending Saturday, October 25, 1930, on shipments sold out ranged from 10.50 cents to 21.00 cents per pound and averaged 16.71 cents per pound.—Adv.

New York Opera Season Opens to Rustle of Silk

Broadway Throngs Watch Bejeweled Society Step From Limousines as Metropolitan Starts Season With "Aida," Maria Mueller Singing Title Role.

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—In the crimson and gilt amphitheater of the Metropolitan Opera House, society gathered in jeweled magnificence tonight to watch the opera "Aida," which Verdi wrote for the Khedive of Egypt, and to join the blazing pageant which opens New York's social season.

Since the gay nineties, when the dowager Mrs. Vanderbilt's diamond dog collar sparkled among the jewels in the golden horseshoe, the grand opera opening has been society's gala night. Tonight was no exception.

Clad in silks and clinging velvets, studded with gems and wrapped in ermine, they stepped from shining limousines. Flashlights boomed, whistles sounded, traffic halted, and the Broadway throngs pressed close to the lines of blue-coated policemen to see the show.

The notables swept up the double-tiered, red-carpeted staircase to the boxes of the golden horseshoe, the lights dimmed to twilight and the curtain rose on an opera that has been one of the greatest musical favorites for 50 years.

In the setting of Egypt's Pyramids and golden sands, Maria Mueller sang the role of Aida, the captive daughter of the Ethiopian king; Karin Branzell wore the glittering trappings of the Egyptian princess, Amneris; Giovanni Martinelli sang the love songs of Aida's lover, Rhadames, and Giuseppe de Luca portrayed the Ethiopian King Amonasro.

The feasting and dancing of an Egyptian court, religious scenes in the Temple of Isis, the death of Rhadames and Aida in a sealed tomb unfolded on the historic stage. Rita de Le Porte, arrayed in the gold and jewelled costume of an Egyptian dancer, whirled through the famous ballet in her debut as premiere danseuse.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me whether the inclosed leaves are from the rose of Sharon? The bush from which these leaves were taken has sprung up in the place where my rose of Sharon died last season.

MRS. ALIE E. W.

The leaves were from the rose of Sharon, likely a seedling from the original plant.

Will you kindly tell me the reason for numerous dry spots appearing in our lawn? It is watered thoroughly and the utmost care is used to avoid cropping too close, but the condition seems to persist, and, if anything, is becoming worse. How can this be prevented? Y. T. P.

In response to this question I shall quote from one of the greatest authorities we have on maintaining lawns: "In moist, hot weather, when the lawn needs drainage, or when given too frequent applications of water, such brown spots, which are more or less circular and may become a foot or more in diameter, are due to a fungus. The damage seems to be done mostly at night. In the morning a smoky-appearing spot is evident, resembling grass that has been burned by dry weather or scalded with water. It does not always kill the grass entirely. Correct the injury by spraying with bordeaux mixture every two or three days, always after a rain. Or the lawn area may be dusted instead of sprayed. One pound of dust will cover 1,000 square feet."

Please tell me how to exterminate ground moles from my garden, which is constantly being plowed up by this pest. Also the best time to start hollyhocks. LOUIS A. S.

There is a proprietary preparation on the market which is said to destroy moles. I shall be glad to send you the name of this poison if you care to write again and will inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope. As the seeds of hollyhocks ripen in August, they should be sown in light soil and the seedlings grown in cold frames during the winter. If you prefer to set out young plants in the spring, start them as early as the ground can be worked. They require a deeply dug, well-drained soil made up of equal portions of good loam and leafmold.

Please give me the names of some hardy perennials that bloom the first year after the seed is sown.

MISS MARY T.

Almost all perennials bloom from seed sown the previous year. As a rule, the seed is sown in the late summer and the seedlings transplanted into permanent quarters before frost. Hollyhocks, helenium, gypsophila, digitalis (foxglove) and delphinium seed sown in late summer will produce blooming plants the following season.

Please examine the inclosed leaves from my rosebush and tell me what to do to restore the plant to a healthy condition. F. X. U.

Your rosebush has been attacked by black spot. Better collect and burn all dead or dying leaves in order to prevent a spread of the disease. Dust the foliage twice each week with Massey dust, a preparation composed of nine parts dusting sulphur and one part lead arsenate.

Please tell me how to get rid of the inclosed vine, which is growing under and dislodging mulch paper.

MRS. R. J. S.

The vine is a species of wild morning glory, a rather persistent but charming little weed. Better take up the mulch paper and remove the vine with a hoe. This may seem like a great deal of work, but it is the only way by which you can be sure of getting rid of the weed.

(Copyright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

"Those folks surely know how to launder shirts"

"Manhattan does everything else just as well, even the daintiest silks"

SHIRTS, sheets, socks and silks—all are uniformly fresh and clean when washed by Manhattan's Net Bag System. Assorted according to color and material into net bags, your clothes are washed by pure, penetrating suds of Palm Oil soaps and soft filtered water. Then many changes of fresh, clear water rinse them and leave them sparkling like new. That's why customers send their entire wash to Manhattan. They know that clothes washed this way look better and wear longer.

And Manhattan brings you this remarkable service in just three days. Collected Monday morning your laundry is returned spick and span Wednesday afternoon, called for Tuesday back Thursday, and so on. Sure as clockwork . . . Below is a list of Manhattan's economical services. Choose the one that fits your need and phone for our representative.

FAIRFAX BOND ISSUE BALLOTS PREPARED

Water System Election to Be Held Nov. 4, at Same Time as Other Voting.

TAX BILLS ARE MAILED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County Electoral Board met yesterday afternoon in the County Courthouse and prepared the ballots for the water bond issue in the town of Fairfax. The election will be held on the same date as the general election, November 4, by order of the circuit court, signed last Friday by Judge Walter T. McCarthy.

Last year the citizens of the town turned down a similar bond issue providing for both water and sewerage but this year very little opposition has developed. The greatest opposition is from those persons living in the outlying sections.

Mayor Thomas P. Chapman stated yesterday many of those who voted against the issue last year are in favor of this year's plan. While the sum set in the ordinance was $50,000, proponents of the measure state that they believe the cost of installing a water system in the town will not exceed $35,000. Another clause guarantees the bond issue by a tax levy not to exceed 80 cents on the $100 valuation of the property in the incorporation. Mayor Chapman states that he does not believe that it will ever be necessary to make a levy of this amount as a water system is a revenue-producing utility and the water rent will practically take care of the bonds, which will be issued for a 20-year period. The water mains have been so planned as to include almost every home within the incorporated limits and the fire plugs will be located so that every piece of property will be in reach of the fire engines' equipment.

The leaders of the movement favoring the bond issue point out the fact that many of the residents have not realized t hat while their taxes would be increased a small amount, the insurance companies would lower their rates when the system is installed. They state that in some places in Arlington County the savings on the insurance premium amounts t o 50 cents on t he $100 insured value. With the completion of the system property values are bound to increase, it is held, and new residents will move into the town, building new houses which would increase the taxable property and lower the burden of the present residents.

Some of the residents of the town who are lukewarm toward the proposition state that they would be more in accord with the plan if they could be assured that local labor would be used in the installation of the system. They have suggested that it be installed by County Engineer F. Novell Larkin, and t he county be reimbursed for t he time he devotes to it. In view of t he continued drought this year they claim t hat local persons who suffered an d a re now employed should be given the preference.

All tax bills for this year will be in the hands of the property owners in Fairfax County before the end of this week, Deputy County Treasurer Mrs. Amos H. Chilcott announced yesterday. All bills except those for Providence Magisterial District and the town of Vienna are already in the mail. Mrs. Chilcott states that a large number of persons who have already received their bills have paid more promptly than at this time last year. This fact would indicate that the residents have been preparing for this account and fears of the officials that taxes would be hard to collect this year are unfounded, she said.

The Fairfax County Pomona Grange will hold its meeting this evening at 7 o'clock in the grange hall at Forestville, with the Great Falls Grange acting as hosts. Mrs. A. Harmon Roberts, of Woodlawn, lecturer for the Pomona Grange, has prepared a program for the evening as follows: Julius Slade of Pioneer Grange will speak on "How to Store Winter Vegetables and Fruits," and Mrs. A. C. Speight of Great Falls Grange will tell the best way to protect flowers and shrubs through the winter months. Following this there will be a debate on "Resolved, that it pays better to raise one's own cows than to buy mature cows." The affirmative side will be taken by Miss Ludema Sayre of Centreville Grange and Holcomb Rogers of the Floris Grance, and the negative side by L. H. Popkins and G. C. Gillingham of the Mount Vernon grange.

The meeting has been especially called for 7 o'clock so that the meeting will be over by 9, in order that the members may participate in the dance and entertainment arranged by the Great Falls Grange. Mrs. Roberts, the lecturer, has been forced to abandon plans for an afternoon session and picnic supper because of the large number of members who are unable to attend during the day. Refreshments will be served at the dance.

There will be a meeting of the Women's Guild of the St. Paul's Episcopal Chapel at Baileys Cross Roads tomorrow afternoon to complete the arrangement of the parish hall for the annual dinner on November 5. Arrangements have been made with the bus company to supply several extra buses along the Columbia pike between 5 and 7 o'clock on the evening of the supper, to take care of the extra crowd.

Herndon Council, No. 25, Daughters of America, will hold a Halloween social this evening in Wilkins Hall in Herndon for the benefit of the council. There will be dancing, cards and games.

The women's class of the Columbia Baptist Church Sunday School will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Guy Ervin, in Falls Church. New officers will be elected.

A Halloween social and entertainment will be given this evening by the Laurel Rebekah Lodge, No. 44, in the Odd Fellows Hall at Falls Church. Miss Pauline Royston and Mrs. Isabel Cousens will have charge of the program.

The Women's Guild of the St. John's Episcopal Church at McLean will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Adrain Busick.

The Halloween party at Chester Brook tomorrow will open with a program by the pupils of the Chesterbrook School. It will include a recitation by Mary Ellen Morrow, a play presented by William McCauley, Howard Mohun, Lloyd Allen, Russell Loy, Melvin Hall and Margaret Stalcup. Recitations will be given by Russell Loy, Philip Loy and Kathleen Fletcher; a duet by Clara Cockerill and Earl Loy. The story of the origin of Halloween will be given by Aidia Loy and musical selections will be rendered by Roma Saunders. There will be Halloween games, refreshments and prizes for the best costumes.

BACKERS ANSWER FOE OF NEW PLAN

Arlington County Salaries Will Not Be Increased Much, They Say.

BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Replying to Robert H. Forman, zoning administrator for Arlington County, who announced Sunday that he was opposed to the adoption of the county manager plan of government because it would increase the annual salary bill of the county about $10,000, the Arlington County Civic Federation campaign committee issued a statement last night which declared that Mr. Forman's conclusions were based upon two improbable assumptions.

"He assumes," the statement declares, "that the General Assembly will in the future double the salary of $600 allowed under the Reid act to each member of the county board under the county manager plan. He also assumes that the present office of directing engineer would be retained under the county manager plan, when, as a matter of fact, the office of county manager is to take the place of the directing engineer.

"Having laid down these two improbable assumptions," the statement says, "Mr. Forman uses them as a basis for the definite statement that the new plan will cost an additional sum of $10,000 per year for salaries. The facts are that there will be a saving of $600 a year in the matter of salaries for the board members, being the difference between the three present supervisors at $1,200 per year each and the five board members under the proposed plan at $600 per year each.

The county manager probably will receive considerably more than the present directing engineer, but it is not likely the salary will exceed $7,500. Even the largest Virginia cities do not pay their managers in excess of $10,000. The probable net increase in salaries under the new government will not exceed $3,000, which is a very modest sum out of the county's annual budget of approximately $700,000. A good county manager, through efficient administration, will save the county his salary many times over."

In answer to Mr. Forman's statement that the new plan of government is being sponsored by individuals who have had no experience in government, the committee enumerates as sponsors Walter U. Varney, former corporation attorney for the town of Potomac, and chairman of the Arlington County Bar Association committee which recommended the plan; Harry R. Thomas, for many years judge of the police court, and a member of the bar association committee; Harry A. Fellows, former Mayor of Falls Church; Hugh Reid, delegate to the General Assembly and father of the act under which the election is being held, and Senator Frank L. Ball, who led the bill through the State Senate. The persons mentioned, the statement concludes, obviously do not fall within Mr. Forman's category of individuals who have had no experience in government.

Not taking any stand on which form of government he favors for Arlington County, Hugh Reid, father of the act which makes it possible for the voters of Arlington County to determine which form of government they wish, speaking at the monthly meeting of the Thrifton Village Improvement League last night, said it was only his intention to give the County an opportunity to vote on what kind of government it considers most suitable.

Mr. Reid explained in detail the many attempts made in years past to change the form of government, saying some were consistent while others not. He outlined the present act, stating that if the people vote for a change the first thing to happen will be the wiping out of the magisterial districts; the next step will be to determine the kind of government, and last, whether or not the members of the board shall be elected by districts or at large.

L. C. McNemar, the next speaker, declared the county manager plan is the most logical, members of the county board being elected at large.

Robert N. Anderson, chairman of the Civic Federation committee, followed Mr. McNemar and gave a comprehensive outline of the studies made by the committee.

The semiannual orthopedic clinic, held in the Clarendon Health Center yesterday and conducted by Dr. Donald M. Faulkner, of Richmond, was attended by 49 persons, 29 of whom were preschool children.

Assisting him were Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, Mrs. Norma A. Davies and Mrs. M. A. Rudasill, nurses in the local health department; Mrs. Julian D. Simpson, who acted as hostess in the morning; Mrs. Buelah McNaulty, who acted as hostess in the afternoon, and Miss Pearl Griffith, supervisor of the orthopedic work of the Visiting Nurses' Society of Washington.

In addition to the local patients attending the clinic there were children from Alexandria, Prince William and Clark Counties. Several were recommended for hospitalization.

The October meeting of the Clarendon Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held tonight at the home of Mrs. Grace L. Goddard, 3568 Thirteenth street northwest, Washington. Miss Miriam Sizer, a teacher of mountain children at Skyland, Va., will be the principal speaker.

The local union has done much in the way of educational and missionary work for the mountain children in and around Skyland and Miss Sizer will give an insight into what is being accomplished in their behalf and also speak of ther future needs.

A conference to discuss the dangerour condition existing at Four Mile Run on the Washington-Richmond Highway will be held Monday, November 3. Among thase who will attend are Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, J. C. Albright, District State highway engineer, members of the county board of supervisors, County Engineer C. L. Kinner, Wallace Lawrence, city manager for the city of Alexandria, and City Engineer E. C. Dunn, of Alexandria.

Arlington Council, No. 32, Daughters of America, of Clarendon, will hold its annual visitation of the State Councilor of Virginia tonight in the auditorium of the Ballston Firemen's Hall, at 8 o'clock.

The Margaret King Circle, of St. George's Episcopal Church, holds its monthly meeting tonight at the home of Mrs. Guy Rogers, at Ballston, at 8 o'clock.

The Star Point Society of Arlington Chapter No. 39, Order of The Eastern Star, will give a Hollowe'en dance and card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Inbody, Ballston road, Cherrydale, tonight at 8 o'clock.

The monthly meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 139, will be held tomorrow night in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, now located in the offices of the Brumback Realty Co., in the Rees Building, at Clarendon.

The office of County Engineer C. L. Kinner yesterday was moved to the offices formerly occupied by County School Supt. Fletcher Kemp, on the first floor of the courthouse. Supt. Kemp has moved his offices to the third floor of the courthouse in the offices formerl occupied by the Counti Health Department.

A circuit court jury yesterday acquitted W. H. Spaulding of a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

H. J. Facchina forfeited $15 in police court yesterday on a charge of reckless driving. Judge Harry R. Thomas presided.

A mass meeting will be held under the auspices of the Cherrydale Citizens Association Thursday night in the auditorium of the old Cherrydale Schoolhouse to discuss the proposed change in the county government. Among the speakers will be Robert N. Anderson, chairman of the legislation and legal action committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation, and Hugh J. McGrath, member of the committee.

MRS. MARY NELSON TO BE BURIED TODAY

Services for Descendant of Revolutionary Hero to Be Held in Capital.

HAD BEEN ILL FOR MONTH

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Nelson, 82 years old, widow of Joseph H. Nelson, of Virginia, who died Sunday, will be held this morning at 11 o'clock at the S. H. Hines funeral parlors, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest. The Rev. W. W. McIntyre of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church South will officiate, assisted by the Rev. J. J. Ringer and the Rev. J. J. Rives.

Burial will be in Warrington, Va., where the Rev. D. M. Brown will have charge of services at the cemetery.

Mrs. Nelson, whose home was at 1236 Shepherd street northwest had been ill for a month with heart disease. She had been a resident of Washington since 1895, her previous life having been spent in Warrington, Va.

She was the daughter of Capt. Thomas Smith Wingfield and Anne Nelson Wingfield, of Virginia, and a descendant of Thomas Nelson, signer of the Declaration of Independence who was commander-in-chief of the Virginia forces during the Revolutionary War.

Mrs. Nelson is survived by flur daughters, Mrs. Clarence Hamilton Rector, Miss Mary B. Nelson, Miss Lucille Nelson and Mrs. Thomas G. Anderson and one son, Edgar F. Nelson, all of Washington except Mrs. Rector who resides at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Active pallbearers will be J. D. Ashford, D. H. Johnson, R. O. Mullikin, E. H. Parsley, Charles E. Warfield and W. Carl Wuatt while honorary pallbearers will be E. R. Armentraut, Fred Briggs, E. L. Cockrell, J. M. Follin, H. G. Howard, A. M. Jones, S. M. McNett and H. H. Shacwleford.

Cold weather is motor-punishing weather... Now, more than ever, you need the extra protection of this DE-WAXED, EASY-STARTING OIL

CONTINENTAL OIL CO.
CONOCO

In cold weather motors usually are hard to start, but Conoco Germ-Processed oil actually makes starting easier!

There are two good reasons for this. First: Germ-Processed oil is thoroughly dewaxed and does not congeal at low temperatures. Second: Germ-Processed oil does not drain away during periods of motor idleness. The initial "turning over" process is made easier by the protective lubricating film which is on duty before you touch the starter. The usual 40% to 60% of motor wear occurring during the starting period is greatly reduced. Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil gives you safe starting—and quick starting, even at zero temperatures.

Change now to this new oil. Use it all winter for motor safety and economy. You always will find Germ-Processed Motor Oil at stations bearing the Conoco Red Triangle.

JURY CLEARS BRONX JUDGE OF CHARGES

G. O. P. LEADER TESTIFIES

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—One phase of New York's judiciary investigation ended today with a presentment by a Bronx grand jury declaring "not a grain of truth" could be found in anonymous charges that a Bronx judge paid for his elevation to the bench.

The grand jury investigated the charges by direction of Gov. Roosevelt after Supreme Court Justice McCook had given the governor an anonymous letter containing the allegations.

The presentment expressed the jury's disapproval of wholesale subpenaing of private records of judicial officers under investigation by two other investigating bodies simultaneously probing charges of corruption on the bench.

The extraordinary grand jury which indicted former Magistrate George F. Ewald and three others on office-buying charges has subpenaed bank and brokerage accounts of several judges and political leaders. The Appelate Court's investigation of the lower judiciary has subpenaed the bank accounts of every magistrate in Manhattan and the Bronx.

"When mere gossip imputes wrongdoing to a reputable citizen," the presentment said, "it is no more morally justifiable for a public prosecutor to subpena his private records than for a policeman to assault a suspect to extort a confession of crime."

Kepes Winter, Republican leader in the Fifteenth Assembly District, signed a waiver of immunity and testified for half an hour before the extraordinary grand jury. His appearance was understood to be in connection with allegations that he had demanded payment for his support of a candidate for nomination for a judicial office.

Foreign Deputations Reach Addis Ababa for Coronation

Priests Already Begin Rites of Prayer Over Gem-Encrusted Crown to Be Worn by "Light of Ethiopa," Descendant of David.

Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—This ancient seat of Ethiopian power today was in the midst of state and religious preparation for the coronation November 2 of Ras Tafari as emperor.

With the arrival of several more foreign deputations the ranks of delegates of fourteen countries were filling up rapidly. Today was the day of the French envoys. Yesterday, the Japanese, Polish, Egyptian and Dutch visitors arrived.

Day and night, bishops and priests pray over the jewel-encrusted pure gold crowns of the emperor and empress. These crowns rest in state in St. George's Church.

When Ras Tafari ascends the golden throne of David, a week hence, as Emperor Haile Selassie I, King of Kings of Ethiopia, Elect of God, Conquering Lion of Judah and Light of Ethiopia, he will be, according to Ethiopian historians, the 336th sovereign of that empire. These authorities hold that the Ethiopian empire was founded in the ninety-seventh year after the creation of the world, which, according to the Ethiopian calendar, occurred 5,500 years before the birth of Christ.

Thus Selassie, by this reckoning, will begin on November 2 the 6,460th year of the reign of the Ethiopian dynasty, which would make it the oldest royal house in the world.

Adam no longer is claimed by Ethiopians as the original ancestor of the kings of Ethiopia, modern Abyssinians claiming as their first king Ori, or Aram, the son of Shem, who is mentioned in the book of Genesis.

The first dynasty of Solomon, from which Selassie claims descent, reigned no less than 1,300 years by these authorities, while during the 331 years between the flood and the fall of the Tower of Babel 42 different Ethiopian sovereigns ruled Africa.

Although Ras Tafari would like the outside world to consider him a modern ruler, he still signs himself "Inheritor of the Throne of David, King of Kings and Anointed of God," as evidenced by a letter which he sent to Addison E. Southard, United States consul general at Addis Ababa, today acknowledging President Hoover's gift, the American Chief Executive's autographed photograph.

Ras Tafari, in an interview with the Associated Press correspondent today, said he expected his coronation to be not only a great national event for Ethiopia, but it would make the only remaining independent absolute monarchy in Africa better known throughout the world. He said he intended to modernize his country slowly and progressively, preserving all that is good in the ancient system while adopting every feature of modern life which will insure advancement of the country. The Abyssinian ruler has a tremendous admiration for America and its people.

Giving a message to the Associated Press correspondent, Ras Tafari said in fluent French:

"Tell the people of free, disinterested and progressive America that I wish for their help and sympathetic cooperation in making Ethiopia a really great and enlightened country patterned after their own.

"As a step in this direction, I, like your great Lincoln, have abolished slavery, making my 10,000,000 people free, equal and independent.

"To develop the vast untouched natural resources of my country, I welcome here American engineers, industrialists, bankers and business men, assuring them of every facility for their work and the most favorable pecuniary inducements.

"My task in converting this 6,000-year-old country into a modern, twentieth century state is colossal, but by the mercy of God and with the friendly assistance of the United States and other countries I know I shall succeed."

The frail, diminutive monarch then placed his hand over his heart, and bowing, said: "May peace be unto you, and may God grant His blessings to the great American people."

MOTORCYCLE PAIR KILLED IN ACCIDENT

DENIES BLAME IN CRASH

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 27.—Donald Ferree, 25, and Albert Klaiber, jr., 21, two motorcyclists, of York, Pa., were killed today on the Valley pike, seven miles north of Harrisonburg, when their motorcycle and an automobile driven by J. S. Hayden, wealthy Augusta County resident, collided on the crest of a small hill.

Hayden was held on a charge of involuntary manslaughter after Coroner J. F. Byerly, after an inquest, held Mr. Hayden was driving his car on the wrong side of the pike. Parents of the two dead young men reached here tonight to take the bodies to York, Pa., for burial.

The impact of the collision caused Ferree to be hurled through the air, his forehead striking the top of Hayden's car. Klaiber was hurled backward after hitting the front part of the Hayden car. It is believed both men were killed instantly.

The collision happened at what is known as the "Loop, the Loop," on the Valley pike, which is a series of short sharp ridges. The motorcycle was coming south and Mr. Hayden was driving from Augusta Springs to Washington, going north.

At the coroner's inquest, Sheriff Charles R. Fawley, of Rockingham County, testified that the car tracks showed that Hayden's car was about 17 inches over the line marking the center on the pike at that point. Hayden claims he was driving about 25 or 30 miles an hour behind another car. The motorcycle, he said, dashed around the car in front of him and struck his car in a fraction of a second from the time he first observed the motorcycle.

Be sure

specify Kotex

No sanitary pad can give you the same wonderful absorbency, perfect fit and lasting softness.

TAKE no unnecessary chances in this important matter of sanitary protection—specify Kotex.

Kotex—first of all sanitary pads—remains best of all sanitary pads. Every month, every year, scientists add details to perfect its comfort, to give you the feeling of being well groomed, at ease; to offer you inconspicuous protection.

First, its amazing absorbency

The absorbent of which Kotex is made—Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding—is unique. It is five times more absorbent than surgical cotton, by actual test. Five times more lasting for that very reason.

Kotex is guaranteed to last longer, to stay soft longer than any other sanitary pad.

It is not only soft and downy at first, but it remains that way even during use. Its comfort is lasting comfort.

Hospitals use it

Do you know that 85% of our leading hospitals use Kotex absorbent today? Yes, they specify Kotex, they insist on Kotex absorbent in cases where the utmost safety and delicacy are necessary.

You can have the very same sanitary care that world-famous hospitals give their patients. You should not be satisfied with anything less. Never is safety more vital, never is comfort more essential. Specify "Kotex." Accept nothing else.

Kotex Company, Chicago, Illinois.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1 Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2 The Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

3 In hospitals . . . The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

4 Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

TRIO HIGH IN POLICE REMOVED IN DETROIT

FIRM RECORDS SEIZED

Detroit, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The Wayne County Grand Jury today brought about the removal of three high police officers and ordered a raid on the Detroit Terminus of an alleged machine gun distributing organization in one of the most eventful sessions since it was impaneled two months ago to investigate local crime conditions.

Police Commissioner Thomas C. Wilcox appeared before the jury during the morning to learn why it had recommended last Friday the immediate removal of Robert A. McPherson, deputy chief of detectives; Detective Lieut. Max Waldfogel and Norvall Marlett, head of the Black Hand Squad. Less than an hour after the interview the commissioner acted on the jury's recommendations and ordered the men to leave their posts.

Company Records Seized.

A detail of State and City police, working under orders of the Grand Jury, raided the offices of the Capital Coal Co., Inc., at 1261 Bellevue avenue today, served two subpoenas, made one arrest and seized all the records of the company. The officers said this company was headed by Angelo Meli, all-ged leader of a gang of Sicilians. They also said that it was this company which formed the Detroit branch of a New York-Detroit-Chicago organization which furnished firearms to gangsters.

Charles Jones, found in the coal company's offices, was arrested for investigation. Adolph Nedela, a bookkeeper, and Sam Lafata, secretary-treasurer, of the company, were ordered to appear before the jury. Meli was not present. The company's records were loaded into a truck and taken away by the police.

Surprise to Police.

The jury's recommendations, regarding the three officers, was the first definite indication that it had been investigating interna. affairs of the police department along with its sifting of Detroit crime conditions.

MacPherson was involved by Patrolman Adolph Van Coppenolle in the shooting of Inspector Henry J. Garvin last January. Van Coppenolle said that MacPherson was jealous of Garvin and had plotted to "get" him.

The three officers are still on the department's pay roll, their suspension being impossible without the filing of written charges against them.

Commissioner Wilcox said nothing further would be done until the grand jury makes known its final report.

BURGLAR ESCAPES WITH $125.00 LOOT

Takes Gold Cigarette Case When Forced to Flee as Woman Screams.

HAS LADDER AT WINDOW

Boldly entering the home of Dr. Ferdinand H. Mistretta, of 2871 Woodley the family were at dinner last land drive northwest, while members night, an intruder fled hurriedly when discovered by Mrs. Mistretta as she left the dining room to go upstairs.

Her screams frightened the burglar, who escaped down the ladder he had placed at a rear bedroom window on the second floor. Mrs. Mistretta, fearful lest the intruder be armed, refused to let her husband and two sons by a former marriage give chase.

Police of the Fourteenth Precinct found the ladder against the winder but there was no trace of the invader. His only loot, according to the family, was a gold cigarette case valued at $125 and bearing the inscription "Florence C. Wetherill."

Dr. and Mrs. Mistretta, with her two sons, Carter and Prescott L. Wetherill, were at dinner, they reported, but heard nothing alarming during the meal. Dr. Mistretta went into the living room of the home after dinner, passing the window against which the ladder had been raised, without noticing that anything was amiss.

But when Mrs. Mistretta started upstors, she saw a man in the upper hall. At first she thought it was her husband, but when the intruder straightened up, she discovered her error and screamed. Sons and husband rushed to her aid, but the man slid down the ladder and escaped in the darkness.

The stolen cigarette case belonged to Mrs. Mistretta's daughter.

Bush Killing Coat Tests Concluded

Garment Allegedly Worn by Suspect Returned to Police.

An overcoat supposed to have been worn by Frank Mahoney, held in connection with the slaying of Louis Bush, wealthy bus line owner who was killed on the night of October 6, yesterday afternoon was returned to detective headquarters following a test to determine whether the coat had had blood on it, as William J. Carnell's was supposed to have.

The coat was submitted to the local police microscopist for the examination, ostensibly to see whether Mahoney's statement that he drove away following the hearing of gun shots while he was waiting for Carnell to hold up Bush would prove correct.

Inspector William S. Shelby, in charge of the investigation, has also sent a coat supposed to have belonged to Carnell, and which was thought to have blood spiotches on it, to the same specialist for examination. It may be returned today.

KENTUCKY AND BOURBON HELD FAVORITE LIQUORS AT CAPITOL

ed, as do other businesses, upon my being able to please the customers.

Old Taylor Favored.

Among the Kentucky brands which stood very high with most of the congressional clientele were Old Taylor and Old Crow. Still others were Melville, Pikesville, Cedar Brook, Indian Hill, Cream of Kentucky, Old Marvin, Four Roses, Antique and Country Club.

There were others, but as I remember it these stood highest with the majority of the customers on the "Hill." They were old standbys which could always be depended upon to please almost any of the members. I am sure that still holds good, though it may be more difficult to supply the demand for them now than it was the first year I started.

When it became necessary to begin cutting the stuff because of its scarcity, it was Melville which stood the test best. I have always thought it was the best of all of these whiskies, with the heaviest body to it. As far as members of Congress were concerned, it certainly stood up under cutting better and could be relied on to please them at all times.

Few Good Judges.

Despite the fact that the congressmen and senators all wanted this kind of liquor, bonded and imported, "good stuff," there weren't many of them who were good judges of liquor. I think they would stack up no higher than the average person in this respect.

I remember once I brought a Southern congressman some stuff which was in the original bottle—the seal unbroken—and had never been tampered with. The next time he saw me he told me he thought the stuff he was getting was falling off a little.

He said: "The last you brought wasn't so good." Well, the next time I brought him stuff which had been cut as much as I ever cut it. He thought it was fine and congratulated me on improving the quality.

Another peculiar thing about senators and congressmen was their tendency to haggle over the price they paid for this kind of liquor. They were getting the best that could be bought anywhere after prohibition, yet many of them would argue over prices as if it were ordinary stuff.

Held Out for Fair Price.

Since the income of the average congressman or senator is considerably above that of most people, it was something of a surprise to me at first. Later I got used to it, and learned to hold out for a fair price.

There weren't so many realiable sources where stuff of that kind could be secured that they would take very great chances of losing it. And nearly all of them wanted it bad enough to meet me more than halfway.

A congressman would sometimes purchase two or three cases of liquor. This would then be divided among ten or twelve members. Sometimes I knew to whom this went and sometimes I did not. Generally, however, I knew that the one member to whom it was sold seldom consumed all of it.

With senators this was slightly different. They more frequently bought it in large lots, and I think it was mainly for consumption at their offices or homes. Sometimes, of course, it was used at dinner parties at their homes and affairs of that sort. I remember one New England senator who called some of his cronies in the Senate into his office at Christmas time and sent each of them home happy with a dozen quarts in his brief case.

Drinking Called Natural.

You can't blame these men for taking the same means of refreshment and relaxation other people enjoy. Some of the senators and congressmen are hard workers who are busy from morning to night in committees or on the floor. When a day's session is over it is only natural for half a dozen of them to gather in one of the offices and enjoy a sociable round of drinks.

One of my problems was to figure out the capacity of the senators and congressmen with whom I was dealing.

This was important in two ways. In the first place, I had to figure on keeping an adequate supply to meet the demand, but never liked to run the risk of keeping a stock of goods that could not be moved readily. In the second place, I made it a rule never to make a nuisance of myself around the office of a member and tried to gauge my calls so that when I dropped in I would find my customer glad to see me.

Of course, there are now, as there have always been, members, in both houses of Congress who are known as "bottle-a-day" men, but I did not meet more than two or three of these in my experience on Capitol Hill.

Two or Three Quarts Weekly.

I would say that the average member with whom I came in contact had a capacity of two or three quarts a week. Sometimes when a member was working hard or had company from out of the city he would go above his normal average, but I found it safe to rely on this rate of consumption as a general proposition.

When I had neglected a customer or he had something special in mind he would call me up at my residence and let me know his needs. He would generally have me drop into his office to give the order and I furnished my telephone number to my customers for this purpose. At rush times the telephone would keep ringing faster than I could answer it and attend to making the proper arrangements.

The making of collections also presented quite a problem to me. I was not doing a cash and carry business and it wasn't practical, either, to send in a monthly bill to my customers. I would keep track of what had been handled and take my chances on seeing my customer and getting the account settled at intervals of every two or three weeks.

Usually Received Cash.

Members of the Senate and House get their salaries and mileage from offices in the Capitol and are able to draw checks when they have a balance coming to them. Occasionally I would get one of these checks—drawn on the salary and mileage account—but in most cases it was a cash transaction.

I remember one senator who always made the check out to his secretary and the secretary would then take care of me. Occasionally I would get a "rubber" check that came back on me, but as a rule there was no difficulty in adjusting such matters.

In one case I had been doing business a long time with a congressman who died while in office owing me a considerable amount. Of course, I did not want to present a bill to his widow, so I just charged it up to "flowers" and forgot about it.

Tomorrow: "The Man in the Green Hat" will conclude his story regarding prohibition based on his ten years of personal experience with the senators and representatives who make the laws.

COLLECTIONS DROP ON INCOME TAXES

(Associated Press.)

Less income by individuals was indicated yesterday by the Internal Revenue Bureau as the major cause of a decrease of $148,286,721 in income tax collected by the Treasury during the first nine months of the 1930 calendar year as compared with the same period of the previous year.

Total collections for the nine months of 1930 were $1,779,382,127, as compared with $1,927,668,848 the year before. Individual taxes dropped from $971,326,259 in the first nine months of 1929 to $838,355,855 this year, while corporation taxes decreased $15,314,318 from $956,340,589 in 1929 to $941,026,271 in 1930.

Out of the 72 collection districts of the country only 12 showed an increase in total income tax collected, while 60 showed decreases. Sixty-seven of the 72 districts showed the effect of the decreased individual income, while 46 of the districts showed decreases in the corporation collections.

Districts Report Gains.

The twelve districts which had increases in the total collections were: Arizona, from $2,155,869 in 1929 to $2,330,264 in 1930; Colorado, from $8,891,640 in 1929 to $10,461,939; Connecticut, from $34,478,443 to $35,844,638; Delaware from $24,424,664 to $34,724,772; Kansas, from $12,974,091 to $13,702,681; Nevada, from $1,039,009 to $1,061,054; Fifth New Jersey District, from $59,614,389 to $60,511,340; Eighteenth Ohio, from $50,195,640 to $53,827,824; Oklahoma, from $13,536,543 to $13,541,138; Twenty-third Pennsylvania, from $57,870,471 to $59,698,832; South Dakota, from $652,606 to $719,023, and Washington, including Alaska, from $10,820,810 to $11,004,431.

The five districts which showed increases in individual income tax collections were: Connecticut, from $18,951,984 to $19,240,637; Delaware, from $8,247,083 to $11,688,858; the Eleventh Ohio District, from $2,686,740 to $2,861,719; South Dakota, from $282,628 to $356,201, and Washington, including Alaska, from $4,236,250 to $5,066,360.

New York Largest Payer.

New York State paid the largest income tax, with a total of $605,012,119, a decrease of $48,800,000 as compared with the nine months of the previous year.

The State paid $276,063,626 in corporation tax and $328,928,493 in individual tax, a decrease of approximately $4,280,000 in the former and of $44,500,000 in the individual bracket.

CURB IN COLLECTION OF MAIL PROTESTED

GEN CROSBY IS SPEAKER

An emphatic protest against the recent Nation-wide curtailment of mail collections and delivers was registered by the North Capitol Citizens Association, meeting at the McKinley High School last night, and will be presented to the Postoffice Department in the form of a petition for improved service.

Lettres written during the evening, it was pointed out, are not collected until the following morning, because the last mail collection now is made around 8 o'clock whereas previously mails were collected until after 10 o'clock. This has resulted in the loss of a full day in local deliveries and frequently even more in delivery of mail to other points, it was charged.

The association also criticized the action of the Postoffice Department in reducing the number of daily dedelivery. It was charged that the first delivery, which formerly was made around 9 o'clock and sometimes earlier, now generally does not take place until after noon.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, president of the Board of District Commissioners, addressed the meeting informally, explaining the workings of various departments of the District government under his supervision.

William Sheehan was named as chairman of the nominating committee which will select candidates for various offices of the association to be elected next month.

LETTERS SENT WIFE OF MISSING BANKER

BANK CASHIER ON TRIP

Galva, Ill., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The mystery surrounding the sudden disappearance Saturday of Earl Yocum, Galva bank president, was intensified today by receipts of a second special delivery letter mailed to Mrs. Yocum from nearby Kewanee, Ill.

County authorities, believing the bank president might have been the victim of an extortion ring in Chicago, had conducted an extensive search for Yocum, but suddenly dropped the case after the missing banker's wife declined to take them into her confidence.

Any future moves, they said, were "up to Mrs. Yocum."

Yocum, president of banks at Galva, Ill., and Aurelia, Iowa, was believed kidnaped by two men who accosted him in front of his home Saturday night, and the receipt of two special delivery letters by his wife strengthened the theory that he was being held for ransom.

Other than revealing that one of the letters was in her husband's handwriting and that he was "all right," Mrs. Yocum refused to discuss the case, even with county authorities.

The fact that the first letter, received late Sunday night, was mailed in Chicago led to the supposition that Yocum, the richest man in Galva, was being held in that city by a band of extortionists. The second letter, however, which arrived today, was postmarked Kewanee, Ill., near Galva, throwing the whole case into confusion again.

The absence during part of today of Andrew Anderson, cashier of the Galva Bank, added further mystery to the case. He refused to comment on the report that he had gone to arrange the payment of ransom for the bank president's release and he would not say where he had been. The train on which he returned came from Chicago and passed through Kewanee.

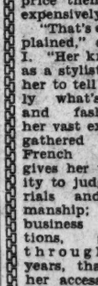
—in coats as well as frocks. You will find in the collection of coats at Schwartz, 1325 Connecticut avenue, the most unusual sleeve treatment. Homespuns, tweeds, basket weaves in vivid colors as well as the more conservative mixtures have fur collars and half-sleeves of fur, or applied bands of fur, lavishly fashioned. Prices are from $65 to $79.50, and sizes are as small as age 12.



Frocks for day and evening are priced from $16.50 to $39.50. A charming black chiffon velvet gown with deep cafe lace has little cap sleeves of lace and an Eton jacket of velvet. I do not know the price of it.

"How Is It," A Lady Asked,

—"that Mme. Florenz can show such smart gowns made so well, of such beautiful materials, and yet price them so inexpensively."

"That's easily explained," answered I. "Her knowledge as a stylist enables her to tell instantly what's smart and fashionable; her vast experience gathered while a French modiste gives her the ability to judge materials and workmanship; she has business connections, gained through many years, that allows her access to the finest manufacturers in the New York market."

It is these factors that are causing Mme. Florenz's Gown Salon to be patronized by smartly dressed women from over the entire city. Women learn quickly—and this Gown Salon is rapidly becoming the talk of Washington.

Do pay her a visit. You surely will be given the most courteous reception, whether you buy or not. The address is second floor, 1145 Conn. Ave.

HEARINGS STARTED ON CAPITAL VOTERS

G. O. P. Appeal From Recent Registration Aired in Annapolis Court.

FOUGHT BY DEMOCRATS

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 27.—In the Anne Arundel County Circuit Court here today hearings were begun on appeals from the recent registration of voters in which question is raised as to whether some 325 persons, most of whom are alleged to be residents of Washington, or the District of Columbia area, will be permitted to vote in the coming November election.

A full bench, consisting of Chief Judge F. Neal Parke, of Carroll County; William H. Forsythe, of Howard County, and Robert Moss, of the local court, is sitting on the case.

The action was precipitated by State and county Republican leaders, who claim that the large majority of the cases in point were enrolled on the books as affiliated Democrats. The Seventh and Eighth Districts are the sections in which it is alleged that illegal registration took place, the claim being that practically all of the parties named as defendants in the proceedings are actually residents of the District, though maintaining summer homes along shore properties in the county.

Keadle Not in Court.

The particular case called today was that against Ralph D. Keadle, 34, who gave his address as North Beach Park, but whose Washington address, it was revealed, is 5235 Georgia avenue, and who operates an automobile accessory shop in Florida avenue.

There were more than 300 persons in the courtroom when court was convened. Just how many of these were parties to the proceedings could not be ascertained, for it developed that Sheriff Michael F. Carter, by direction of the court, left summons at the county addresses given by the registrants. Keadle was not in court.

Appearing in behalf of the Democratic registration officials as counsel were former Attorney General Isaac Lob Strauss, of Baltimore; George B. Woelfel and Charles W. Mulligan, of Annapolis. Wendell C. Allen, of Baltimore, is chief counsel for Republicans. Associated with him is Ernest F. Fadum, from Republican State headquarters, and Noah Hillman, of the county.

Demurrer Is Overruled.

The Democrats lost the first legal skirmish when a demurrer interposed by Mr. Strauss was overruled by Chief Judge Parke. Mr. Strauss claimed, among other things, that the manner in which the petitions were filed was both "indiscreet" and slovenly, and lacking in specific time and place elements, but the court indicated to the attorney that the facts would have to be delved into.

Judge Parke stated that the law is specific, that no person can vote in Maryland if not duly qualified, and that the contentions raised on the present cases must be investigated.

Prior to this colloquy Mr. Strauss argued at length that the pending cases have no standing in court, and insisted that Washingtonians have no right to franchise in the District, certainly are entitled to vote where they own property, whether it be Anne Arundel, Montgomery or Prince Georges Counties. But on this point that the main contention of the Republican contestants is based the claim that the law requires one year residence in order to vote, whereas nearly all of the disputed parties simply own summer homes and spend only a small portion of the year within the county's precincts.

Two Killed, One Shot In Dispute Over Girl

Prestonburg, Ky., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Two youths are dead and another is seriously wounded today in the wake of a shooting affray in Floyd County last night which the survivor ascribed to a dispute over a girl.

Floyd Steppe, 21, told authorities Willie Clay came to the neighbor's home and threatened to "shoot up the place." He said Clay drew a pistol and shot him and that he returned the fire, wounding Clay. Soon afterward Ingram Steppe, father of Floyd, and John Clay, a brother of Willie, entered the room. The wounded youth declared the Clay brothers tried to draw revolvers again and that Ingram Steppe shot them to death.

West Virginia Nominee Removed to Hospital

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—James Elwood Jones, Republican nominee for United States Senator from West Virginia, today was in the Mountain State Hospital here suffering from a kidney ailment.

His speaking engagements for today and tomorrow were cancelled.

With NELSON B. BELL

APART from any consideration of their ability—or lack of it—as screen actors, their fidelity—or lack of it—to the characters and atmosphere of their broadcasts, or any other circumstance whatsoever, Amos 'n' Andy in "Check and Double Check," packing them in at the RKO-Keith Theater, are making good even the most extravagant forecasts of the business they would attract to the box office. The Messrs. Gosden and Correll, said to have been paid a sum comparable to that with which Fox recompensed John McCormack for his work in "Song o' My Heart," may now sit back and contemplate with whatever degree of smug complacence they may care to muster many times the amount of their stipend flowing back into the coffers of Radio-Keith-Orpheum.

Washington in this regard is typical of the country. And Washington is going for "Check and Double Check" like a ton of bricks. Not counting the Friday midnight, reserved seat, preview performance, Amos 'n' Andy have attracted patronage to the Fifteenth street house the first three days of the regular run that is exceeding every previous house record by from $500 to $600 per day. On a seven-day week this will be cracking the high "take" of the house by a sum that can not be laughed off. Even Freeman Gosden couldn't laugh it off, and he is laughing all the time in the picture, especially when he is supposed to be crying.

To be sure, the crafty Mr. Sheild, manager of RKO-Keith's, has made it a little easier for the boys than it would otherwise have been by providing a daily schedule that manages to squeeze in one complete extra performance per day. That, incidentally, is where that extra money is coming from—seven shows a day against "Bio Rita's" six—which is not so much the point as that the public is not only willing but anxious to jam the theater to the rafters from opening, at 9 a. m., until closing.

A "natural," I believe the talent calls it.

A phenomenon of the theater that has obtained since a time when the memory of man runneth not to the contrary is being exemplified once more at the Palace Theater this week in the "Birthday Party Revue," presided over by Dave Schooler.

The three Small brothers, after a unison precision number, go into a cycle of spotlighted solo dances during which the easiest steps are invariably those that receive the heartiest audience applause. This is something which in a lifetime of theatergoing I have never known to fail.

I have no way of knowing at the moment what his first name may be, but there is one of the brothers who executes some amazingly intricate, and correspondingly difficult, broken rhythm steps that betray long practice and perfect coordination. Not one dancer out of ten can do them. And they are greeted by what must seem to the performer roars of absolute silence—or were the day I was there.

Speaking of the "Birthday Party Revue" reminds me that among the ladies of the ensemble in this miniature production is one Beatrice Sousa, a niece of Washington's revered bandmaster, John Philip Sousa, who is bringing his famous organization to the Capital on November 20.

Miss Sousa has not as yet composed any "Washington Post March," but nevertheless is possessed of talents which it is confidently believed by her sponsors will carry her far on the stage.

On his "Movie Hour" over Radio Station WJSV Thursday afternoon at 3:30, Charles Musser will present Adolf Fassnacht, the Christus of the Freiburg Passion Play, at the Auditorium, as guest soloist, although the Freiburg Passion Play is anything but a motion picture and I don't know why I mention it here.

Herr Fassnacht will be accompanied by Mrs. R. B. Van Courtright, wife of the musical conductor of the production.

If you can put up with an afterthought on the volume of Amos 'n' Andy attendance, it may be of interest to know that the crowds were so great on Sunday that it was necessary to suspend the sale of tickets seven times during the afternoon and evening at Keith's.

And another thing. Twenty-five per cent more light is required on movie sets in which blackface characters or actual negroes appear and a dark or subdued background is necessary to photograph them effectively.

The features of blackface characters become indistinct unless additional lighting is used, and if there are light backgrounds figures in burnt cork makeup appear to be wearing haloes

Well, if it isn't Miss Fiditch, our old teacher!

It is a pleasure to make known the appointment of Mrs. Harriet Hawley Locher, long identified with the motion picture in Washington and other eastern cities as founder and director of the Public Service and Educational Department of the Stanley-Crandall Company's theaters, now controlled by the Warner Brothers, to the staff of the local Fox Theater, under the managing directorship of Hardie Meakin. Mrs. Locher's first assignment will be to special publicity and exploitation work on "The Big Trail."

Mrs. Locher is particularly qualified for this undertaking. It will be recalled that it was she who personally introduced the late Ezra Meeker, one of the most famous of the original Oregon Trail blazers, to the school children of Washington upon the occasion of his visit to this city shortly before his death at the age of 94. The history and tradition of the Oregon Trail, upon which the Raoul Walsh production of "The Big Trail" is based, are familiar to Mrs. Locher from long residence in the Puget Sound country.

It was upon Mrs. Locher's pioneering work with the Stanley-Crandall Co., that the Will H. Hays organization founded much of its national program of community service and social contact. She is now in charge of the special programs for children, fostered by the Motion Picture Committee of the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection

The Fox Theater has made a sagacious selection.

Well, if it isn't one thing it's something else. Just when you get through sprinkling, lookit all those leaves!

Duce May Seek Loan in America

Rumors Follow Visit by Bankers as Fascism's Ninth Year Opens.

Rome, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Rumors were current here tonight that Premier Mussolini may usher in the ninth year of the Fascist regime, which begins tomorrow, by contracting for a large loan with a big American banking combine.

These were strengthened by the visit of several Chase National Bank of New York officials, who were received by the premier today. A spokesman, however, said they merely had talked about general economic conditions.

The bankers were Winthrop W. Aldrich, president; Charles S. McKane, chairman of the board; Lynde Selden, vice president and James H. Gannon.

An official communique said the premier had received the group and "expressed the friendliness he felt toward them and their bank."

Trade Corporation Reports Earnings

Prince & Whitely Concerns Profits Are Shown to Be $4,351,381.

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Prince & Whitely Trading Corporation today reported earnings for the period from September 17, 1929, to October 8, 1930, of $4,351,381, including $1,758,312 capital gain arising from retirement of 40,000 shares of preferred stock and the purchase of 166,600 additional shares for retirement. A new board of directors was elected for the trading corporation recently after suspension of the exchange firm of Prince & Whitely for insolvency.

The net earnings were equivalent, after deducting preferred dividends paid and accrued, to $4.09 a share on 856,000 shares of common stock. The net income was before allowance of $1,403,392 depreciation in the market value of investments written down, which was charged against surplus.

The principal assets amount to $11,926,063, or the equivalent of $67 for each preferred share, and after deducting par value of $50 a preferred share, to $3.51 a common share.

JAMES A. FARLEY

President, General Builders Supply Corp.
Chairman, New York State Athletic Commission
Chairman, New York State Democratic Committee

"I am certain that without the use of modern, scientific methods the skyscrapers for which our country is so justly proud, would never have been possible. I am equally convinced that your modern use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of your LUCKY STRIKE Tobaccos ranks with the many other great contributions to the health and comfort of millions and that it is responsible for the skyscraping sales of your famous brand."

James A. Farley

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray. LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating!

CENTRAL-TECH GAME TODAY SERIES TURNING POINT

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Oct., 27.—The one football player in the East who is commanding more attention than any other this year is a New Haven town boy, Albie Booth. His is a curious kind of fame, being strongly tinged with controversy, some people regarding him as a football player for the ages and others insisting that he is much overrated. He had one great afternoon last year when Dr. Mal Stevens, the young head coach of the Yale team, sent him in against a rather complacent and ponderous Army team which had been rolling up and down the football field, pushing the Yales hither and thither.

As Red Cagle, then the captain of the Army team, said afterward, the Army athletes were very well pleased with themselves up to the time that Albie went out to scoot through them and were unable to hold steady when they discovered him fading out of their grasp like so much smoke. Unquestionably, Albie was the heart of the Yale team that afternoon, for when he went out the Army regained their composure, but when he went back in later the panic set in again, and Albie Booth beat them, assisted, of course, by some tolerable interference, although the same sort of interference was running for the other backs who tried to carry the ball for Yale.

1929 Defeat of Army Was Personal Triumph.

This was Albie's first appearance in a big game, he being a sophomore then, and the Yale team revived and subsided so abruptly on his appearance and disappearance that the victory over Red Cagle's team was a personal triumph comparable to Red Grange's large afternoon against Michigan. He has never been able to do anything like that since then. In the Dartmouth game he was plainly noticeable, of course, but Al Marsters, another star, matched him, and, in the last stage of the game, was driving through Yale bound for a touchdown when in one insensate drive at the line he parted something in his spine and had to retire.

In the Harvard game Albie was hampered by some hurt in one of his legs, but it seemed doubtful that he would have made merry in this game with the same impunity and abandon that he had enjoyed against the Army because four members of the Harvard sophomore back field had played against him as freshman the year before and had just the correct degree of respect for him.

The factor of surprise undoubtedly ran before him as added interference in the Army game, but Harvard was ready for him and Yale lost the football game.

Never Got Out of Hand in Georgia Game.

This year he made a few brief escapes in the Yale-Georgia game, but never really got out of hand, and he enjoyed another romp against Brown, a team that had beaten Princeton. I don't believe the Brown team could be rated among the first-class powers of football, but neither is it one of those little Balkan clubs like Upsala, Alfred and St. Spavins Veterinary Institute, which reference, I confidently expect, will stimulate the alumni of those three institutions to some new efforts in vituperation by return mail. It was not a first-class individual triumph.

Up to now, I have never heard of Albie Booth's having taken any conversational part in the argument as to whether he is a great football player or just a good enough football player to star at Yale, which was the young man's ambition as far back as the time when he was raising his juvenile treble in the back streets of New Haven, extolling a line of spinach, bananas, lima beans and all such vegetation as understudy to a wagon huckster.

Last year such was the volume of his individual publicity that the rest of the Yale Team, by inference, were made to seem no better than a patient aggregation of strong backs and weak minds, and, although I never received any such admonition myself, it said in the papers that Yale was endeavoring to deemphasize Albie Booth for his sake, the team's sake and Yale's.

Albie Content to Play, Not Talk, Football.

This year I see by the papers that the deemphasization process is being resumed, but again I must note that I have never seen the young man, himself, quoted in the papers as to his own ability or anything else and that he has always seemed content to play his football when called upon and let the results speak for themselves.

Yale, in common with the other first-class football powers, employs a press agent to collect and make available information about the football team, but this gentleman, Mr. Barnett, tells me that the deemphasization policy applies to all individuals on the team, so that nobody will be expected to perform a single-handed massacre every time he takes the field.

Little Drills Columbia in Fundamentals for Cornell Game.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 27 (A. P.).—Albie Booth, supposedly quite damaged in the 7-to-7 tie with Army, bobbed up in his usual place today, running the Yale Varsity through signal drill. He seemed in good condition, but the team physician announced it doubtful that he would line up against Dartmouth next Saturday.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Dartmouth discovered today it had lost one of the good reasons why it expected to beat Yale next Saturday. Stanley Dicky, crack end, turned up with a torn leg ligament, suffered in the Harvard victory, and will be out of action this week. Other vruised regulars studied Yale formations from the sidelines.

Army Reserves Primed For North Dakota.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Army reserves had the practice fields entirely to themselves today as the regulars who tied Yale took a day of rest. The scrubs went through light exercises and signal drill. Some of the bruised regulars may not face North Dakota here Saturday.

Penn Resumes Work For Kansas Game.

Philadelphia, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Pennsylvania's footballers, after a week of demotions, promotions and experiments, in which Coach Wray tried to hit upon a winning combination, today began preparing for the Kansas Jayhawkers, Saturday's attraction at Franklin Field.

Penn came out of Saturday's game without injury. Munger, a back, who was taken to a hospital after the game for a head injury, has been discharged.

Meehan Sees to Erase N. Y. U. Fumbling.

Brown Squad Plays Touch Football.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The Brown squad celebrated the Holy Cross victory with a game of touch football today in the first stage of the preparation for the tussle with Syracuse.

Navy Team Given Day of Rest.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Apparently having found the spark missing so far this season in the crushing of Princeton, 31 to 0, Navy gridders were given a holiday today and were content to limber muscles in the first day of preparation for West Virginia Wesleyan next Saturday.

Horween Moves Tackle To End Post.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Coach Arnold Horween went out looking for ends today and shifted Bob Faxon, subtackle, to the wing squad for the rest of the season, ruined by Dartmouth's victory Saturday. Horween gave his regulars a rest, but sent the second team and freshman through a long scrimmage. Richards, a regular tackle, was so bruised in the game with the Green he will be unable to play next Saturday.

Dobie Points Cornell For Columbia Fray.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Coach Gil Dobie buckled his red Cornell squad down to a lengthy signal drill in the first of a four-day drive for the Columbia game. Scrimmages are on the program for the next three days with the final workout in New York Friday.

Lou Little Emphasizes Fundamentals.

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Cornell, tough and powerful, loomed on Columbia's horizon today with nothing better for inspiration toward a victory next Saturday than a meager 3-0 victory over Williams last week. So Lou Little's varsity went back to the beginning today, drilling two hours on fundamentals.

Rockne Scores Enemies of His Shift Play; Adds Speed, Color to Game, He Declares

Does Not Need Shift to Win But Prefers to Use It.

By EDWARD J. NEIL,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Knute Rockne can win football games without his famous shift just as he has done so often in the past, but if the rule-makers ever should outlaw this movement entirely he will quit guaranteeing to fill stadiums from one end of the country to the other.

Riding the high tide with another superlative Notre Dame team, perhaps the greatest he or any other coach ever has developed, the Norwegian master of the ready wit is in a happy mood these days. He feels rather deeply about regulations that have brought the shift to a full stop with at least a second's halt but the last laugh is not on him.

"Notre Dame can get along without the shift," he declared in a roundtable discussion before the game at Pittsburgh. "We can stop ten minutes on every play if necessary—as a referee warned us we'd have to do once—but there won't be much color in that kind of a game. We can win without the shift but we won't draw the crowds. The color will be gone.

Could Run Plays From Punt Formation.

"Sure I could eliminate the shift. I could pass and play from a punt formation for one thing or I could use great big fellows and bruise a way through. But I don't choose to do either.

"There's nothing unsportsmanlike about the shift. It merely gives little men of ability and speed the chance to handle big men. It adds speed and grace to football. It brings out pass development.

"That's why when light, shifty teams began to beat the big fellows, coaches realized that a couple of 50-yard passes were better than 100 yards of driving. Sometime the rules committee may realize this, too, and take the restrictions off running attacks."

Rockne likes football material with brains, heart and speed. If you can have size and power along with these, he says, then you have potential all-Americans. But there is no room in Knute's system for the slow-witted, powerful fellows, who depend on might alone. Rockne nods a smiling assent to "Chick" Meehan's declaration that Notre Dame wants acrobats, not football players, for her football teams.

Rockne Likes Own System Best.

As for systems, Rockne likes his own best or he wouldn't be using it. The only difference between his own style of play and "Pop" Warner's, the other most-copied coach in the game, is his use of speed and deception where the Stanford veteran likes power and deception. The full backs, he thinks, typify the difference in the two styles of play.

"Did you ever see a Warner team without a great plunging full back?" he asks to prove his point. "Mine can be small, but they must be agile. Of course, my boy Savoldi can go places."

Knute gets a bit peeved sometimes because the opposition to his shift is always "under cover." He can't seem to drag his opponents out in the open for a knockdown, drag-out argument on the subject.

"The coaches who decry the shift are just cry-babies," he insists. "They can't meet present conditions of the game themselves. They're like a lot of business men down in Wall street these days. They don't know the war is over."

Richmond High Players Strike; Season Ended

Richmond, Va., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—James C. Harwood, principal of John Marshall High School here, closed the school's football season today after a committee representing the football squad informed him the players would not play any more, unless five members of the team declared ineligible were replaced on the squad.

The principal disqualified the players on the ground that they are more than 20 years of age, the age limit provided in rules of the Virginia Literary and Athletic League.

Freeman, Welter King, Resting After Illness

Cleveland, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Tommy Freeman, world welterweight champion boxer, has canceled all his engagements and has gone to Hot Springs, Ark., to recover from the effects of the influenza, Tommy McGinty, of Cleveland, his manager, announced today.

Freeman is expected to remain in Hot Springs two months, McGinty said. The boxer left on the advice of his physician.

Shifting of Game Site Refused by Big Ten

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 27 (A.P.). Dr. W. J. Moenkhaus, of Indiana University, chairman of the Western Conference committee on athletics, announced today the Big Ten has refused the request of Northwestern University to transfer its football game with Notre Dame November 22 from Dyche Stadium, at Evanston, to Soldiers Field, Chicago.

The proposal had been advanced and agreed upon by the two schools, because of the increased seating capacity of the Soldiers Field with the plan to make the game a charity benefit.

Dr. Moenkhaus issued the following statement:

"I am not in position to express the considerations that led to the negative votes, but I am sure that there was no lack of appreciation of the merit of the cause to which the extra proceeds were to go. The faculty representatives were, no doubt, influenced not so much by the factors in the present problem as by the effect the granting of this request might have upon the consideration of other proposals involving the waiving possibly of other conference rules."

MD. U. EAGER TO DEFEAT VIRGINIA

Byrd Polishes Ground Plays for Game at Charlottesville.

MARYLAND yesterday began its preparation for the Virginia game scheduled for Saturday in Charlottesville, but indulged only in a light signal drill, sufficient to keep muscles loosened.

Only one scrimmage has been ordered for the Old Liners, this to be held tomorrow. The greater part of the time remaining for practice will be given to work designed to improve execution of running plays.

Virginia did not use its first team against Kentucky last Saturday, when it absorbed at 47-0 defeat, so it will be able to send its best array against Maryland in fine condition. This game is viewed with a lot of eagerness on the part of both teams. Each has a healthy respect for the other and treasures victory.

Special Train for Students, Alumni.

So much interest has been manifested by Maryland students alumni and friends of the university that a special train has been engaged to transport them to and from Charlottesville. The train will leave Baltimore at 9 a. m. Saturday, stop at College Park at 9:30 and at Union Station at 10. It is scheduled to arrive in Charlottesville at 1 o'clock, an hour and a half before the game.

Admirers Hail Carnera On Arrival at Naples

Naples, Oct., 27 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, Italy's big heavyweight, arrived this morning from the United States and was given a tumultuous welcome.

When the Conte Grande docked the giant Friulian was surrounded by a hundred admirers, interviewers and photographers.

Carnera said he would fight twice in Italy, appearing at Milan December 4 against the French heavyweight, Beguillon, then in Rome against an opponent not yet selected.

The human mountain predicted he would win the heavyweight championship in 1931.

Coach Pixlee Returns; Shuffles G. W. Line-up

Jim Pixlee, head coach of George Washington's eleven, returned yesterday from Tulsa, Okla., where he had scouted the Tulsa University team, with the conviction that the Colonials' sternest test will be encountered when they tackle the Golden Hurricane Friday night in the Oklahoma city.

Pixlee was particularly impressed, he said, with the playing of the Tulsa backs, Chet Benefiel, quarter back and captain, and Richard "Hap" Beattie, blocking half back. The G. W. mentor stated as his opinion that they suffer little by comparison with Red Grange and Earl Britton, respectively, of the Illinois eleven of 1925.

Pixlee revealed plans for shuffling the Colonial backfield. Johnny Fenlon, hitherto a substitute, may replace Otts Kriemelmeyer at fullback, while Billy Wells, star of last Saturday's gave with Dickinson, is practically assured the assignment at quarter back with Joe Carter moving from that position to half back.

Bruen Resigns Post As Garden Manager

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Frank J. Bruen voluntarily resigned today as manager and vice president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation. It was announced at the Garden. Bruen had filled the post formerly held by the late Tex Rickard since June.

William F. Carey, president, said no effort has been made as yet to find a successor, but it is understood Carey himself will serve as manager of the Garden until one is chosen.

Bruen explained his reason for resigning was the difficulty of handling the job together with his duties as general manager of the Miami Race Track. He said he had not had any time to himself in over a year.

Devitt Student Body Will Honor Schriver

The entire football squad of Devitt Prep, together with a portion of the student body will call on Capt. Bits Schriver today at Garfield Hospital where the injured quarter back was brought yesterday from Frederick City Hospital with a broken leg, the result of an automobile accident while on the way to Emmitsburg, Md., last Saturday to play against Mount St. Mary's frosh.

Today is Schriver's twentith birthday and the players will bear gifts befitting the occasion.

Movies Show Army Goal Illegal

Kilday, Stopped by Eli Line, Pushed Over by Mate.

Yale Will Make No Protest; Injury to Booth Filmed.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Motion pictures of the 7-7 tie Army and Yale football teams played here Saturday convinced Yale officials today that the touchdown scored for the Cadets by Tom Killay was not made strictly in accordance with the rules of the game. The officials, however, said they would accept the official decision ruling it a touchdown.

The pictures, which were viewed by Head Coach Mal Stevens, Coach Adam Walsh, Tad Jones, Dean Clarence Mendell and Harold F. Woodcock, general manager of the Yale Athletic Association, also showed the details of the one and only play in which Albie Booth, star Eli quarter back, participated during the game before he was carried off the field on a stretcher and later to the University Infirmary.

Scores After Stopping, Pictures Show.

What aid a player may and may not receive while running with the ball was disclosed by the pictures. With fourth down and 1 yard to go for a touchdown, Kilday was given the ball and hurled himself against the Blue line. The pictures show that he was thrown back before he reached the double stripe, but as he fell back Stecker charged in, hit him squarely in the back and lifted him over the goal line for the touchdown which put the Army on even terms with the Elis.

The rule in question provides that "no player of the team in possession of the ball may help the runner except by interfering for him, and there shall be no interlocked interference." A supplementary note reads that "pushing the runner or lifting runner from the ground by teammate is infraction of the rule." Infraction of the rule carries as a penalty loss of 15 yards.

The Yale Athletic Association issued the following statement concerning the touchdown:

"There will be no protest over the alleged illegal touchdown made by Army. The officials decision is accepted."

Booth Injured After Referee Signaled End of Play.

The march which resulted in Kilday's touchdown came after Booth had been arried off the field with injuries to his head, mouth and back. Pictures of the play which ended Booth's activities for the day showed that the Blue back had been stopped after he had intercepted a long Army pass and that the referee had signaled the play at an end. Army players, picking up speed suddenly, then leaped into the mass on the ground in which Booth was entangled.

Booth, officials said, was knocked unconscious in the play, but not seriously injured. He was discharged today from the infirmary where he rested over the week-end and was expected to be ready for next Saturday's contest with Dartmouth.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Officials here refused tonight to discuss the motion pictures shown today at New Haven that indicated Army had scored an illegal touchdown to tie Yale in Saturday's pigskin conflict. Coaches and officials alike refused to be quoted.

Gallaudet Prepping For Carlisle Soldiers

An improved brand of tackling is the aim of the Gallaudet gridmen in practice this week as they prepare for their game Saturday with the Army Medical Field Service Eleven at Carlisle, Pa. Slip-shod tackling prevented the Blues from shutting out Baltimore U. last Friday night in a game that ended 18-6.

Gallaudet will be shooting for its fourth victory of the season at Carlisle, having defeated Fort Meade Tanks, American and Baltimore. If successful, the Florida avenue aggregation will have equaled its 1929 record of victories. Only a loss to Delaware mars the Blues' 1930 slate.

Quick Thinking Saves Giant Owner's Auto

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Joseph H McNally, part owner of the New York Giants, was a convert today to the belief that necessity not only is the mother of invention but the father of inspiration.

Crossing the Long Island Railroad tracks on the outskirts of Bluepoint, N. Y., last night, McNally's automobile skidded and straddled the rails. While vainly trying to dislodge it, he heard the whistle of a New York-bound train.

Hurriedly gathering a pile of leaves, he lit a fire which brought the train to a halt 250 feet from the car.

TODAY'S GAME.

Tech vs. Central, at Central Stadium, 3:45.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

TWO husky high school football teams, trained down to an exacting degree of perfection, are on their toes today waiting the kick-off of the annual paragon of all scholastic athletic activities—the Tech vs. Central game. The opening whistle sounds precisely at 3:45 this afternoon in Central Stadium before what is expected to be a record turnout for the series.

Very probably the experts can tell a lot more about which team is today's favorite sometime tomorrow. Certain it is that the squads are as closely matched as in any of the years since 1902, when the first Tech-Central game was played. Since then each team has scored eleven victories and the other games have resulted in deadlocked scores. With each team having won its only start in the series thus far, today's game promises to be the turning point in their title campaigns.

Coach Hardell's men have not played a game since the Business workout two weeks ago today. They have not practiced since Friday, when Tech's gabby mentor put his boys through a tough drill. Saturday and Sunday they rested. Yesterday Hardell, and his assistants, Spencer and Wondrack, held a long blackboard drill, further cramming Tech's complex attack into the minds of the youths. One thing seems certain—that Tech's soldiers are fresh.

Hardell Prophesies Defeat as Usual.

With the pessimism which those who have watched Tech's past performances have long since discounted, Hardell prophesies a defeat for his team with the accompanying loss of the title of District champions under which they labor. Using as his major premise the fact that Central's backfield has seen more service than Tech's, Hardell appeared confident of only one thing—that he would capture the place position in today's race.

Of course most of this is made of the same material as the holes in Switzerland's chief export. Tech has a fast, well-coached team and everybody knows it. If they lose today it will be regarded as an upset by a great horde of people, but an equal number of citizens will cry "upset" if Central happens to be the loser.

Hardell expressed indifference when asked whether Joe Yznaga, a young giant who showed sterling promise last year but of whom little has been seen during 1930, would see service. There is a likely possibility that Hardell has been saving the big Czech for today's fireworks.

Cumberland's Return Bolsters Central.

While most of the experts consider Central as something of the underdog, it seems that the fact that the Hill Dwellers have shown marked improvement of late has not been taken into just consideration. Hardell's gloomy broadcasts are not without elements of truthfulness when one considers Central's backfield. Rauber's ball carriers are of course not as good as Hardell says, but they are a hard working quartet.

Rauber is fortunate in the return of Whitey Cumberland to the line-up. Cumberland's badly wrenched ankle has healed with dramatic nicety of timeliness and he will be in the battle today for at least a half. His forward passing arm is badly needed. DeLisio, the next-to-best heaver for Central, is some number of semesters below Cumberland in passing excellence. Cumberland's ankle will not allow him to kick, so if you consider superior punting a wholesome advantage—then Tech should be your favorite. Nelson, first string, and Hatos, booting second, are two boys who do kick well.

MR. SPONGE SCORES EASILY IN FEATURE AT LAUREL

Garner Rates Favorite Off Pace, Wins

Glastonbury Scores Over Bar Hunter in Juvenile Feature.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Oct. 27.—J. E. Widener's Mr. Sponge won the day's feature, the Tuscarora Purse, a mile and a sixteenth, by a length and a half from Hot Toddy, Mrs. K. E. Hitt's entry. S. W. Labrot's filly, Dinah Did Upset, was third. The time was 1:45 1-5. Petee Wrack showed early speed, unusual for him, and contested every inch of ground with the pacemaker, Dinah Did Upset, to the far turn, when Mr. Sponge, held off the pace by Garner, got his head and went to the front. Boot to Boot finished fourth and Petee Wrack wound up last.

Mr. Sponge was favorite and paid $3.90. The start was good. Petee Wrack and Mirbat breaking in front, but Dinah Did Upset soon was leading the field around the first turn.

Highland Belle Scores In Opener.

A large Monday crowd was out for the beginning of the last week of the meeting here. Favorites or well backed horses were coming down in front.

The Audley Farm's Highland Belle won the first race, for 2-year-old maiden fillies, after disposing of Phantasime in a duel that began at the far turn and endured to the sixteenth post. At that point, R. A. Fairbairn's Greens swept by Phantasime to get the place by, a length and a half back of the winner. Phantasime, poorly ridden, was third. The winner paid $7. Most of the money went on the winner and Phantasime. Twelve fillies started.

F. Ambrose Clark's Speckled Beauty II, ran an impressive race to win the steeplechase by five lengths from H. R. Dulaney's King's Own. Six lengths farther back, J. E. Widener's Aged Lorenzo, again favorite, managed to get third. Worrall, who had the mount on the winner, rode a well-judged race, keeping within striking distance of Flower Rock for a mile and a half, then taking the lead to win easily and he paid $12.90 for $2. Mistenflute, the E. R. Bradley entry, lost his rider, P. Thordike, when he stumbled in the back field. The jockey was taken to the hospital on the grounds in the track ambulance.

French Lass Repeats In Third.

H. C. Hatch's French Lass, repeating her last winning race, won the third event by half a length from Lamp Black, which had led all the way round to the sixteenth. Wells, on French Lass came wide at the stretch, but made up lost ground to score by half length over the improved Lamp Black. W. F. Scheid's My Sis was third and Oesel fourth. Nine started.

Five of the six 2-year-olds starting in the St. Inigoes Purse, fourth race, are probable starters in the Spalding Lowe Jenkins $10,000 Handicap Saturday. The exception was J. E. Davis' Gigantic. Robert A. Fairbairns' Sir Galahad III colt Glastonbury, got up in the last strides to win, and E. R. Bradley's Bearhunter, closing fast, took the place. The Sagamore Stable's Rip Van Winkle was third. Back Gammon, coupled with Rip Van Winkle as the Sagamore entry, was fourth. This entry ran as a team, setting the pace to the stretch. Ambrose again made a farce of Gigantic's effort, attempting to get the rail at the stretch turn and getting pinched off. The winner paid $8.80.

Berber Surprises by Taking Sixth.

Berber, under the colors of Mrs. James Arthur, surprised by beating the Brookmeade Stable's Raccoon in the sixth race and was ridden by C. Phillips. Raccoon, leading the way to the stretch after disposing of Mabelle, succumbed to the rush of Berber, but held the place safe from A. Carlson's Outpost. Raccoon was the heavily backed favorite. Berber, running the mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 4-5, won by a half-length. The winner paid $13.80. Eight started. W. J. Salmon's Pious, second choice, finished fourth.

Cabellsdale, the third choice in the mutuels, scored a length victory in the final race of the program today, beating out The Whip, which won the place from Daddy Nelson by a head. Twelve platers, the track limit, started the mile and a quarter journey.

Torrito was the one to make the pace for the first quarter, closely followed by The Whip, which went into the lead before the half mile post was reached, closely pursued by Cabellsdale and Leonardeau, with Satisfy, the favorite, also close up. Watters rated Cabellsdale nicely during the early part of the journey and the gelding closed stoutly in the stretch run to wear down The Whip in a game finish.

MISTENFLUTE	148	3	3	6	6	6	Lost rider.		Thorndike	2.60

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SPECKLED BEAUTY II, $12.90, $6.70, $4.10; KING'S OWN, $6.50, $3.60; LORENZO, $2.70.

SPECKLED BEAUTY II, steadied in pursuit of FLOWER ROCK for the first mile, took an easy lead after clearing the ninth fence, opened up a commanding lead and finished with much to spare. KING'S OWN, reserved in the early stages, closed gamely, but could not bother the winner. LORENZO was never able to reach the leaders. MYRTHUS faltered in the last half mile. FLOWER ROCK stopped badly after a mile. MISTENFLUTE hit the eleventh fence and lost rider.

SPECKLED BEAUTY II FINISHES FIRST IN CHASE.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 2:46. Off at 2:47½. Winner, H. C. Hatch's b. f. (4), by Balgneur—Norther. Trained by L. Gentry. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23, 0:47 3-5, 1:12 1-5.

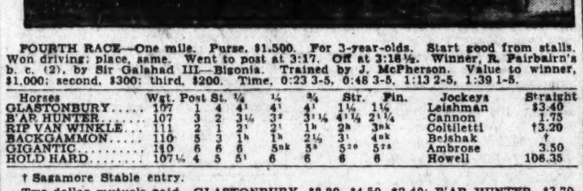
Two-dollar mutuels paid—FRENCH LASS, $4.40, $3.00, $2.40; LAMP BLACK, $3.90, $3.30; MY SIS, $3.90.

FRENCH LASS, going forwardly and having good speed, reached LAMP BLACK when approaching the turn, took command moving into the home stretch and had something left at the end. LAMP BLACK, rushed to the front soon after the break, saved ground and held on well in the final drive. MY SIS was never able to improve her position. OESEL was held safe. LADY CAPULET could not threaten the leaders.

FRENCH LASS WINS THE THIRD, OO LA LA.



FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,500. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:17. Off at 3:18½. Winner, R. Barbarin's b. c. (3), by Sir Galahad III—Bigonia. Trained by J. McPherson. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $200. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:39 1-5.

† Sagamore Stable entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GLASTONBURY, $8.80, $4.50, $2.40; B'AR HUNTER, $3.70, $2.20; RIP VAN WINKLE, $2.10.

GLASTONBURY, rated along for six furlongs, secured racing room through a wide opening at the stretch turn, assumed command and outstayed B'AR HUNTER. Latter, in tight quarters for seven furlongs, was finally taken to the outside and closed stoutly. RIP VAN WINKLE and BACKGAMMON raced each other into defeat and both tired under a drive. GIGANTIC broke into the air when the start came, but lost little ground.

GLASTONBURY LEADS 2-YEAR-OLDS HOME.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $2,000. The Tuscarora. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:45½. Off at 3:46. Winner, J. E. Widener's b. f. (3), by Lake Meluka—Black Broade. Trained by J. Coyne. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $200. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 1-5, 1:13, 1:38 3-5, 1:45 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MR. SPONGE, $3.90, $2.50, $2.10; HOT TODDY, $2.80, $2.20; DINAH DID UPSET, $2.90.

MR. SPONGE raced under slight restraint first half mile, moved up stoutly rounding the far turn and drew away into a long lead entering home stretch. HOT TODDY was sent through on inside at half mile pole to be blocked and knocked back, was taken wide entering home stretch and finished in courageous fashion. DINAH DID UPSET could not keep pace when collared. BOOT TO BOOT was outrun. MIRBAT closed a big gap.

MR. SPONGE SOAKS UP THE PURSE IN FEATURE.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:15½. Off at 4:16. Winner, Mrs. James Arthur's ch. c. (3), by Bondage—Freesy Sneesy. Trained by J. P. Mayberry. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:39 2-5, 1:45 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BERBER, $13.80, $5.40, $3.10; RACCOON, $2.80, $2.60; OUTPOST, $4.30.

BERBER dropped out of early contention, made up ground steadily when called on, came around the outside and, finishing gamely, was up in the last sixteenth. RACCOON tiptoed from the start and, forced to sprint to race MA BELLE into submission, had a lot taken out of him and weakened when reaching the home stretch. He would have probably been winner with a more intelligent ride. OUTPOST, far back for six furlongs, closed resolutely. PIOUS weakened after getting to the leaders. ROCKET GLARE had no mishaps. MA BELLE quit.

BERBER WINS PELT FROM RACCOON IN SIXTH.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:46. Off at 4:47. Winner, H. Baker's ch. g. (5), by Gnome—Lydia A. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:41 2-5, 2:06 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CABELLSDALE, $10.80, $6.60, $4.00; THE WHIP, $5.70, $4.30; DADDY NELSON, $5.30.

CABELLSDALE was rated along under slight restraint until making turn into home stretch, where he moved up stoutly, wore THE WHIP down and outgamed him in final drive. TILDEN made a couple of runs with THE WHIP. Latter was probably best and would have won with more intelligent ride. DADDY NELSON came back with a much improved performance.

Racing Mourns Whitney; Triumphs on Turf Many

Horses of New York Owner Withdrawn From Laurel Races, Jockeys Cancel Mounts; Extolled by Officials.

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 27.—The death of Harry Payne Whitney in New York last night came as an earthquake to racing circles in Maryland, where his racing colors were the emblem of fairness and sportsmanship.

Racing organizations are planning immediate action in expression of their sentiments over the greatest blow to racing since the death of his father, W. C. Whitney.

A large division of the Whitney Stable has been wintered for years at Benning, just outside of Washington. It was here that Equipoise, leading 2-year-old, was developed. The center of the Whitney breeding activities is in Kentucky, but Brookdale Farm in New Jersey remains an important factor.

Mr. Whitney raced divisions of his large stable in New York, Maryland, Kentucky, Illinois and Canada, where he had won almost every important stake. Twice he won a Preakness, and twice a Derby, and twice a Futurity. His greatest horses in the stud have been Broomstick, founder of a great line; Whisk Broom II, Pennant, Chicle and Bunting.

Mr. Whitney owned Regret, the only filly that ever won a Kentucky Derby. A short time before Regret was to break a racing precedent, Mr. and Mrs. Whitney, in the Churchill Downs Clubhouse, Louisville, received a wire giving the first news of the death of William K. Vanderbilt in the Titanic sinking. They left the race track before the race. It was a year or so later that a turf writer who had accidentally spied an entry at a little bank that was in the extreme corner of the Churchill Downs enclosure, in the name of Mr. Whitney, corresponding to the amount of the Derby stake won by Regret, informed the sportsman. It proved to be the Regret stake, deposited by the late James Rowe, trainer, and, in the excitement over the Titanic disaster, entirely forgotten by Mr. Whitney.

The death of Mr. Whitney yesterday in New York is an irreparable loss to the turf, said President Andrew J. (Cy) Cummings, president of the Maryland State Fair, Inc., which is conducting the present meeting. Mayor Frank Hayes of Waterbury, Conn.; Edward Riley Bradley, master of Idle Hour Stud, in Kentucky; Bill Bringloe, trainer of the Seagram Stable, of Waterloo, Ont., leading money-winning establishment in Canada for years, and other prominent turfmen now attending this meeting echoed President Cummings' sentiments.

Mr. Whitney's Halcyon, in the fourth race, and Crazy Coot, in the third, were withdrawn today. Workman and Robertson, jockeys in the Whitney employ, cancelled all of their mounts. Tom Healey, Whitney trainer at the New Jersey farm, ordered the withdrawals. The Laurel flags were at half-staff.

The Whitney horses won in stakes and purses from 1913 to 1929, inclusive, $3,039,964. It is doubtful if his large stable made expenses. His stable was second to William Woodward's this year up to the beginning of the Laurel meeting.

NAVY STARS TO BOLSTER MARINES FOR GAME HERE

Western Maryland Is Promised Fight Saturday Night.

Devil Dogs Hope to Snap Terrors' Winning Streak.

WASHINGTON grid fans who like their football rough and tough ought to get their fill of their wishes Saturday night, when the battling United States Marines stack up against the crack undefeated Western Maryland College eleven in Griffith Stadium at 8:15 o'clock.

Local fans are well aware of the power of Harlow's team. Its record speaks for itself, but, besides this, plenty of them have seen the Westminster players hang defeats on Georgetown the last two years. Last year this game was played on the Hilltop, but this year the Terrors, who are rated two touchdowns stronger than last year, walloped the Hoyas over in Baltimore, so their lone appearance here will be the magnet for a record turn-out of fans for the season.

Keady Has Strong Team.

The question on the minds of most local grid dopesters is, just what have the Marines got to throw into the battle against the Terrors? No direct line of dope is available on the Devil-Dogs, but a perusal of the personnel of their squad will speedily satisfy even the most skeptical that Coach Keady has a team that is capable of giving any eleven a real battle.

There are three outstanding members of the Marine outfit whose names are household words in grid annals in this section of the country. And it is upon this trio that the service team's supporters are counting to halt the sensational unchecked march of the Terrors. In their order, the trio are Lieuts. Dave O'Neill, Russell "Whitey" Lloyd, both backs, and O. K. Pressly, center.

Both O'Neill and Lloyd are former stars at Navy. The latter is the better known of the two because of his starring feats no later than last year. However, Coach Keady rates O'Neill a much better performer than Lloyd, who may not even get into Saturday's game. O'Neill, while at the Naval Academy, was the victim of a hard luck jinx that kept him from showing his true worth.

Injuries Hurt Chances At Annapolis.

The bugaboo of his career at Annapolis was injuries which always occurred just before the big games, otherwise this lad would be rated right alongside Tom Hamilton and other traditional Middy heroes of the past, Coach Keady declares. He is now in great physical shape, much to the sorrow of opponents who have tried to halt his driving advances.

Besides starring as the offensive power of the Marines, O'Neill is one of the biggest cogs in their rock-like defense. He backs up a line like a dream backer-up, always sizing up plays of the opponents before they even get under way and he shoots over to the attacking spot and crashes his man with all the power of a locomotive running wild down hill.

Pressly Stars on Defense.

Now a word as to Pressly. This 6 foot 2 inch giant who packs 190 pounds in his rangy frame is the Gibraltar of the Marine defense. Just two years ago he was starring as the pivot man in the line-up of Davidson College. He was such a star on that obscure team that the great Peter Pund, captain of Georgia Tech's 1928 national champions, just nosed him out in the vote for all-Southern center by men who were familiar with each player's ability, for these men had seen both in action much more than did those who balloted in favor of Pund for all-American center.

Well, Pressly is now an even better performer than he was then. Unprejudiced observers are unanimous in the opinion that he is the superior of any center now doing business on any team in this section of the country, be he anything but a member of one of the professional teams in the National Pro League. Keep your eye on this big boy Saturday night and you'll get a swell idea of how a real center handles that all-important job to perfection.

Soccer at Haverford College Started in 1902

Special to The Washington Post.

Haverford, Pa., Oct. 27.—Haverford College's soccer history dates back to the spring of 1902, when for the first time the Main Liners organized an association football team. During the first few years soccer was ranked as only a minor sport, but by 1905 the game at the Main Line institution had attained some importance, and the team played a schedule of ten games, including its first two intercollegiate matches. Both were played with Harvard, and the Scarlet and Black emerged from both contests victorious. Association football gradually grew in importance, and by 1909, when it was rechristened "soccer," an intercollegiate league, including Columbia, Cornell, Harvard, Haverford, Pennsylvania, Princeton and Yale, had been formed.

FORT WASHINGTON SEEKS GAME.

The Fort Washington gridders are without a game for next Sunday and would like to play some strong unlimited or 150-pound eleven. The Soldiers' manager can be reached at North 6867.

VIRGINIA HAS BEST TEAM READY

Regulars to See Action Against Maryland Saturday.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 27.—Virginia should be able to throw her full football strength into the game with Maryland, which will be played on Lambeth Field next Saturday afternoon. Five of the Cavalier regulars, Capt. Hunter Motley, Bill Thomas, Frank Sippley, Herbert Bryant and Buck Poss, were rested while the reserves battled Kentucky. And those who got into the game came out in good condition.

Capt. Motley developed a foot infection late in the week and by Saturday could walk only with pain. Thomas and Sippley, who were allowed to be rested the first of last week, were handicapped, the former with a Charley horse and Sippley with a bad bruise, when they did report for practice.

Regulars Saved for Hard Games Coming.

Earl Abell, head coach of the Cavaliers, decided just before the Kentucky game that with Maryland, Virginia Military Institute, Washington and Lee and North Carolina still ahead, it would be wiser to keep some of his best men on the bench all afternoon rather than risk losing them for the rest of the season.

The reserves gained a great deal of valuable gridiron experience in the play against Kentucky. During the afternoon the Wildcats used all their regulars but two. Five of the Virginia first stringers did not see action.

As a result of a sacrifice to the Wildcats the Cavaliers face the Old Liners and the teams that follow in excellent condition. Capt. Motley, Thomas, Sippley and the others should all be in good shape by the middle of the week. And they will be most anxious to redeem their reputation by downing each of the four teams still to be played.

Quaker Legionnaires Back Marine Eleven

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., Oct. 27.—Word was received here today from James David, commander of the Thomas-Roberts-Reath Post, No. 186, American Legion, of Philadelphia, that 3,000 members of his organization have reserved seats on the Marine side of the Municipal Stadium for the Quantico Marine-All College Star football game which will be played in Philadelphia on Armistice Day.

More than 50,000 spectators are expected to attend the contest, the proceeds from which will go to charity. Included in this number will be 5,000 marines from all parts of the Second and Third Corps Areas.

N. C. U. Netmen Upsets Covington at Pinehurst

Pinehurst, N. C., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Richard O. Covington, of Asheville, runner-up for the national junior tennis championship in 1928, and seeded No. 4 in the Midsouth tournament being played here, today bowed to Philip Liskin, of New Rochelle, N. Y., an unheralded University of North Carolina student, who stroked him out of competition in straight sets, 8—6, 8—4.

Covington, who paired with Jacquin T. Brugnon to capture the north New England doubles title last summer and then toured the European tournaments with the French star, was caught off his game today and his young college rival experienced little trouble in defeating him.

The Covington-Liskin match was the only contest played in the first round. Ed Yoemans, Washington, won by default from Nelson C. Hyde, Syracuse, N. Y., and the other entries advanced by the grace of byes.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 27.—The Cardinal Athletic Club Baseball Team was tendered a reception last night by President Breen at his residence, 1322 King street.

Short talks were made by Business Manager Sam De Vaughan, Capt. Buddy Zimmerman and others. Plans for the 1930 baseball season were discussed.

It was announced that Don Purvis and Buddy Zimmerman were winners of the gold lapel buttons for hitting and scoring the most runs.

The Alexandria High School Football Team is putting in hard licks this week to be set for its second conference game when it opposes the Washington-Lee High School Team in Ballston next Friday. A victory for the "Twins" will place them in a commanding position in the third District League. Last week the Alexandrians won from Warrington, while Fredericksburg defeated Washington and Lee High.

The Alexandria Bluebirds defeated the Virginia Highlands A. C., 14-0, in yesterday's game. Joe Bayliss starred for the winners.

Manager Camden, of the Del Ray A. C., has called an important practice for each night this week to be ready Sunday for the game with the Petworths.

The St. Mary's Celtics will oppose the Seaman Gunners in next Sunday's attraction.

Episcopal High School tossers will oppose the Gilman County School in one of the letter games of the season in Baltimore next Saturday. The Maroon and Black Team will be bidding for its sixth consecutive victory.

Fishburne Grid Star Breaks Collarbone

Special to The Washington Post.

Waynesboro, Va., Oct. 27.—Fishburne Military School football hopes were given a severe jolt this afternoon when Harry Martin, star half back for three seasons, broke his color bone in scrimmage. He was removed to the University Hospital in Charlottsville, his home town.

Martin, a letter man in four branches of sport, has been starring this year as a passer and line player and has been a tower of strength on the defense. His loss from the line up will materially weaken Fishburne for its four most important games of the season.

Bucknell Preparing For Penn State Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Lewisburg, Pa., Oct. 27.—The annual cry of "Beat Penn State" went up at the Bucknell Stadium today as the Bisons started their drills for the game with the Lions here Saturday afternoon in the homecoming feature. It was no Monday for rest.

Cripples seemed to be not so crippled as they hobbled about and Trainer "Doc" Hoskins said it was because "the men think they are better because they want to play against State." And Hoskins should know, for he is a veteran of 40 years in the handling of athletes, having been connected with Bucknell, Penn State, and the Pittsburgh Athletic Club before he went to the Cincinnati Reds as trainer 20 years ago. Hoskins is back with Bucknell for the football season, and no one will be more interested in Saturday's encounter.

The return of Merle Stonebraker, one of the outstanding wingmen developed at Bucknell under the Snavely regime, was a cause for increased hope today. Stonebraker has been out since the first week in October. Louis Mutzel and Clyde Miller, injured guards, are expected to be ready for hard workouts Wednesday.

On account of a difficult November schedule, Coach Snavely can no longer point his Bucknell team for the game with State. Neither can Higgins prepare the Lions for this game alone, but the natural rivalry and color will cause the players to "point themselves." All summer, at State College the word has gone around that "State must beat Bucknell," in order to retaliate in some measure for the three straight Bison victories. Bucknell is so pleased with success over Penn State that she wants more success.

CUE TOURNEY PROGRESSES THIS WEEK

Four Sectional Finals Listed; Natalie in Feature.

WITH the eight divisional winners decided in the four pocket billiard championship sectional tournaments, plans have been completed for the four sectional finals which will be played on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights. All final matches will be at 300 points, played in three blocks of 100 points each.

The Eastern sectional final will be played at Reading, Pa., and the players will be Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia, South division winner, and Arthur Woods, of New York, winner of the North division.

The Western sectional final will be played at Oakland, Calif., and the players will be Spencer Livsey, of Los Angeles, the South division winner, and Thomas Boatman, of Portland, Oreg., the winner of the North division. Livsey won the 1929 Western sectional.

The Northern sectional final will be at Peoria, Ill., and will bring together Pasquale Natalie, of Chicago, West division winner, and Marcel Camp, of Detroit, East division winner. Camp won the 1929 Northern sectional.

Southern Final At Memphis.

The Southern sectional final will be at Memphis, Tenn., and will be between Bennie Allen, of Kansas City, the North division winner, and James Thompson, of Tampa, Fla., South division winner. Allen is a former world's champion.

The competition in each sectional final is certain to be keen, as the division winners proved their class in qualifying for the final. One final which will attract more than ordinary interest will be between Natalie and Camp. Natalie developed Camp while instructing in Detroit. It also was Natalie who beat Camp in the final game of the 1929 world's championship tournament, dropping Camp to fifth place and depriving him of a chance to finish among the first four.

Each sectional winner will qualify to compete in the world's title tournament at Dwyer's Recreation in New York in December.

Marines and Mohawks Will Meet November 19

The Quantico Marines and the Mohawks will play in Griffith Stadium on Sunday, November 16, it was announced last night.

The Marines, coached by Capt. Frank Goettge, have not dropped a game in the past two seasons and have scored three wins in as many games this year.

Royal Julian Lands Feature at Latonia

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Royal Julian, W. H. Whitehouse's consistent 6-year-old campaigner, added another purse to already impressive 1930 score when he accounted for the Avondale purse, feature event of a rather mediocre program here this afternoon. At the finish, his margin was one length over J. W. Parrish's Rolled Stocking, which in turn beat Ben Machree a length and a half for the place.

An odds-on choice with the punters, Royal Julian gave his supporters cause for some concern during the early running as Rolled Stocking blazed the way for the first mile of the mile and sixteenth journey with a three-length advantage. The waiting tactics of Jockey J. McCoy proved a big factor in the ultimate success of the Whitehouse horse, however, as he picked up the tiring leaders in the run through the stretch and won with something in reserve. Rolled Stocking, although quitting badly, managed to stall off the fast closing Ben Machree.

AMERICAN U. FACES BIG TEST

New Line-Up Planned for St. John's Game Saturday.

STILL showing effects of a battering received from Atlantic University last Saturday at Virginia Beach, the American University Football Squad yesterday was given a day of rest by Coach Walter Young. Practice for the St. John's game at Annapolis this Saturday—probably the hardest contest on the Eagles' 1930 schedule—will be begun this afternoon with Young making some changes in his line-up.

Atlantic U. proved to be much stronger than American had anticipated, the surprise coming in view of the fact that Atlantic was organized only two months ago. According to Coach Young, the Seashore Eleven is above the Eagles' class right now and will not be on his schedule next year.

Hoover and Hendrick Get Guard Posts.

Although the opposition was too strong for American, Young was not satisfied with the work of his players. He plans to install Hoover and Hendrick as regular guards in place of Denit and Foiston and shift Denit to center in place of Lytle

Dick Jarvis, end, was injured last Saturday and probably will be out for the remainder of the season. His position will be taken by Chates, who has not performed in a game as yet. Borsari, quarter back, also was injured in the Atlantic contest and will be supplanted by Clark, a freshman. Fuchsle will replace Olson at one half back, and Diehl, full back, will call signals in addition to handling his regular duties, according to other plans of the coach.

The St. John's game will be played in the morning so that both squads may view the Navy-West Virginia game which will be held Saturday afternoon.

Ribas and Cutler Show Billiards Skill Here

District billiard enthusiasts are in for a treat tomorrow afternoon and night when Isidro Ribas, of Spain, and Albert G. Cutler, of New York, will perform in the first exhibition of the local season involving 18.2 balk-line, three-cushion and pocket billiards. The performances are at 3 o'clock and 8 o'clock at the Lewis & Krauss parlors.

Regarded internationally as one of the greatest trick and fancy shot cueists of all time, Ribas has been touring through South and Central America with Cutler, a noted referee and former junior 18.2 balk-line champion.

Sun Mission Proves Consistency at Empire

Empire City Race Track, Oct. 27 (A. P.).—Sun Mission, the most consistent horse racing in the East, scored another victory when he led home a good field of handicap platers in the Fearnaught Handicap, mile and seventy yards dash, feature of today's card. He carried 123 pounds and made a show of his field, winning by two lengths. Sun Mission was a 11-to-5 second choice, while Moine was played down to favoritism at 9 to 5.

The start was good and Sandy Ford rushed to the front, while Fisher kept Sun Mission in last place for the first half-mile. It was plain during the running that Sun Mission was best and could go to the top at the asking. He was going easily with Fisher holding him under stout restraint. At the top of the stretch, Fisher let out a wrap and Sun Mission responded by taking command, drawing away to win by two lengths. Sun Mission has started twenty-eight times this year and has won nine races.

G. U. to Stand on Line-Up For Michigan State Game

In support of his previously expressed satisfaction with Georgetown's performance against West Virginia last week Head Coach Tommy Mills yesterday stated that he contemplated no changes in his line-up for the Michigan State contest scheduled Friday night in Griffith Stadium.

The Hilltoppers reported for practice yesterday none the worse for wear in last Friday's clash, excepting Emile Bozek, whose shoulder was injured. It is expected that the peppery right half back will be back on the job for the forthcoming tussle.

Mills believes that Georgetown will give Michigan State a close fight. He is not alarmed by the Spartans' imposing record. This record seems to show that the Westerners will provide the sternest opposition Georgetown has encountered this season.

Coached in Rockne Style of Play.

Coached in the Notre Dame style of play by "Sleepy" Jim Crowley, one of the famous 1924 "Four Horsemen," Michigan State has yet to taste defeat. It can point with pride to a 14-7 victory over Colgate, conceded to be one of the most powerful elevens in the East, and to a scoreless tie with Michigan, strong championship contender in the Western Conference. In three other games, Michigan State has beaten Alma, 26-0; Cincinnati, 32-0, and Case, 45-0. The last mentioned had not been defeated prior to its meeting with Michigan State.

Reports from East Lansing say that the Spartans will have their full strength available. But, fortunately from a Georgetwon viewpoint, the Hilltoppers will enjoy the same situation. Joe Alenty, Phil Mooney and Bill Maczees, all backs, who were not ready for hard service against West Virginia, are once more in top form

Defeats May Affect Attendance.

Whether the successive defeats from Western Maryland and West Virginia will effect Georgetown's attendance Friday night is problematical. Sports fans generally support a winning team but quite often stay away in droves when that same team has suffered a reversal or two.

High school students holding cards of membership in their respective athletic associations will be admitted for a fee of 50 cents at the Fifth street entrance, it was announced last night by Gabriel Murphy, Hilltop graduate manager of athletics.

HORSE TRAINER DIES.

Chicago, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Clarence Brosius, 40 years old, a trainer at the Hawthorne Race Track, died last night in a hospital of injuries suffered when he was crushed against a gate by a runaway horse.

FIELDS BOUT CANCELED.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The Jackie Fields-Paul Pirrone bout scheduled for Wednesday was canceled by the Cleveland Boxing Commission today because of Fields' injured knee.

Boxing Is Restored by C. U.; Coach to Be Appointed

BOXING has been restored to the intercollegiate sports curriculum of Catholic University, The Post learned yesterday. This sport, along with swimming and baseball, was abandoned by the Brookland institution at the close of the 1930 spring term.

Arrangement of a schedule for the 1931 season is now under way, but as yet no contracts have been signed with rival schools.

The decision restoring boxing was reached only recently, The Post was informed, after an investigation by the present athletic regime showed that the sport could be conducted without placing a drain on the school's funds, this finding being contrary to that of the former athletic regime headed by Jack McAuliffe, who resigned early last summer.

Appointment of a boxing coach will be made following the close of the football season. Ted Mitchell, who directed the Cardinal mittmen for eight years, resigned from the coaching staff last May. Eddie Lafond, freshmen football coach and assistant to Director of Athletics Arthur J. Bergman, has been mentioned as a possible successor to Mitchell.

A strong nucleus for the 1931 team remains from last year's squad, which won three matches and lost one. Rocco Blasi, middleweight and captain-elect; John Pasquale, bantamweight; Harry DiGiacomo, featherweight; Chick Scuderi, featherweight, and Charles Stapleton, welterweight, are the holdovers from last season. Blasi has been defeated only once in two years of competition.

MOTOR BOAT DRIVERS SET RECORDS

31 World Marks Are Hung Up in Outboard Sport.

WITH all competitive records for experienced amateur and cash prize outboard drivers gone by the boards at the national outboard championship held at Middletown, Conn., October 12 and 13, boating statisticians are busy revising their record sheets for the opening of the winter racing season in California and Florida next month.

More than 150 pilots to the tiny shells from 22 States and 93 cities raced at Middletown for the laurels that go to the winner of a national championship. They set 31 world records in the competitive events and nine world records in the mile trials for speed. As some of the new records set were broken again in later events, only 14 of the 31 competitive records and 8 of the 9 mile trial records stood at the end of the regatta.

A. T. Griffith, secretary of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat Association and official referee of the championship regatta, announced after the races had been run that the championships will be held next year somewhere on the Pacific Coast.

Most Interest Found In Small Motors.

Although all types of outboard motors were used in the record-breaking races at Middletown, most of the interest centered in the performances turned in by pilots of the smaller motors in the Classes A, B and C. These drivers shattered the old records for the same classes with the greatest of ease and set up new marks from 1 to 4 miles an hour better than anything ever done before. In the short span of one year the Class A record has been increased from 25.50 miles per hour to 32.75 miles per hour, in competition. The Class B mark has been moved up from 39.47 miles per hour to 41.47 miles per hour in competition, and the C mark from 42.35 miles per hour to 44.77 miles per hour.

If this tendency for greater speed and efficiency in the smaller motors continues, many power boat authorities believe that the larger motors will lose much of their popularity and most outboard racing will be confined to Classes A, B and C next year. This belief is strengthened by the fact that most of the amateurs are concentrating on the smaller motors and it is the amateurs who are principally responsible for the popularity of the sport. The amateurs, incidentally hold at least one-half of the best marks made with the various classes of motors.

Fencing Team Planned At Virginia This Session

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 27.—A fencing team may be organized at the University of Virginia this session. A squad of more than ten men who have had previous experience with the foils are getting together with the aid of Dr. Allen F. Voshell as faculty adviser.

Not since 1923 have the Cavaliers been represented by a fencing team in intercollegiate matches. About ten years ago there was much interest in the sword play, but the sport was not officially recognized by the athletic association at that time.

PITT RESTS BEFORE GAME AT NEBRASKA

wounds left in Notre Dame's crushing victory last Saturday. Only two practices will be held before the team leaves Wednesday night for Lincoln and the coming battle with Nebraska.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The down-trodden Tigers of Princeton, without a major victory so far this season, rested today before starting work on the Chicago assignment for next Saturday. Jack James, sophomore back, was the only regular injured in the loss to Navy but he will be in shape for Stagg's eleven.

SAYS PEGLER

have very few remarks to contribute to the overemphasis. The good ones, if they are articulate at all, always feel the restraints of seemliness and modesty, and the teams generally are segregated by their own reticence.

Grange Made No Hit With Interviewers.

Once, at Urbana, Ill., when Red Grange was playing his last year, a delegation of sport writers was invited to meet the young man in one of his informal moments in a kind of barracks established at a country club, and discovered him, attired in a bath towel, sitting on the end of a table completely absorbed in a game of contest played with two dice. He was muttering over and over, "Joe dice; come on, you Joe dice," and, aside from a patient "Pleased to meet you," repeated without conviction to each member of the party, his manner plainly implied that the visit was an intrusion.

This is characteristic of football players, but the coaches, who are interesting or amusing characters, are much more informative, and that is why the coaches are emphasized far beyond the players at all times.

Having watched Albie Booth perform in five football games, I am of the belief that he is a football player that any coach would be very much pleased to have three or four of, or, anyway, one of.

WASHINGTON BOASTS OF HUFFORD

Fleet Half Back Is Rated One of Finest on Coast.

SEATTLE, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Imagine a deer running for its life over a piece of logged-off land and you have a picture of Merle Hufford, fleet-footed University of Washington half back, carrying a football through a band of opposing tacklers.

The "Milton-Freewater Splash" is considered one of the greatest grid players ever developed in the Pacific Northwest.

He is the whirling, weaving, dancing type of a ball carrier and has no equal in this part of the country when it comes to performing in a broken field.

Once past the line of scrimmage Hufford passes his interference like the wind, and from there on one witnesses one of the most thrilling stunts of football.

He has the knack of shifting at the right moment and often dances away from a would-be tackler just as you expect him to go down.

Starred in 1929 With Losing Team.

Although playing on an eleven that failed to win a single conference game last year, Hufford easily gained All-Pacific Coast half back honors. He was the unanimous choice of sport critics.

And the youngster who hails from the joint communities of Freewater, Wash., and Milton, Oreg., not only shines at carrying the ball but throws and kicks as well.

He is the main gear of the Washington line-up and does most of the punting and pass throwing for Coach Jimmy Phelan's squad.

Hufford's only weakness has been his defensive play and interference running. In high school the only thing he learned about football was how to run with the ball.

When not packing the pigskin he stood around and watched the game.

Since playing at Washington, however, he has picked up the other necessities quickly and now rates with the best in all departments.

C. U. HOPEFUL OF BEATING NEW RIVER

Fine Showing Against Duquesne Tonic to Cardinals.

THE luckless Catholic University Cardinals are hopefully looking forward to the game with New River State Saturday afternoon in Brookland Stadium with anticipation of chalking up their first victory of the season. Five times thus far Coach Dutch Bergman's players have battled in vain, the last being last Friday night, when they dropped a heart-breaker to Duquesne at Pittsburgh, 13 to 0.

From reliable sources, it is learned that Catholic kept the ball in Duquesne territory more than three-quarters of the game and should have been awarded a penalty for interference with a pass receiver on the Dukes' 5-yard line in the final period. Had they received the ball at that spot, the chances were great that they would have put over a touchdown to tie and possibly followed up with the extra point to win.

Great Game Against "Dukes" Pops Up C. U.

It was after they failed to get the penalty award that the Cardinals yielded another touchdown. One of Whelan's desperate passes was intercepted by a Duquesne back who returned it to the C. U. goal.

Having performed so well in the face of overwhelming odds (Duquesne was favored to win as it pleased), Catholic U. now is bristling with confidence of the right sort. The Cards feel that no obstacle is too big to overcome.

New River State, while rated a capable eleven, does not rank in Duquesne's class. It recently scored a 7-to-0 victory over Salem College.

Johnny Oliver, half back, and Ed O'Brien, tackle, were injured at Pittsburgh and may not be able to perform against New River State.

Rocco Blasi, converted end, played such a fine game at quarter back against Duquesne that Coach Bergman plans to keep him in his new position.

Buster Sheary, stocky Cardinal full back, was roundly praised by the entire Brookland coaching staff for his defensive work in the Duquesne contest.

Sheary Reminds Coaches Of Bronko Nagurski.

Bergman and Lou Gross, assistant coach, both of whom before this season were associated with Minnesota University, declared that Sheary's backing up of the line on defense was of a better quality than that of Bronko Nagurski, famed Minnesota full back of 1929, whose reputation was Nation-wide.

At one stage of the game Sheary made three successive tackles of a Duquesne runner for 5-yard losses.

13 STARS ON WHIRLWINDS.

Thirteen players from four outstanding 100-pound quintets last season compose the 1930-31 University Shop Whirlwind squad. They are Gellman, Gunn and Hurwitz, of the Ambassadors; Justiss, Martin and Sacks, of the Jewish Community Center Spartans; Kurland and Silverstein, of the Arcadians, and Bregman, Kemp, Kraft, White and Cherie, of the Griffs.

The Whirlwinds will be coached this season by Ray Roberts, Sid Amamuel and Frank Ciarrocci. The team will practice at the MacFarland Junior High School gymnasium.

STETSON WALKS THE FIRST TEN MILES!

A man is only as good as his feet. Youth crumbles at the foundation, not at the top. Why, then, should you, craving and utilizing all the silken amenities of life, endure periodic agonies of "breaking in" new shoes and a slow-up in your pace when it's all so unnecessary? You can step into a Stetson Shoe Shop today and into a PRE-WALKED shoe. You can cover the next ten miles without raising a blister, pain or pang. All because Stetson has wrought a comfort revolution . . . softened, flexed and limbered the fine imported leathers in its marvelous system of progressive shoe assembly. Machines, and not man, do the "breaking in." A master idea in shoe craftsmanship, yes . . . but what a blessing on your feet, so vital to your success! What size, Sir?

STOCKS MOVE AHEAD AFTER WEAK START

1,812,050 SHARES SOLD

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The action of the financial markets today lent encouragement to the cause of stabilization.

Stocks disregarded the failure of a brokerage firm, shaking off early heaviness and closing higher. Bonds firmed. Cotton added to last week's gains and although wheat declined the movement was far from violent. Corn improved slightly.

Today's case of insolvency involved a comparatively small house, but the market's serenity in the face of the news was in striking contrast to the bad epidemic of nerves that prevailed a week or two ago.

Prices reacted in the earlier hours, yielding 1 to 5 points under slow selling that was a continuation of the trend evident last Saturday. Since the week-end reviews revealed nothing new in the business situation, bears pushed out in some directions, especially the farm implement shares. Both J. I. Case and International Harvester touched new lows, the former breaking more than 8 points. A change in sentiment came with the turn into the final hour and pressure was withdrawn. Prices climbed readily and the previous declines were quickly recovered. Westinghouse made up a 5-point loss, while U. S. Steel turned a 3-point decline into a net advance of 1¼. Some of the gains ran as high as 4 points.

Dullness Features Market.

The feature of the trading was its dullness. Sales totaled only 1,812,050 shares, the smallest turnover in some time and below the volume of some recent Saturdays.

Railroad earnings statements were prominent in the day's news and showed up rather well. Fifty-one carriers reporting for September had net operating income 12 per cent in excess of August's, and although the decline from September, 1929, was 17.8 per cent, the comparison was considerably more favorable than in recent months. Some roads, notably Atchison, gained.

Brokerage circles revived the old game of guessing the U. S. Steel Corporation's earnings, to be made public after tomorrow's close, although forecasts of between $1.75 and $2 a share had been fairly unanimous. The company nearly covered its dividend in the first six months, so that the third quarter statement will show something to spare above that $7 requirement. Possibility of a $1 extra, which has been discussed off and on since early in the year, was also the subject of gossip; and notwithstanding the general belief that such a prospect was remote, some covering went forward on the theory that Steel's directors might have a surprise up their sleeves.

Rail Shares Move Forward.

Railroad shares were well represented in the net gains. Atchison and Union Pacific rallied 2, Erie and New York Central 1, and Texas Pacific 3. Standard industrials like American Can, General Electric, and General Motors were up about a point or two. International Harvester, 3 off at the bottom, finished 1⅝ higher, and Case recovered 3 points of its loss. Radio-Keith-Orpheum was strong, with a 2-point advance. Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, and Electric Autolite gained 4. Radio, heavy all day, was off ⅜, which was also the net decline in Standard Oil of New Jersey.

The drop in wheat, reflecting a bearish Argentine estimate and a disappointing increase in the visible supply, ranged from ⅝ to about 1 cent. Corn's ½-cent improvement was in response to a bullish private crop estimate and an unfavorable weather forecast. Cotton closed 40 cents to 80 cents a bale higher.

Continental exchanges eased, sterling sagging approximately ⅛ cent. The Canadian dollar moved upward to the neighborhood of the gold point.

Money was plentiful in the call market and available at 1¼ per cent outside, although the official rate held at 2.

BOND PRICES SCORE WHILE SALES DROP

RAILS UNUSUALLY QUIET

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The upward trend of bonds which developed last week after several weeks of liquidation was resumed in today's session to the accompaniment of the smallest volume of business in a fortnight.

The better grade obligations of domestic corporations in favor with institutional buyers were firm and United States Governments were generally higher. While some wide changes occurred among medium-grade rails and industrials, price movement of prime issues was generally narrow, reflecting the dullness of trading.

The buoyancy of Latin-American issues under the leadership of Brazilians again was the principal feature of the foreign bond trading. As sharp as was the almost unprecedented break in these bonds a month ago, the rally the last 10 days has enabled many of them to recover the largest portion of their loss.

Changes in South Americans.

Reports of a counter revolutionary movement in Brazil were followed quickly by government announcement that they had been quelled and Brazilians rallied sharply. Brazil 6½s advanced 2 points, Rio de Janeiro 6½s, 2½, and Rio Grande do Sul issues soared 2 to 10 points. Compared with a 1930 low of 47½ Rio Grande do Sul 7s of 1966 closed at 70¾, a net gain of 10¾ for the day. Argentine bonds were firm, and there were some rather wide gains in Bolivian, Chilean, Colombian, Peruvian and Uruguayan obligations.

Coincident with the new steps taken by the Cuban government to help stabilize the sugar industry, the Cuba 4½s rallied 4¾ points to a new 1930 high. The 5½s were steady. Continental European bonds were fractionally higher. Greek 6s reacted about 2 points.

Rails moved more quietly than in several weeks. Prime issues were fractionally higher, but bonds with lower rating continued to drift irregularly downward on a small turnover. Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, Illinois Central first 4s, M. K. & T. first 4s, Missouri Pacific 5s, F 1977, and Western Pacific first 5s gained more than a point. Norfolk Southern 5s A and Southern Railway General 4s both touched new lows for the year, while Illinois Central 4s, International Great Northern 6s, Erie 5s of 1975, and Central Pacific Shore Line 4s also sagged.

Utilities Generally Steady.

Utilities were generally steady. American Telephone debenture 5s and American & Foreign Power 5s firmed. Ohio Public Service 7½s reached 2 and Postal Telegraph 5s lost 1.

Widest changes among industrials were on the downside. Oil companies' issues were under pressure. Weakness was displayed by California Petroleum 5s, Colon Oil 6s, Fisk Rubber 8s, Houston Oil 5½s, Pure Oil 5½s and Skelly 5½s. Union Oil of California 5s, a warrant issue, was strong, and B. F. Goodrich 6s and Goodyear 5s rose a point.

Liberty fourth 4¼s duplicated the year's high in active trading. Other issues held an upward trend.

Offering will be made tomorrow of $1,250,000 5½ per cent note issue by the Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Inc.

STUDY LAUDS WORTH OF EUROPEAN BONDS

Moody's Investors Service Says Issues Are as Safe as Best Domestics.

LOWER-RATED LIST HIT

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

American investors who have purchased high-grade bonds of stable European countries have obtained the same measure of safety as those who have acquired comparable domestic obligations, an analysis by Moody's Investors Service has revealed.

The analysis cites the confidence displayed in certain European governments as responsible for the appreciation in the bonds of those countries, and points out that lower-rated bonds, including the majority of South American issues, have declined because less faith is generally felt in the basic credit factors involved. South American issues, however, particularly Brazilian bonds, have been much stronger following the coup d'etat in Brazil last week.

The yields on 160 representative bonds are compared by Moody's with particular contrast drawn between current yields and those in November, 1929, when the general level of bond prices was lowest, and March 24, 1930, the peak of this year. Domestic bonds accorded Moody's AAA rating have appreciated 7.72 per cent since November and 1.78 since March, while foreign bonds similarly rated have registered respective gains of 5.73 per cent and 2.49 per cent.

Bank Committees Named.

Personnel of standing committees of the safe deposit section, District of Columbia Bankers Association, for the new administrative year have been announced by Frederick H. Cox, Commercial National Bank, section chairman, as follows:

Committee on Standardized Safe Deposit Forms—William H. Harper, Washington Loan & Trust Co., chairman; Harry P. White, American Security & Trust Co.; Guy D. Cowl, McLachlen Banking Corporation; Miss Elizabeth H. Bogley, Merchants Bank & Trust Co.; William L. Ashdown, Northeast Savings Bank, and John D. Leonard, Washington Savings Bank.

Committee on Standardization of Safe Deposit Prattice—Albert E. Fisher, Riggs National Bank, chairman; Richard E. Harris, American Security & Trust Co.; C. M. Ashton, Munsey Trust Co., W. Clarence Miller, National Bank of Washington; John E. Woltz, National Metropolitan Bank, and Charles W. Haas, Union Trust Co.

Committee on education and publicity—Robert H. Lacey, Columbia National Bank, chairman; Arthur P. Miller, Liberty National Bank; Mrs. Helena D. Reed, Lincoln National Bank; T. Edwin Norris, Mount Vernon Savings Bank; John M. Boteler, National Savings & Trust Co.; Elmore T. Burdette, Potomac Savings Bank, and T. Hunton Leith, Security Savings & Commercial Bank.

November 25 is the date for the next regular meeting of the section.

B. & O. Rail Order Placed.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. is arranging for 75,000 tons of steel rail for 1931 delivery. The rails and track fastenings will be delivered during the first five months of 1931, and the order represents an ultimate expenditure of $4,800,000. Details regarding weight of rail and distribution of orders have not yet been concluded.

Vice President Edward L. Hillyer, Union Trust Co., is spending his annual vacation at Blowing Rock, N. C.

The advertising committee of the District of Columbia Bankers Association has been complimented for its success in cooperative advertising campaigns by both the American Bankers and Financial Advertisers Associations.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, ct. 27 (A.P.).—Net income of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad Co. for September was $3,024,110, as compared with $3,252,000 for September, 1929, Charles Jenson, comptroller, announced today. Total operating revenues were $12,322,021, as compared with $14,252,614 for the month in 1929, and operating expenses were $9,297,911, compared with $11,000,018.

The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes, in bushels: Wheat decreased 2,172,000; corn decreased 220,000,000; oats decreased 752,000; rye decreased 40,000; barley increased 4,000.

Cotton goods opened steady today, with fair demand for gray cloths for converting. Raw silk was higher in Japan and steady here. Wool laces were in demand. There was improved demand for small lot fall delivery merchandise. Rayon sales were limited to standard counts for spot deliveries to knitters and cotton weaving mills.

Raw silk futures closed firm, 1,030 bales December, 240; March, 238; May, 228; open market quotations (60-day bags), Shanghai steam extra B, 290; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, 195; Japanese double extra, 260.

Appalachian Gas Corporation announced acquisition of the remaining 25 per cent of the outstanding common stock of Texas Gas Utilities Co., making it a wholly-owned subsidiary. The acquisition was effected through the exchange of stock and involves no public financing.

Two New York Cotton Exchange memberships were sold at auction today. The membership of Clinton Logan was sold to Richard Harris for $19,100, and that of Mike H. Thomas was sold to Leigh M. Pearsall for $19,000. The sale at $19,000 was an increase of $1,500 from the last sale privately made.

The largest volume of construction projects for any similar period since the spring of 1929 has come to the Eastern offices of large contractor builders for estimates and figuring during the past three weeks, Lou R. Crandall, president of George A. Fuller & Co., a subsidiary of U. S. Realty & Improvement Co., said today. He added that the fact that the projects involve largely commercial manufacturing and other private buildings offers basis for the belief that "business is emerging from the doldrums" and that return of business confidence is manifesting itself.

R. C. A.-Victor plants at Camden, N. J., are reported producing 8,700 radio sets daily, of which about 300 are for export. Plants at present are employing 25,800 persons and it was said there has been no indication of a let down in demand from dealers and distributors.

The Magnolia Petroleum Co. and the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. today met a reduction of 7 to 38 cents a barrel in Oklahoma and Kansas crude oil, announced Saturday by the Standolind Crude Oil Purchasing Co., a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. The Magnolia Co. is a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Co. of New York. The new range of prices is from 53 cents to $1.19 a barrel, according to the gravity of the oil. The Mid-Continent cuts bring the price in line with recent reductions in North Texas crude.

Curb Review

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Curb stocks moved uncertainly in a quiet session today, but developed a firm tone in the late trading.

The market sagged during the morning, in sympathy with the big board, but losses in the main were narrow. Deere was a soft spot, dropping 3 points in sympathy with farm implements on the big board, but it rallied to close off only 1¼. Electric Bond & Share sold off a point, then rebounded to close net 1¾ higher. The day's total sales aggregated only 470,100 shares.

The utilities generally closed firm, although a few of the less active issues were lower, including Electric Shareholdings and Electric Power Associates A, down 2⅛ and 1⅛, respectively. American Gas & Electric, Middle West Utilities and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore gained a point each.

Natural gas stocks also pointed upward. Memphis sold up 1⅜ and Natural Fuel Gas 1½. Duquesne mounted ½. Oils, however, were still unsettled by the failure of petroluem prices to stabilize. Standard of Indiana and Vacuum gained fractionally, and Cities Service closed steady, but Gulf lost a point and Humble sagged ½.

A feature of the investment trusts was improvement in the Prince & Whitely issues, on publication of the earnings statement by the new management, indicating a liquidating value of $67 for the preferred and $3.51 per share for common. The preferred rallied 1¾ to 17¼, and the common 1½ to 1⅞. Goldman Sachs and United Founders advanced minor fractions, and others were quiet.

Industrials were largely neglected. Babcock and Wilcox gained 4, and Royal Typewriter and Bigelow Hartford 2 in a few small transactions.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

Erie.

B. P. F.—I am thinking of buying Erie. What do you think of the idea?

Answer—Erie, it is conservatively estimated, will earn about $2 a share in 1930. Gross earnings were the lowest for any similar month since 1924 and nearly 13 per cent under June, 1929. Profits for the year 1929 equaled $6.03 a share. A prolonged rehabilitation has put the property in good physical shape, and with any pick-up in general business earnings should be better.

Results for 1930, as a whole, however, are likely to be disappointing. It might be a good idea to wait until a change for the better takes place in the general industrial situation. Some of the railroads with a large fixed capitalization and a comparatively small stock capitalization may be forced to reduce dividends.

Briggs Manufacturing.

V. K. J.—What is your opinion of Briggs Manufacturing as an investment?

Answer—Briggs can not be regarded as an investment. The stock is highly speculative and not suitable for the investor. No dividends have been paid since 1927 and none are likely in the immediate future. Last year, Briggs earned $1.21 per share, while in the first half this year profits were $1.76. Continuation of this rate of earnings, however, is unlikely in the last six months, the improvement in the initial half of 1930 being due principally to the high production rate by the Ford Motor Co. during that time. Insufficient recovery is anticipated in the last half of the year to materially boost earnings.

International Nickel.

S. V. U.—I own some stock of the International Nickel Co., of Canada, and am in doubt as to maintenance of the present $1 yearly dividend. Can you advise as to the prospects?

Answer—Estimates of earnings for year 1930 are being revised downward, and it is doubtful if as much as $1 a share can be shown as a matter of fact, if is now calculated that earnings for stock will be no larger than 80 cents a share. Company is reported as reducing its operations somewhat now.

Copper production this year will be about 120,000,000 pounds, but low price of the metal precludes important earnings from this source. Unless there be a radical betterment in conditions between now and end of year, there appears reason to doubt permanency of present dividend disbursement.

Swift International.

I. E.—Have had my attention drawn to stock of Swift International, listed on New York Curb. What do you think of it?

Answer—This stock enjoys unique distinction of having its dividends paid in United States gold. The regular dividend has been raised this year from $2 to $2.50 annually, and recently an extra $1 was declared, payable November 15 to holders of record October 15. Company makes public no interim earnings statements, but inference to be drawn from raising of annual dividend rate this year is that a better showing will be made for 1930 than for 1929.

Net last year was $5,560,089, or $3.76 a share. Even in the present unsettled condition of the market, this stock possesses a considerable degree of attractiveness, especially as the yield from regular dividends alone at present approximates 7 per cent on the investment.

Formica Insulating.

L. G. V.—What is your opinion of Formica Insulation shares?

Answer—Net earnings for the first six months were equivalent to $1.03 a share, as compared with $2.75 for the initial half of 1929. The stock is selling for fifteen times indicated earnings for 1930 and its purchase does not appear warranted.

Pittsburgh & West Virginia.

P. D.—I would like to ask your opinion concerning Pittsburgh & West Virginia, especially as to outlook for present $6 dividend being continued.

Answer—This year's earnings, it is asserted, will be the lowest in a number of years, as indicated by fact that net operating income for first eight months was off 31.9 per cent from that of corresponding 1929 period. Probably not more than $5 a share will be shown for the stock, during the twelvemonth. This deprives the issue of considerable of the attractiveness it has hitherto enjoyed. While this is the condition at present, the stock has long term, speculative features that make it desirable to be retained over a protracted period.

Montgomery Ward.

W. C. H.—I am interested in buying some Montgomery Ward stock, largely because of the attractive yield at present price. Would conditions in this company indicate the possibility of discontinuing dividends in the near future?

Answer—If future dividends are to be paid entirely out of earnings, and if current estimates of income for the full

Rates Charged by Company Supplying Municipality Will Be Studied.

SEVERAL FIRMS SEEK JOB TO COST $25,000

Davison Hopes He Can Report Results to Commissioners in Near Future.

Survey of power needs of the District is expected to be begun under direction of District officials within the next three weeks.

Congress appropriated $25,000 for the survey, the purpose of which is to ascertain the exact present needs of the municipality for electric power and its probable future needs.

The survey is to be an exhaustive one and probably will continue over a period of a year and a half or longer.

Fair Rate Is Sought.

One of its purposes is to determine whether rates at which the Government gets electric current from the Potomac Electric Power Co. are fair and reasonable. SSome of the data, too, may have a bearing on future consideration of various proposals for development of Great Falls as a power site, although that question is not the primary one to be studied in making the survey.

Plans for the survey have been under study by Maj. D. A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, and Warren B. Hadley, electrical engineer of the District, for some time.

What decision will be made has not been forecast by either official although Maj. Davison admitted that he soon will be ready to submit definite recommendations to the District Commissioners.

Several Firms Seek Jobs.

Several concerns have bid for the survey job. Among them are the Public Service Institute of Washington, the Schofield Engineering Co., of Philadelphia; Burns & McDonnell Engineering Co., of Kansas City; Ford, Bacon & Davis, of New York, and Smity, Kynchman & Grylls, of Detroit.

District officials are understood to be giving careful consideration to various proposals made. Having been given the job to do by Congress they are anxious that it be done well and they want to have the work done in such a way that they can at least keep abreast of the development of the work as it is done so that they may know whether its general tenor will bring about a report which will satisfactorily answer the questions asked by Congress in authorizing the survey.

Husband Asks Divorce From Trained Nurse

Charging his wife with being unfaithful and naming a corespondent, Joseph C. Dodge, of Seventeenth street northwest near Riggs place, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to void his marriage to Frances V. Dodge, a trained nurse, of F street northwest near Twenty-first street.

Dodge charges that his wife deserted him in May, 1928, and went to Western, W. Va. Later, he alleges, she returned to Washington and lived for three days at a hotel with the corespondent. The couple was married August 24, 1921, according to the husband's bill. Attorney George A. Berry appears for the husband.

Woman Wed in Russia Seeks Divorce Here

The District Supreme Court yesterday was asked to sever a marriage bond entered into more than 20 years ago at Kolki, Russia.

Freida B. Perlmutter, of E street northwest near Third street, the plaintiff, charges her husband, Benjamin Perlmutter, of I street southeast near Seventh street, with infidelity and names a corespondent. The couple have two children. Attorney Crandal Mackey appears for the wife.

Navy Stages Air Pageants Celebrating Special Day

Crack Fliers Perform Despite Threat of Lowering Clouds; Tragedy Threatens When Parachute Splits, But Jumper Is Uninjured.

Despite lowering skies which threatened momentarily to drive them to earth, crack pilots of the Navy and Marine Corps yesterday contributed their part to the celebration of Navy Day. They were assisted by Army Air Corps pilots, who placed two bombers and two basic training planes in the air under the leadership of Lieut. M. B. Gardner, commander of the Navy's "three flying fish."

While thousands looked on a near tragedy was enacted between earth and sky during a six-man parachute jump when the chute worn by H. M. Hinninger, machinist's mate second class, split in half after he had leaped. Although he was the last man to leave the Ford transport plane from which the six jumpers leaped to earth, he was the first to land because of the excessive speed he gained when his parachute failed to hold air. He was uninjured.

Thousands of Washingtonians, apprised beforehand of preparations made by the Navy to place its fighting strength of the air on exhibition, were watching for the appearance of Navy planes and airships over the city. The rigid airship Los Angeles, floating slowly and majestically over downtown Washington, drew the attention of crowds on the streets, and many persons, cognizant of the ways of the air, wondered why the big ship was escorted by a formation consisting of two Army bombers, two Army basic training planes and one Navy fighter. Inquiries at both Bolling Field and the Naval Air Station elicited only the information that the Air Corps wished to "cooperate."

Although weather conditions were decidedly unfavorable for flying, the aerial program went ahead as scheduled. The stars in the air for the Navy were Lieuts. M. B. Gardner, Putt Storrs and F. H. Trapnell, members of the three-man stunt team developed during the last few months at the Anacostia Naval Air Station. This team, known as the "Three Flying Fish," specializes in formation flying upside down, and made its first public flight in Washington yesterday.

One of the team's most difficult and spectacular stunts is a "section roll." This is accomplished when the three planes roll from normal position into inverted position as a unit. The maneuver is performed as smoothly as it might be by one plane alone.

Six Marine Corps pilots, led by Lieut. L. H. Sanderson, added to the fine flying with tactical maneuvers in formation. They put their Curtiss Hawks through their paces with a precision which brought unheard applause from the crowds who stood in the chill October air to watch them.

The Navy's "tin bubble," the all-metal airship ZMC-2, also visited Washington as a part of the celebration. It did not make a landing but, after circling the city, flew on to its base at Lakehurst, N. J., by way of Alexandria, Va., and Annapolis, Md.

Couple Renew Old Vows At Golden Wedding Fete

Children, Grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. William Ryan Are Present.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ryan, of 4110 Wisconsin avenue northwest, who last night celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Stanley Wolfe, 6401 Maple avenue, Chevy Chase, Md.

The happiest moment in two persons' lives was lived over again when Mr. and Mrs. William Ryan celebrated their golden wedding anniversary before a gathering of relatives and friends at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Stanley Wolfe, in Chevy Chase last night.

While Frank Evans, of Chevy Chase, sang "Oh, Promise Me," the couple renewed the vows of long ago, surrounded by their children and grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryan make their home with their son, Edgar Ryan, at 4110 Wisconsin avenue northwest. They were married 50 years ago yesterday in Philadelphia. Mr. Ryan is 85 years old and Mrs. Ryan 74. He is a former employe of the Post Office Department.

The couple's seven granddaughters, thte Misses Betty Lum, Margaret Lum, Nancy Lum, Elizabeth Middlemas, Jean Wolfe, Ellen Ryan and Ann Ryan, served the wedding cake, cut by Mrs. Ryan.

The living children are Edgar Ryan and Mrs. Stanley Wolfe, of Washington; William Ryan, jr., of Seattle, and Gerald Ryan, of New York ity. There are nine grandchildren.

Mrs. Wolfe's home was decorated with autumn leaves for the occasion. The couple received many gifts. Mrs. Ryan made a beautiful "bride" and Mr. Ryan a handsome "groom" in a joyous setting of gaiety and happiness.

Health Committee to Meet.

The public health committee of the Washington Board of Trade will meet at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the Board of Trade headquarters in the Star Building, it was announced yesterday by Dr. D. Percy Hickling, chairman of the committee. Dr. Samuel Benjamin will discuss the cost of medical care.

POLICE TO STRESS COURTESY, CROSBY ORDERS IN POLICY

Commissioner Says, However, Patrolmen Will Be Firm in Executing Duties.

DETECTIVE WILL FACE BOARD TRIAL TOMORROW

Treasury Worker Accuses Mansfield; Burke Also To Get Hearing.

Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby, in charge of the police department, yesterday enunciated a new policy in his efforts to make Washington's police force a very courteous one.

Hereafter, Gen. Crosby said, men accused of discourteous treatment of citizens will be sent to the trial board and, is Mr. Crosby has his way, the trial board will follow its own presedent when it recently sentenced a policeman to be dismissed following convition on charges of abusing Representative Busby, of Mississippi. Gen. Crosby refused to comment on this case, adding that there still was time for an appeal before the sentence is passed on by the board of commissioners.

But, Gen. Crosby continued, the policemen do not have to "take it on the chin" verbally from irate and abusive citizens who berate them because the officer is performing his duty. Charges of disorderly conduct should be put against such citizens, Gen. Crosby said.

Mansfield Hearing Tomorrow.

"We want a tourteous and polite police force, but we do not want a buch of mollycoddles," Gen. Crosby said. "When a policeman is called on to handle a touch customer he can't he expected to handle him in the same gentle manner he would employ in giving a ticket to some reputable citizen for some traffic violation. But we are going to have a courteous police force."

Detective A. D. Mansfield of the First Precinct was yesterday cited to appear before the Police Trial Board to answer charges of conduct unbecoming a police officer and unnecessary violence in making an arrest.

Charges against the policeman were preferred by Elsworth Grooms, colored employe of the Treasury Department, who charges that Mansfield beat him with a blackjack when trying to arrest him at Thirteenth and D streets following a collision between a truck he was driving and another automobile.

Burke Faces Trial.

Grooms was arrested by Mansfield and charged with assaulting an officer and blocking traffic, but the charges were dismissed when the case was brought before Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court. At the hearing three Treasury Department lawyers appeared in Grooms' defense, with more than ten character witnesses.

The Trial Board hearing will be held at the Sixth Precinct Station tomorrow, and at the same time William F. Burke, suspended policeman formerly attached to the Sixth Precinct, will also face the board on charges of intoxication while on duty. He is also scheduled to be given a jury trial before Judge Gus A. Schuldt tomorrow on the same charges.

Charges against Burke grew out of the alleged finding of the policeman sitting in a car near the precinct station in an intoxicated condition. He was found by Capt. William G. Stott, commander of the precinct, following a call to the station by residents of that section that the policeman was not able to perform his duties.

MID-CITY CITIZENS ARE TOLD PLANS OF NEW CITY MARKET

Two-Thirds of Center Mart Merchants Already Have Leased Space.

PRESIDENT SAYS RENTS ARE CHEAP AT PRESENT

Association Opposes Change in Rotary Left Turn in Traffic.

A new Center Market, which already has leased stands to practically two-thirds of the present dealers in the present city market, will assume the major functions of the present Department of Agriculture plant on January 1 without interruption, John Blick, president of the Convention Hall Market Association, last night told the Mid-City Citizens Association, in seccion at the Thomson Community Center.

Ridiculing published reports that about 1,200 persons would be thrown out of work by the Treasury Department order that the present Center Market must be vacated at the end of this year, Mr. Blick stated that 104 of the 169 merchants there had already signed leases to take stands in Convention Hall, which is at Fifth and K streets northwkest. Steps already have been taken to change the name of the market to Center Market after January 1.

150 Stands Still Unrented.

The Convention Hall and Arcade markets, moreover, still have 150 unrented stands that will more than take care of the needs of the other 65 dealers should they wish them. He added that the rents were as "cheap or cheaper" than those charged by the Government and that there is ample room for the farmers to park their vehicles and for the market to expand.

Approximately $150,000 has been invested in the new project and a modern cold storage plant now is being installed, Mr. Blick recalled that during the wrangle in Congress over an appropriation for a new city market that he and a group had offered to build a market at their own expense and to charge the merchants no more than the Government to operate it.

Walter M. Russell, chief engineer of the Washington Gas Light Co., explained the expansion program of his organization and answered questions relating to the reduction in rates.

Oppose Traffic Turn Change.

A report to the executive committee, that the association oppose the recommendations of the District traffic advisory committee in three particulars, was adopted. The objections were voiced against the cutting of the trees along New York avenue, between Ninth and Thirteenth streets, the substitution of the Hoover for the rotary turn, and the curtailment of traffic lights.

A. J. Driscoll was reelected president for the twentieth successive term, while M. T. Pimes was renamed for the eighteenth year. All other officers were also reelected. They are: Miss E. L. Grosvenor, vice president; G. T. Bowman, financial secretary, and M. E. Salsbury, secretary.

The association unanimously adopted a resolution to thank Mr. Driscoll for his long service.

Brokerage Partner Shoots Self to Death

Philadelphia, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Robert L. Zoll, 52, shot himself to death late today in the basement of the stock brokerage firm of Charles H. Bean & Co.

Members of the firm said Zoll had been a member of the firm of Charles H. Bean & Co. for about a year. They expressed the belief Zoll ended his life because of personal financial difficulties and said the firm's affairs were not involved.

Pair Held in Liquor Raid Under 'Gas Law of 1878'

Police Allege Tube Was Used to Divert Fuel for Still From Regular Pipes, So It Would Not Flow Through Meter.

John Lewis Aberson, 30, of Kensington, Md., and Myrtle Moore, 36, of First street near Q street northwest, were charged with violating the "gas law of 1878," manufacturing whiskey and illegal possession of liquor when members of the vice squad, under Sergts. N. O. Holmes and G. M. Little, captured a 150-gallon still at the First street address.

The raid came yesterday afternoon. Police say they found 375 gallons of mash besides the 150 which were "working" in the still; also 87 gallons of alleged liquor. This, they declare, was packed for delivery.

The charge of violating the gas law was made when the investigators found a tube was being used to divert gas from the regular pipes so it would not flow through the meter. The device could be detached and secreted on a moment's notice, the raiders reported.

Aberson gave his occupation as painter. The woman is said to be the wife of a former District policeman. Both were released from the Eighth Precinct on $1,500 bond each.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE BULLET-PROOF MR. DIAMOND.

("Legs" Diamond, notorious underworld character, although literally riddled with bullets in a New York hotel, has recovered rapidly and is reported almost able to leave the hospital.—News item.)

NURSE—Well, how to you feel, Mr. Diamond?

Diamond—Fine and dandy. I think it's made a new man of me.

Nurse—You look great.

Diamond—I really feel splendid. And to think how I always dreaded being shot!

Nurse—I know how it is. People just get the idea it's painful.

* * * *

DIAMOND—Loads of persons kept telling me that I ought to be shot, but I kept putting it off.

Nurse—It's a good thing you didn't postpone it much longer. It might have been serious.

Diamond (with a sigh of relief)—Don't I know it? I guess I was shot in the nick of time.

Nurse—I know how you felt about it. You didn't want to go through all the annoyances.

* * * *

DIAMOND—That's it. Well, anyhow, I let 'em shoot me and I must admit that it's made a wonderful change in my general condition. I feel like a different person.

Nurse—Didn't you have any idea how badly you needed shooting?

Diamond—Oh, I knew something was wrong with me. I hadn't felt right in years. But I didn't think it was a case that called for anything being done in such a hurry.

Nurse—You were an emergency case, I guess.

Diamond—Absolutely. They didn't even give me a chance to pack my bag.

* * * *

NURSE—Did it hurt you much?

Diamond—I hardly felt it.

Nurse—It's wonderful how they do things these days.

Diamond—Ain't it, though? All my life I had a terrible fear of being shot. Friends who had been riddled tried to tell me they didn't mind it, but I didn't believe 'em. There's really nothing to it. All you have to do is relax.

Nurse—It's all over before you know anything about it.

Diamond—Exactly. And they work so fast with guns these days that there isn't even a nerve strain.

Nurse—When they came to shoot you did you try to put it off?

Diamond—No. The minute I saw the guns I said to myself, "Well, they probably know what is best for me."

* * * *

NURSE—You don't have any more of those headaches you used to complain of, do you?

Diamond (elatedly)—Not a sign of 'em. I was shot just enough to cure me of everything and make me feel better than I've felt in years. Well, good-by, nurse.

Nurse—Where are you going?

Diamond—Oh, back to good old Broadway, big-hearted Broadway.

Nurse—But they may shoot you again.

Action Deferred On Gas Tax Boost

Proposal to Be Considered by Three Board of Trade Committees.

Action on the proposal to increase the tax on gasoline was deferred yesterday afternoon by the traffic committee of the Washington Board of Trade, after it had been decided to thrash out the question at a joint meeting with the finance and the streets and avenues committees.

Similar delay resulted on the proposal to increase the registration fee for passenger automobiles in the District. Theodore P. Noyes, chairman of the traffic committee, will arrange for the joint meeting in a few days. A higher gasoline tax and registration fee has been suggested by the Traffic Advisory Council.

Opposition has been voiced by the Washington Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants and Manufacturers Association. The advisory council has proposed an increase from 2 to 4 cents a gallon on gasoline and the doubling of the registration fee for passenger vehicles.

Man Freed on Charge Of Burning Woodshed

William L. Simms was acquitted by a jury in District Supreme Court yesterday on a charge of arson in connection with the burning of a woodshed belonging to Mrs. Bertha L. Schaefer at 343 N street northwest. The trial was before Justice Oscar R. Luhring.

Testimony introduced by the Government was to the effect that Simms, who resided at the house, became angry and set fire to the woodshed. Simms claimed that he kept his tools in the outbuilding and if he set fire to the place he did so accidentally.

Women Rum Violators Will Be Fingerprinted

Precinct commanders in the Metropolitan Police Department were yesterday instructed by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent, to have all female violators of the prohibition laws sent to the Women's Bureau as soon as they are arrested.

Arrested women will be fingerprinted at the bureau for the police headquarters criminal files. The order grew out of a general order sent out last week by Maj. Pratt reminding arresting officers that all liquor law violators must be fingerprinted.

Police Seek Blonde In Bad Check Cases

Police are seeking the blonde who has passed worthless checks on several grocers.

In one instance, she forged the names of Dr. Edward Cafritz and Miss Maryland A. Trimble to a check which Samuel Cohen, a grocer, cashed. Miss Trimble is a nurse at Providence Hospital.

Radio Stolen from Residence.

Robert A. Lavender, of 2614 Woodley place northwest, yesterday reported to police that his residence at that address had been entered within the past two days and a radio and loud-speaker valued at $100 were taken. A small amount of bedclothing was also missing.

Hotel Man, Long Ill, Dies at 71

Samuel Gassenheimer's Funeral Rites Set for Tomorrow.

Samuel Gassenheimer, former busline operator and hotel owner, died yesterday at his home, 1629 Columbia road northwest, after an illness of three months. He was 71 years old.

Born in Washington in 1859, Mr. Gassenheimer received his education in the local public schools. He owned a number of hotels throughout the city and was at one time president of the Red Star Sight Seeing Line. At his retirement, a short time ago, he turned his interests over to his son Lawrence, who now operates the Green Line Sight Seeing Tours and owns the Pennsylvania Hotel.

Mr. Gassenheimer married in 1886. His wife died about thirteen years ago.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in the chapel of Frank Geiers' Sons, 1113 Seventh street northwest, with burial in the Washington Hebrew Cemetery.

Man, Married 26 Years, Files Suit for Divorce

William R. Bladen, of Thirteenth street northeast near R street, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to grant him an absolute divorce from Goldie I. Bladen, of Sligo Mill road northeast near Eastern avenue, whom he married 26 years ago.

Bladen charges that his wife has been unfaithful and names a corespondent. The couple separated in May, 1929 and at that time Bladen introduced a divorce action, but it later was withdrawn. The Bladens were married January 29, 1904 and have four children, the eldest being 24 years old. Attorney Vivian O. Hill appears for the husband.

Club Will Give Concert At Neighborhood House

The Tuesday Evening Music Club, directed by Mrs. Frank P. Howard, will entertain for the Neighborhood House, 470 N street southwest, tonight. The program was arranged by the Kiwanis institutional entertainment commitee, of which Stphen H. Talkes is chairman.

It will consist of ensemble and solo music. Solos will be sung by Ina Holtzscheiter, Catherine Gross, Cecile Littlefield and Helen Neumeyer Perry. Donna Taggart will be the accompanist.

Pocketbook Containing $290 in Bills Missing

Mrs. Carter de Haven, a guest at the Hamilton Hotel, yesterday afternoon reported to police that while feeding pigeons in Franklin Park she lost or had stolen a pocketbook containing $290 in bills, most of them of the $50 denomination.

In addition to the bills, she reported that there were valuable papers in the pocketbook, and expressed the belief that it was picked up while it lay on a bench in the park

Woman Ends Life With Gas.

Ellen Stewart, 62-year-old colored woman of 1012 R street northwest, was found dead yesterday, with a gas tube nearby, Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt issued a certificate of suicide.

Mystery Surrounds Deaths Of Two Girls in Hospital

Cases Are Reported to Maryland Authorities by Metropolitan Police for Investigation; Died of Poisoning, Is Report.

The police homicide squad last night abandoned an investigation into the deaths of two young women at Providence Hospital late yesterday afternoon under mysterious circumstances.

District police dropped their inquiry upon learning that both women lived in Maryland. They reported the deaths to Maryland authorities for further investigation.

Josephine Vandino, 19 years old, of Capitol Heights, Md., and Susie Brown, colored, 20 years old, of Bladensburg, Md., are the dead women. According to hospital authorities, both died of poisoning.

Coroner J. Raysay Nevitt, who was called following the deaths of the two women, ordered their bodies removed to the District morgue pending an investigation into the cause of their deaths.

Before she died Susie Brown is reported to have told hospital authorities that she became ill three days ago, went to a physician, who immediately rushed her to the hospital. She said she was married, hospital officials declared, but the name of her husband had not been learned by police last night.

The other woman, Josephine Vandino, was brought to Emergency Hospital Sunday. Hospital authorities professed ignorance as to whether she was married or single. Police were endeavoring last night to learn the family connections of both victims.

NOVEMBER 17 SET FOR TRIAL OF FOUR IN SMITH CO. CASE

Justice Overrules Defense Motions in $5,000,000 Fraud Charges.

NEW PLEAS ARE FILED BUT HELD NO BARRIER

Even if Granted Hearing, to Start When Scheduled, Says Prosecution.

Trial of four former officials of the F. H. Smith Co. on charges of conspiracy to embezzle $5,000,000 of the company's funds and to destroy records is scheduled to get under way in District of Columbia Supreme Court, November 17.

This date was decided yesterday by Justice William Hitz when he announced he had overruled motions to suppress and demurrers to the indictment, filed by defense attorneys last week. This decision removed the last barrier to the trial, but defense attorneys on behalf of three of the defendants immediately filed additional motions asking that the Government furnish more particulars. Even if granted this new move will not delay the trial, it was declared by Nugent Dodds, special assistant to the Attorney General, and Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw. Argument on this motion is set for Thursday afternoon before Justice Hitz.

Four Are Indicted.

Former officials of the company named in the indictment are: G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board; Samuel J. Henry, former president, and C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, jr., former vice presidents.

Motions to quash and demurrers to the indictment were filed after Justice Hitz had ordered a jury to return a verdict against the defendants' 15 pleas in abatement to the true bill.

Trial of the pleas in abatement brought out sensational testimony. The defendants contended that the indictment was based on records of the company which it was declared were illegally obtained, charge being that agents of the Department of Justice in the guise of fire inspectors had entered the company's offices in New York City and seized records. It also was charged that a Government stenographer was in the grand jury room while the testimony was being given.

Record Burning Claimed.

A surprise entered the case when John Farquhar, a former secretary for Pitts, declared he had been instructed by Henry and Anadale to burn the records and that Pitts had verified the instruction. This testimony was not given to the jury, since by agreement of counsel the testimony had been taken as a deposition.

The indictment is one of many which have been returned in the District in connection with alleged operations of the Smith company. Charges contained in the other indictments include use of the mails to defraud and perjury in connection with the bankruptcy of the Hamilton Hotel Co. There also is an indictment in which Pitts alone is charged with embezzling more than $1,200,000. Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, of Maryland, and Daniel R. Crissinger, former Comptroller of the Currency, are among those named in the mail fraud bill.

Only Pitts, Anadale and Edwards joined in the motions for more specific particulars. Henry, through his attorney, Harry S. Barger, declared he was ready to go to trial on the present record.

Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert, R. H. Yeatman and Frank G. Raichle appear for Pitts, Anadale and Henry.

Pupils in Year Save $44,709.02

Schools' Automatic Tellers Result in Starting of 5,978 Accounts.

Washington pupils saved $44,709.02 during the last school year through automatic bank tellers, maintained in 49 school buildings. These machines are distinct from the school banks, operated in the high schools.

Figures compiled by Miss Jane McWilliams, supervising principal of the third division, show 22,335 boys and girls deposited money in the slot machine tellers. As a result, 5,978 individual bank accounts were opened.

Of the total saved in the tellers, $44,271.07 was deposited by white pupils and $437.95 by colored. Of the 49 schools using the tellers, 46 were white.

"Shop Early" Campaign To Start This Morning

The "shop early, mail early" committee of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association will meet this morning, to formulate plans for the campaign in the forthcoming Yuletide season.

Ralph Goldsmith has been appointed chairman of the committee by Mark Lansburg, association president. The object of the campaign is to get the public to cooperate with merchants and the Postoffice Department by avoiding unnecessary delay in purchasing Christmas gifts and dispatching them.

The idea, highly successful in recent years, has received the full indorsement of the Postoffice Department.
